PREFACE.

If this volume of THE GENEALOGIST is not so rich in destructive criticism as some of its predecessors, it is perhaps all the more fruitful in providing material for constructive genealogy, which after all is far more useful to the majority of our subscribers. The sixteenth-century Scottish document with which the volume opens is very interesting as a picture of life at the period when it was written, and Mr. Keith W. Murray's explanatory remarks help considerably to identify the different members of the historic house of Hamilton involved in the curious case it unfolds. "The Summons of the Prior of Hamilton to Parliament in 1340," will be appreciated by those interested in feudal records, whether genealogists or historians. The Rev. W. O. Massingherd contributes another of his valuable papers dealing with Lincolnshire genealogy, and raises a knotty point as to how far the evidence of juries in an ancient law suit can be depended upon on the question of relationship. Sir Edmund Bewley's article on the Pollitts of London-ferry and Chester is all the more welcome from the scarcity of information obtainable concerning families which migrated from this country to Ireland in the seventeenth century. Mr. Walter G. Renshaw, K.C., who, like Sir Edmund Bewley, is a new contributor to our columns, supplies a critical paper which, attacking a pedigree contained in Betry's Sussex Genealogies, and the older editions of Burke's Landed Gentry, also indicates the true line of descent of a well known Sussex family. "The Diary of Alexander Bennett," to which we are indebted to Mr. Cockayne, follows appropriately the Offley manuscript which appeared in last year's volume.

and though, of course, it deals with a much later period than does that unique document, its quaint language and useful genealogical details cause it to be well worthy of publication. Mr. Henry Wagner's Huguenot pedigrees are always popular with our readers, and his Silvester sketch is more than usual.

"The Summons of the Prior of Sempburgham to Parliament in 1340," will be appreciated by all who are interested in feudal records, whether genealogists or historians. The Rev. W. O. Housman contributes another of his valuable papers dealing with Lincolnshire Genealogy, and raises a knotty point as to how far the evidence of jurors in an ancient law suit can be depended upon on the question of relationship. Sir Edmund Beucler's article on the Politics of Londonbury and Chester is all the more welcome from the scarcity of information obtainable concerning families which migrated from this country to Ireland in the seventeenth century. Mr. Walter O. Renshaw, K.C., who like Sir Edmund Beucler is a new contributor to our columns, supplies a critical paper which, attacking a pedigree contained in Barry's Snakes Genealogies, and the other editions of Burke's Landed Gentry, also indicates the true line of descent of a well known Sussex family. "The Diary of Alexander Bennett," to which we are indebted to Mr. Corkyn, follows appropriately the Office manuscript which appeared in last year's volume.

and though, of course, it deals with a much later period than does that unique document, its quaint language and useful genealogical details cause it to be well worthy of publication. Mr. Henry Wagner's Huguenot pedigrees are always popular with our readers, and his Silvester sketch is more than usually interesting from the important positions to which more than one member of this refugee family attained in England.

During this year "The 4096 Quartiers of King Edward VII," which Mr. G. W. Watson has compiled with so much studious care, have been completed, forming a monument of patient and accurate research. Attention may here be drawn to the details on pp. 189, 190, of this volume which refer to the French ancestors of His Majesty through Eleanor Desmier, a subject upon which many mis-statements have frequently appeared in so called historical works both English and foreign.

The frontispiece to this volume consists of a finely executed portrait of Sir Alfred S. Scott-Gatty, whose recent appointment as Garter King of Arms has given unqualified satisfaction to all who are interested in the future of the College of Arms.

In words which must from annual repetition appear hackneyed, but which are none the less sincere, I desire to express my thanks to all who have lightened my editorial labours during the past year and to the subscribers for their long continued support of this Magazine.

The Genealogist.

AN INCIDENT IN THE HISTORY OF THE HAMILTON FAMILY.

In the Letters of Shakspeare here printed for the first time, we have an excellent specimen of a curious legal document peculiar to Scotland. Written in the quaint vernacular of this period, it records the marriage of Andrew, son of David Hamilton of Monkton Maize, and nephew of the notorious Bothwellhaugh, the murderer of the Regent. This Andrew Hamilton is mentioned by Anderson in his "History of the House of Hamilton." Beside the simple account of the tragedy as told by the mother, an eyewitness to the death of her son, there is an interest attaching to these letters in the identification and relationship of the principal parties. except in duplicate after reciting the document itself.

AN INCIDENT IN THE HISTORY OF THE HAMILTON FAMILY.

In the Letters of Slains here printed for the first time, we have an excellent specimen of a curious legal document peculiar to Scotland. Written in the quaint vernacular of the period, it records the manslaughter of Andrew, son of David Hamilton of Monkton Mains, and nephew of the notorious Bothwellhaugh, the murderer of the Regent. This Andrew Hamilton is unnoticed by Anderson in his "Memoirs of the House of Hamilton." Beside the simple account of the tragedy as told by the mother, an eyewitness to the death of her son, there is an interest attaching to these letters in the identification and relationship of the principal parties, which I shall attempt to elucidate after reciting the document itself.

The remaining three parties I propose to take seriatim, beginning with Alison Sinclair, incorrectly described by the notary as daughter and one of the two heirs of Patrick Sinclair of Woodhouselee. This Patrick, a bastard son of Edward Sinclair of Dryden, was familiaris servitor to King James IV,¹ who confirmed to him the lands of Spottes in the Stewartry of Kirkcudbright in 1513.² His career is noted by Mr. Roland W. St. Clair,³ who gives some interesting extracts from the State Papers relating to him.⁴ In 1520 the Queen Dowager refers to him as her "man of law," and later calls him her "trusty and true servant." He married twice. In 1509 he appears on record with his wife Margaret, daughter of John Gordon of Lochinvar,⁵ who had previously been married to Bartholomew Glendinning, younger, of that ilk.⁶ He afterwards married Elizabeth Stewart, relict of Mungo Home of Cowdenknows,⁷ and daughter (illeg.) of "Hearty" James, Earl of Buchan.⁸

He obtained a charter under the Great Seal, 25 Mar. 1529-30,⁹ of the lands of Castlaw, Eastraw, Milton and Woodhouselee, in Midlothian, and, with the exception of Woodhouselee, gave a charter of these lands in 1546¹⁰ to his son John Sinclair and his wife, Isobel, daughter of James Hamilton of Innerwick. John Sinclair in the charter is called natural son, but the following year is styled son and apparent heir of Patrick Sinclair "of the Spottis,"¹¹ from which and later designations it must be inferred that he was legitimate. He had issue two daughters and coheirs, Isobel and Alison, who in 1553 are called "nyces"¹² and heirs of Patrick Sinclair of Woodhouselee, David Hamilton of Bothwellhaugh being then their tutor.¹³ They were both married before 9 Feb. 1564-5 to two sons of the said David Hamilton, and in an action brought by them at that date are described as daughters and heirs of the deceased John Sinclair of Woodhouselee, who was son and heir of the deceased Patrick Sinclair of Woodhouselee.¹⁴ Isobel married James Hamilton of Bothwellhaugh, the assassin of the Regent,¹⁵ and Alison married

¹⁵ The harsh treatment of his wife is said to have been one of the incentives to the committal of this crime. The story is that she had betaken herself to Woodhouselee thinking her husband's forfeiture would not affect her inheritance. The Regent having given this property to Sir John Bellenden of Auchnoul, Justice Clerk, on his representation had her turned out "naked in a dark night in the open fields, where, before day, she became furiously mad" ("Memoirs of the House of Hamilton," p. 109; "Senators of the College of Justice," p. 91, etc.).

The remaining three parties I propose to take separately, beginning with Alison Sinclair, incorrectly described by the notary as daughter and one of the two heirs of Patrick Sinclair of Woodhouselee. This Patrick, a husband son of John and Sinclair of Dyrden, was recorded by the notary to King James IV, who confirmed to him the lands of Spottis, in the shewery of Kirkcubright in 1513. His career is noted by Mr. Roland W. St. Clair, who gives some interesting extracts from the State Papers relating to him. In 1520 the Queen Dowager refers to him as her "man of law", and later calls him her "trustee" and "true servant". He married twice. In 1533 he appears on record with his wife Margaret, daughter of John Gordon of Lathen, who had previously been married to Matthew O'Connell, younger of that ilk. He afterwards married Elizabeth Stewart, widow of Hugo Home of Cowdoun, and daughter (illeg.) of "Henry" James, Earl of Buchan.

He obtained a charter under the Great Seal, 25 Mar. 1539-40, of the lands of Gortlaw, Keshaw, Milton and Woodhouselee in Mithlchian, and with the exception of Woodhouselee gave a charter of these lands in 1548 to his son John Sinclair and his wife, Isabel, daughter of James Hamilton of Innerwick. John Sinclair in the charter is called natural son, but the following year is styled son and apparent heir of Patrick Sinclair of the Spottis, from which and later designations it must be inferred that he was legitimate. He had issue two daughters and a son, Isabel and Alison, who in 1553 are called "nyces" and heirs of Patrick Sinclair of Woodhouselee, David Hamilton of Bothwellburgh being their father. They were both married before 9 Feb. 1545 to two sons of the said David Hamilton, and in an action brought by them at that date are described as daughters and heirs of the deceased John Sinclair of Woodhouselee, who was son and heir of the deceased Patrick Sinclair of Woodhouselee. Isabel married James Hamilton of Bothwellburgh, the grandson of the Regent, and Alison married his brother David, of Monkton Mains, later of Bothwellhaugh, both of whom were outlawed after the battle of Langside. David, the father of the slain Andrew, does not appear to have been rehabilitated till after the date of the "Letters of Slains," which accounts for the absence of his name as a party. He returned to Scotland in Oct. 1584 in the retinue of Claud Hamilton, son of the Duke of Châtellerauld, who was ordered to remain with the Earl of Huntly until the King should appoint further, the Earl to incur no penalties for resetting the said Claud and his servants.¹ David Hamilton died March 1613.²

From the foregoing facts it is clear that the notary has incorrectly described Alison Sinclair, and that she was not daughter but grand-daughter of Patrick Sinclair of Woodhouselee. She died June 1618.³

The next person to be dealt with is Alexander Hamilton of Innerwick, whose pedigree it is unnecessary to take further back than to his great-grandfather, James Hamilton of Innerwick, who fell at the battle of Pinkie⁴ in 1547, having married Helen, daughter of Mungo Home of Cowdenknows, whose widow, Elizabeth Stewart, we have already shown, married Patrick Sinclair of Woodhouselee. He had, with other issue, Alexander, of Innerwick; James, who it is conjectured may have been of Westhall; and Isobel, married to John Sinclair of Woodhouselee. Alexander Hamilton of Innerwick, eldest son of James, died in Feb. 1558-9,⁵ having married Margaret, daughter of Bartholomew Home of Simprin,⁶ who died in July 1573, and had issue Alexander Hamilton of Innerwick, who died before 22 Mar. 1574-5,⁷ having married Isobel Home, "auld lady Innerwike,"⁸ leaving, with female issue, two sons Alexander Hamilton of Innerwick, party to the letters, and Hugh Hamilton, the "negligent" slayer of his kinsman, who had a grant of Creichness to him in fee, and his mother in liferent, 12 Dec. 1572.⁹ In the "Memoirs of the House of Hamilton" Hugh is confused with his nephew Claud, of Creichness, who was father of Sir Francis Hamilton of Killache, created a Baronet in 1628¹⁰ and served heir to his father 15 July 1637.¹¹ Alexander, of Innerwick, his elder brother, who was subsequently knighted, married three times, firstly, Aug. 1577, Margaret eldest daughter and one of the three heirs of Patrick Whitelaw of that ilk, whom he divorced 2 Dec. 1589,¹² secondly Alison Home who died Feb. 1591-2,¹³ and thirdly Christian his brother David, of Monkton Robins, later of Bostwickburgh, both of whom were outlawed after the battle of Langside. David, the father of the slain Andrew, does not appear to have been rehabilitated till after the date of the "Letters of Sines," which accounts for the absence of his name as a party. He returned to Scotland in Oct. 1581 in the retinue of Claud Hamilton, son of the Duke of Châtelleraune, who was ordered to remain with the Earl of Lennox until the King should appoint farther the Earl to incur no penalties for respecting the said Claud and his servants. David Hamilton died March 1613.

We now come to James Hamilton of Rouchbank who in the Remission of the Royal displeasure to the Duke of Châtellerault and others granted 2 Jan. 1565,² appears as "James Hamilton of Rouchbank callit goudy lokis."³ He was a younger son of Gavin Hamilton of Orbiston, eldest brother of David Hamilton of Bothwellhaugh, who was father of James and David, the husbands of the heiresses of Woodhouselee. In the Great Seal Register there are references to him as rector of Keringtoun [Carrington]⁴ and as James Hamilton of Rochbank alias Ormastoun or Orbiston.⁵

Together with Lord Seton, he assisted Queen Mary in her escape from Lochleven, and after the battle of Langside was taken prisoner and condemned to death, but afterwards pardoned, his estates being restored to him by the treaty of Perth in 1572.⁶ Later he was designed of Kilbrackmonth,⁷ and before his death, ante 5 June 1612, of Long Hermiston.⁸ He married Margaret, one of the two daughters of Paul Dischington of Ardrross, who with her sister Jean, wife of Gavin Hamilton of Raploch, was heir of line of Ardrross (her testament confirmed 31 May 1613),⁹ by whom he had issue James Hamilton of Kilbrackmonth, whose son and heir George was retoured heir of his grandmother Margaret Dischington in half the barony of Currie and lordship of Long Hermiston, 20 Aug. 1647.¹⁰

I have endeavoured to condense as much as possible the evidence necessary for the purpose of this paper, and have to acknowledge my indebtedness to Mr. J. Maitland Thomson, Curator of the Historical Department, Edinburgh, for many valuable notes and references. To avoid any confusion in the facts which I have attempted to collate, a table is added showing the connection between the Hamiltons and Sinclairs.

THE SUMMONS OF THE PRIOR OF SEMPRINGHAM TO PARLIAMENT IN A.D. 1340.

The L. T. R. Memoranda Roll for the fifteenth year of the reign of Edward III. has preserved the following particulars of the grounds on which the Prior of Sempringham claimed to be excused from attending Parliament, a claim in which he met with complete success, as the Patent Roll, part i, m. 9, of the same year proves.

It will be seen that the entry also affords an interesting and valuable record of the books and rolls in existence at that date, which were available, and which were relied upon as evidence in the inquiry.

As it may not be possible for all readers of The Genealogist to whom the subject may be of interest to refer to the original roll, the extract is printed in record type and in extenso.

HENRY FITZ COUNT.

Henry Fitz Count ("filius Comitis"), bastard son of Reginald (de Dunstanville), Earl of Cornwall, is treated by Courthope (who miscalls him Richard), and in the "Complete Peerage" as having undoubtedly enjoyed that title. G. E. C. quotes from the grant of Henry III in the Patent Rolls, under date 7 Feb. 1216/7, giving him the County of Cornwall to hold "sicut Reginaldus Comes Cornubiæ pater suus illum tenuit," and adds, "whereby he became Earl of Cornwall." I venture to think that this is at least doubtful, and certainly it is a stronger statement than older writers on the Peerage have felt justified in making. Brooke does not mention his acquisition of the Earldom, nor does Mills in his "Catalogue of Honour." Dugdale is of opinion that nothing passed to him by this grant beyond the barony or revenue of the county, and Planché in an article in the Journal of the British Archaeological Association, vol. xxxiii, though he speaks of him in one place as Earl of Cornwall, remarks later that it is "a nice point" how far Henry III's grant conferred the Earldom. In support of Dugdale's view I would point out that though Henry's name occurs several times in the Patent Rolls, and once or twice in the Close Rolls, between 1217 and 1220, he is never described otherwise than as "Filius Comitis" or "Filius Regnaldi," and the two passages which I will now quote, do not suggest that he was ever created or even formally recognised by the Crown as Earl. "Intimatum est consilio nostro quod H. filius Comitis assisam quandam de morte antecessoris capi fecit in Comitatu Cornubie sine precepto nostro et sine justiciariis ad hoc constitutis ex parte nostra, unde mandavimus ei ut a talibus desistat" [Patent Rolls, 17 Sep. 1219]. "Sciatis quod commisimus Roberto de Cardinan comitatum nostrum Cornubie et ideo vobis mandamus quod eidem Roberto tamquam bailivo et vicecomiti nostro sitis respondentes nec in aliquo decetero respondeatis Henrico filio Comitis, de hiis que ad nos pertinent in Comitatu illo" [Patent Rolls, 10 July 1220]. On the other side Henry is called Earl in a charter to the Priory of S. Nicholas, Exeter (of which I do not know the date), and Vincent undoubtedly regarded him as having been Earl, but even he speaks with some diffidence, calling him "Earl of Cornwall as I conceive," and adding, "For whosoever hath seen the Patent Roll, I imagine will not think otherwise than I do." Then he quotes Henry III's grant, and concludes, "Whether by these words in the Patent he was Earl of Cornwall I leave to other men to judge, to whose correction, with respect, I submit myself."

Vincent then gives the following passage from the Patent Roll, 4 Henry III (1219-20), directed to the people of Cornwall, "Sciatis quod Henricus filius Comitis nuper veniens in curiam nostram, sine licentia nostra inde recessit, nolens preceptis nostris obtemperare, sicut ei fuerat injunctum. Et ideo vobis mandamus firmiter precipientes quatinus eidem Henrico in nullo de cetero intendentes scitis vel respondentes." This gives a fresh reason, beyond that given above, for Fitz Count having fallen into disfavour, and also professes to take from him all rights which he had in the county. "Whereupon," says Vincent "(as it should seem) he stood in contestation with the King for the Earldom, but in the end"—"reddidit libere et absolute domino Hen: Reg: Ang: seisinam castri de Lauzauenton et Comitatus Cornubie cum homagiis serviciis et pertinentiis suis sicut dominus Johannes Rex ea habuerit . . . Salvo eidem Henrico filio Comitis jure et clamore quod clamat habere in predicto Comitatu ita quod Dominus Hen. Rex. Angl. justiciam ei inde exhibebit pro loco et tempore cum ad etatem pervenerit."

It appears to me clear that from 1217 to 1220 he enjoyed the fruits of the Earldom, and may, very possibly, have regarded himself as Earl; indeed, had he retained the favour of the Crown, he would doubtless have gradually been so recognised, and summoned as such to Parliament (as I conceive was the case with William de Valence, Earl of Pembroke, some forty years later). I think, however, that in the Crown's view he only held his position "during pleasure," and that there is no evidence that he was ever officially recognised, much less created, Earl of Cornwall.

VICARY GIBBS.

V. RICUARD LANGLEY, of Rathory Hall, at fourteen at his father's Inst. P.M. Will 28 Sept 1537, pc at York 2 Oct 1537. "I have a daughter and a son, my daughter of Thomas Beaumont, of Arford. They had issue—" grandam de morte antecessoris sui fuit in Comitatu Cornubie sine prescripto necesse de sine justiciis ad hoc constitutis ex parte nostra, unde mandavimus ei ut a talibus desisteret." [Patent Rolls 17 Sep 1219]. "Sciatis quod communibus Roberti de Cornubie comitatus nostrorum Cornubie et ibi vobis mandavimus quod eidem Roberti transsum dillivo et vicecomiti nostro suis respondentibus nos in aliquo desisteret respondere Henrico filio Comitis de his que ad nos pertinent in Comitatu illo." [Patent Rolls 10 July 1220]. On the other side Henry is called Earl in a charter to the Priory of St. Nicholas, Exeter (of which I do not know the date), and Vincent undoubtedly regarded him as having been Earl, but even he speaks with some diffidence calling him "Earl of Cornwall as I conceive", and adding, "For whosever hath seen the Patent Roll, I imagine will not think otherwise than I do." Then he quotes Henry III's grant and concludes, "Whether by these words in the Patent he was Earl of Cornwall I leave to other men to judge, to whose correction with respect I submit myself."

Vincent then gives the following passage from the Patent Roll, Henry III (1213-20), directed to the people of Cornwall, "Sciatis quod Henricus filius Comitis nuper veniens in certain manerium sine licentia nostra inde recessit, notis prescriptis nostris obtinere prescriptis quatinus eidem Henrico in iudicio de rebus interdictis scitis vel respondentibus." This gives a fresh reason, beyond that given above for Fitz Count having fallen into disfavor, and also professes to take from him all rights which he had in the county. "Whether," says Vincent, "as it should seem, he stood in contestation with the King for the Barony, but in the end,--" "reddidit libertatem absolute domini Henrici Regis; etiam cum castro de Lannegon et Comitatu Cornubie cum hominibus servitibus et pertinentiis suis sicut dominus Johannes Rex eis habebat." . . . Salvo eidem Henrico filio Comitis iure et chance quod clamatur habere in prescripto Comitatu in quod Henricus filius Rex Regis justiciis et inde exlicibit pro loco et tempore cum ad relationem pervenerit."

It appears to me clear that from 1214 to 1220 he enjoyed the fruits of the Barony, and may, very possibly, have regarded himself as Earl; indeed, had he retained the favor of the Crown, he would doubtless have gradually been so recognized, and summoned as such to Parliament (as I conceive was the case with William de Valence, Earl of Pembroke, some forty years later). I think, however, that in the Queen's view he only held his position "during pleasure," and that there is no evidence that he was ever officially recognized, much less created, Earl of Cornwall.

² It seems not quite certain that Christopher Langley was son of Richard Langley, of Rathorp (VI) in the above pedigree. It is so stated in Glover (Foster's Ed. 117). The following entries occur in the Pocklington registers:—1563, 24 Jan., Margaret, da. of Richard Langley, bp.—1564, 6 Aug., Christopher, son of Richard Langley, bp.—1586, 1 Dec., Richard Langley, of Greenthorpe and Owsthorpe, hanged at York, Dec. 1, for harbouring Popish priests—1592, 11 Aug., Christopher Langley died. Dugdale only mentions Christopher, of near Durham, being father of Francis (II), and does not mention a son Richard. However, the pedigree would work out correctly if the suggestion in the note on p. 13 happens to be right. The Langley family were at Pocklington till 1722.

Verdict for the plaintiffs.

The exact relationship of Isolda to one of the Richards in the pedigree has been given on the record and afterwards expunged, but judging by chronology, it was probably as shewn by the dotted line. The fact of three Richards succeeding one another evidently made this part of the pedigree obscure, and the plaintiffs were not quite certain of it themselves.

By another writ on m. 420, the same plaintiffs recovered from the same defendants, and on the same plea, two messuages, fourteen tofts, a mill and twenty-four virgates of land in Humberstone and Thurmaston, co. Leicester.

Edor—Thomas Bathurst, clerk, and Richard Haythrop and Thomas Haythrop for an illegal entry by force into the manor of Okeby, near Selby. The defendants pleaded that long before the alleged illegal entry one Robert Hales was seized of a moiety of the manor, and it had descended to Richard Haythrop as his heir-at-law, and they gave this pedigree:—

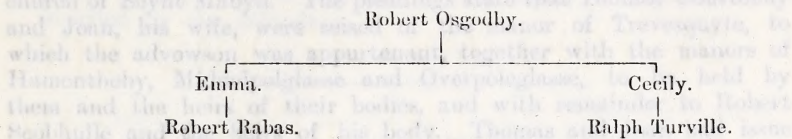

And as regarded one moiety of the other moiety, one Thomas Nonsay had been seized of it, and it had descended to Richard Haythrop as his heir, and he gave this pedigree:—

And as regarded one-third part of the residue of the manor, it had fallen to Richard Haythrop as heir of Thomas son of Robert Haythrop as shown by this pedigree:—

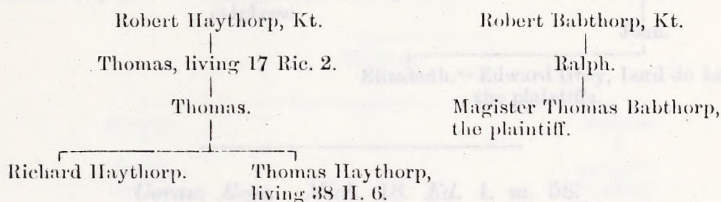

Thomas Babthorp, the plaintiff, as regarded a portion of the manor, claimed by a feoffment made by one Ralph Turville, a coheir of Robert Osgodby, as shewn below :—

And as regarded another portion he claimed by a demise made by Robert Rabas, and as regarded another portion he claimed by a deed of Thomas Neuhigh, of Hemmyngburgh, Chaplain, dated 7 Ric. 2.

And as regarded another part he claimed under a grant of Thomas Haythorp, brother and heir of Richard Haythorp, dated 38 H. 6, and he gave these pedigrees in support of his claim :—

A verdict was given eventually for the plaintiff, Thomas Babthorp.

Cornwall.—Edward Grey, Lord de Lisle and Elizabeth, his wife, sued John Holbein, Armiger, and another, for the next presentation to the church of Seynt Mabyn. The pleadings state that Thomas Courtenay and Joan, his wife, were seised of the manor of Trevesquyte, to which the advowson was appurtenant, together with the manors of Hamentheby, Middelpolglasse and Overpoleglasse, to be held by them and the heirs of their bodies, and with remainder to Robert Scobhulle and the heirs of his body. Thomas and Joan had issue three sons, John, Edmund and Thomas, and a daughter Clemence, all of whom had died without leaving issue, and from Robert Scobhulle the plaintiffs gave this descent:—

Coram Rege. Mich. 18. Ed. 4. m. 58.

Dorset.—John Chokke, Armiger, sued Thomas Bruyn, of Rovenore, co. Hants, for an illegal entry by force into the manor of Randolveston. Thomas stated that one John Marcham, Parson of Bekyng-ham, co. Kent, was seised of the manor, and had conveyed it to Robert de Marny and his assigns for the term of his life, with remainder to Ingelran Bruyn and the heirs male of his body and failing such, to William de Marny, the son and heir of Robert, and the heirs male of his body, and failing such, to one Maurice Bruyn, Kt., and his heirs for ever, and he gave this pedigree:—

Ingelran Bruyn.

Maurice.

Thomas Bruyn,
the defendant.

John Chokke had entered under pretence of a demise made to him by John Marcham for his life before the feoffment made to Robert de Marny, and Thomas Bruyn had expelled him.

John Chokke gave this descent:—

Maurice Bruyn, formerly seised of the manor.

William.= Alice.

Ingelran Bruyn, of the first pedigree.

And he stated that Maurice, son of Ingelran Bruyn, had enfeoffed Henry Bruyn, son of the said Maurice, and Henry had enfeoffed Richard Chokke, Kt., and Richard had demised the manor to him (John Chokke) for his life, and he was seised of it peaceably until expelled by the defendant.

¹ The following particulars, taken from an old Chancery suit, may serve to explain the comparative obscurity of this branch of the Offley family, for they show that a Thomas Offley, who is almost certainly the Thomas in the text, was addicted to the vice of gambling, so prevalent at the period. The suit was brought 12 June 1640, Thomas Offley claiming that the defendant, Sir John Morley, of Chichester, co. Sussex, Knt., owed him the sum of £1,000. Sir John, in his answer, states that about March 1638-9, he and the complainant being at the Nagge's Head Tavern in Cheapside, fell to play at dice at a game called "Inne and Inne," and admits that he lost upon the ticket or score £800. Subsequently, about the 25th March following the parties again met at a house in the Strand called "the combe makers," in the parish of St. Clement Danes, and played the same game, Sir John Suckling (famous as much for his love of cards and dice as for his elegant verse) being on this occasion Thomas Offley's partner. Sir John Morley was again a loser to the tune of £400, and pleads that these sums were not won by fair and square play, an accusation which must not be taken very seriously. (Chanc. Pro. Chas. I, 8, No. 20.)

² She mentions in her will her son and daughter, Thomas and Sarah, both unmarried; her daughter, Mary Lawrence, widow, and grandchildren Henry, Edward, Anne, Mary, and Sarah Lawrence.

The Barons of Anstey and North Wiltshire; A Family History. By Mrs. Napier Higgins. In Two Volumes. London (Longmans, Green & Co.)

In spite of the above title, Mrs. Napier Higgins has given us not so much a family history in the ordinary sense as an instructive and very interesting narrative of the career in America of her great-grandfather, Sir Francis Bernard, Governor of Massachusetts 1759 to 1770, who thus served in that important capacity during the stormy times which followed the passing of the Stamp Act. Nearly the whole of the second volume and a considerable part of the first are taken up with what is practically a history of this critical period, and we by no means are disposed to regret this, for both in Great Britain and in the United States a clear and impartial record, such as we have here, cannot but meet with a cordial welcome. It is, however, to the genealogical chapters of the work that we must confine our attention.

For the early pedigree of the Bernards the authoress has mainly relied upon Baker's "Northamptonshire," in addition to a collection of notes which have been supplied to her by several gentlemen who have devoted their attention to the subject. The genealogical details depend, therefore, to a great extent on the accuracy and ability of the contributors, and it is to be regretted that exact references to the authorities quoted by these gentlemen have been sometimes omitted.

The family of Bernard, or Barnard, for the name was for many generations written indifferently in either way, was originally located at Iselham in Cambridgeshire and Clare in Suffolk, where it possessed estates which early passed to daughters and co-heirs. Thomas Bernard, the founder of the Abington and Nether Winchendon branches, appears to have been an uncle of the co-heirs of the elder line, but the dates given respecting him are not a little confusing, and we could have wished that this part of the pedigree had been more carefully investigated. The Abington branch is chiefly remarkable for its connection with Shakespeare, through the second marriage of Sir John Barnard with the poet's granddaughter. The descent of the Nether Winchendon family is set out from Thomas Bernard, a younger son of Francis Bernard of Abington who died in 1602, Governor Bernard having been great-grandson of this Thomas.

Many genealogical particulars are included relating to several kindred families, e.g., the Tyringhams, Goodwyns and Offleys. The chapter upon the last named family contains some inaccuracies, as will be seen by a comparison with the Offley pedigree now appearing in this Magazine.

Mrs. Napier Higgins promises to continue the story of Sir Francis Bernard's children, so pleasantly commenced in the volumes before us, and we feel sure that her readers will look forward to the fulfilment of this intention.

BRITISH FAMILY NAMES. By the Rev. Henry Barber, M.D., F.S.A.
Second Edition. London (Elliot Stock).

Mr. Barber's book on the origin and meaning of British surnames brings home to us once more the need of a really reliable dictionary of surnames. It is incomprehensible that in this country we are still dependent on the individual efforts of a few scholars for information on a subject of great importance and national interest. A dictionary of surnames, with their derivations proved

The family of Bernard or Barnard, for the name was for many generations written indifferently in either way, was originally located at Ewelham in Cambridgeshire and came in Suffolk, where it possessed estates which early passed to daughters and co-heirs. Thomas Barnard, the founder of the Abington and North Wincendon branches appears to have been one of the co-heirs of the elder line, but the date given respecting him is not a little confusing, and we could have wished that this part of the pedigree had been more carefully investigated. BARNARD FAMILY NAMES. By the Rev. Henry Barber, M.D., F.R.S.
Second Edition. London (Edinburgh Street).

Mr. Barber's book on the origin and meaning of British surnames brings home to us once more the need of a really reliable dictionary of surnames. It is unquestionable that in this country we are still dependent on the individual efforts of a few scholars for information on a subject of great importance and national interest. A dictionary of surnames, with their derivations proved by evidence, references for which should be given, is a demand yet to be satisfied, and is quite beyond the power of a single writer to compile. Holding such an opinion, we are not inclined to be very critical with this little work. The introduction is divided into eight heads, viz., nick-names, clan or tribal names, place, official, trade, christian, foreign and foundling names, and it is essential, in order not to misjudge the author's learning, that his introduction should be read carefully. For instance, in referring to the name Arkwright, we find it derived from the old German name Archarat (hero-counsellor), or from the Anglo-Saxon Archeard, Arch-hart (strong hero), but no indication of its being a trade name is given except in the introduction, where we read that "it is an open question whether some of the names popularly ascribed to occupations such as Arkwright [etc.] will not bear a different interpretation." Another instance may be quoted, that of Upjohn, which in the alphabetical list is tentatively derived from the Welsh Apjohn, but in the introduction is included among nicknames. Corrupted forms of names are to be met with in the dictionary, while the original forms, still extant, are omitted; and familiar names, not excluding Maclaren and its English equivalent Watson, are, to use a hackneyed expression, conspicuous by their absence. The lists of Scandinavian, Frisian, Anglo-Saxon and Norman names, gleaned from the Icelandic Landnámabók, and Sir Henry Ellis's "Introduction to the Study of Domesday Book," as well as from other sources, we are glad to see brought together. The "Alphabetical List of British Surnames" occupies only some 200 pages, from which it may be gathered that Mr. Barber's volume will bear again enlarging. His list of books and authors consulted is not long or imposing, and does not include the well-known work of Canon Bardsley.

THE CHALMERS AND TRAIL ANCESTRY OF DR. AND MRS. GUTHRIE'S DESCENDANTS. Published by Andrew Elliot (Edinburgh).

This genealogy of the descendants of the late Rev. Thomas Guthrie, D.D., Moderator of the General Assembly of the Free Church in 1862, and of his wife Anne, daughter of the Rev. James Burns, has been compiled with much care by Charles John Guthrie, K.C., Sheriff of Ross, Cromarty and Sutherland.

There is not much concerning the Guthries beyond the genealogical table showing Dr. and Mrs. Guthrie's issue to their great grandchildren, family portraits, and a few introductory lines at the beginning of the volume, while no original investigation, we are told, has been made into the history of Dr. Guthrie's family. It is with the ancestry of his wife that the volume deals, comprising her descent from Ferrier of Kirklands, Sandilands of Calder, Chalmers of Strichen, and Trail of Blebo. In the genealogical table of the first mentioned family, which is not carried further back than a marriage in 1735, it will be seen that Mrs. Guthrie was cousin of Susan Ferrier, the gifted authoress, of whom a portrait appears earlier in the book. The illustrations, chiefly portraits, by evidence references for which should be given, is a demand yet to be satisfied, and is quite beyond the power of a single writer to compile. Holding such an opinion, we are not inclined to be very critical with this little work. The introduction is divided into eight heads, viz. nick-names, clan or tribal names, place, official, trade, Christian, foreign and founding names, and it is essential in order not to misjudge the author's learning, that his introduction should be read carefully. For instance, in referring to the name Arkwright, we find it derived from the old German name Arabant (from Arabant), or from the Anglo-Saxon Arabant, Arabant (strong hero), but no indication of its being a trade name is given except in the introduction, where we read that "it is an open question whether some of the names popularly ascribed to occupations such as Arkwright [etc.] will not bear a different interpretation." Another instance may be quoted, that of Uphorn, which in the alphabetical list is tentatively derived from the Welsh Uphorn, but in the introduction is included among nicknames. Corrupted forms of names are to be met with in the dictionary, while the original forms, still extant, are omitted; and familiar names, not excluding Machan and its English equivalent Watson, are to me a background of question, conspicuous by their absence. The list of Scandinavian names Anglo-Saxon and Norman names gleaned from the Icelandic Landnámabók, and Sir Henry Ellis's "Introduction to the Study of Homeland Book," as well as from other sources, we are glad to see brought together. The "Alphabetical List of British Surnames" occupies only some 200 pages, from which it may be gathered that Mr. Barber's volume will bear again enlarging. THE GUTHRIES AND THEIR ANCESTRY OF DR. AND MRS. GUTHRIE'S DICTIONARY. Published by Andrew Elliot (Edinburgh).

This genealogy of the descendants of the late Rev. Thomas Guthrie, D.D., Minister of the General Assembly of the Free Church in 1862, and of his wife Anne, daughter of the Rev. James Burns, has been compiled with much care by Charles John Guthrie, M.C., Sheriff of Ross, Cromarty and Nairn. There is not much concerning the Guthries beyond the genealogical table showing Dr. and Mrs. Guthrie's issue to their great-grandchildren, family portraits, and a few introductory lines at the beginning of the volume, while no original investigation we are told, has been made into the history of the Guthrie family. It is with the ancestry of his wife that the volume deals, commencing with the ancestry of Kilbride, Southlands of Guthrie, Guthrie of Southlands, and Todd of Edinburgh. In the genealogical table of the first mentioned family, which is not carried further back than a marriage in 1725, it will be seen that Mrs. Guthrie was cousin of James Robert, the third son of Robert, of whom a portrait appears earlier in the book. The illustrations, chiefly portraits, are very numerous and interesting, and the pedigrees are stated to be compiled from family records, letters, diaries, wills and various other sources.

HORRINGER PARISH REGISTERS, 1558-1850.—LITTLE SAXHAM PARISH REGISTERS, 1559-1850.—RUSHBROOK PARISH REGISTERS, 1567-1850. JERMYN AND DAVERS ANNALS. Woodbridge (George Booth).

The author of these three books, who modestly conceals his identity under initials, may be cordially congratulated on the success of his labours. The objects he has set before him are two: firstly "to make safe for evermore what lies within the pages of the Parish Registers," and secondly, without aiming at a complete history of the parish, "to gather together a few facts about it and the people who have lived in it." The first of these objects has been thoroughly accomplished—these volumes contain complete transcripts of the registers, though apparently not in the order of the original. The advisability of this method is open to question: for example in the Rushbrook Register it seems almost certain that some of the entries under the heading of baptisms should be under that of burials, and at all events open to doubt whether some of the burial entries do not in fact refer to baptisms. It would have been better to have printed the early registers in their original form and thus to have given each reader the opportunity of forming his own opinion on them. The Church Briefs and other matter in the Registers are included, and in addition to copies of the Monumental Inscriptions up to date, there are very valuable notes of those no longer in existence; lastly, but by no means least, there is a very elaborate index. This is on a somewhat novel plan combining, on the whole successfully, the advantages of an index to the Registers with an index to the book; the Baptisms, Marriages and Burials are indexed separately with references to the years instead of the pages, the result being that when as in the case of the Rushbrook and Little Saxham volumes the indices are printed in parallel columns the entries relating to an individual can be seen at once; in the Horringer volume three indices have to be consulted. The now recognised method of giving one heading with the synonyms is followed, but here again the author is inclined to insist too much on his own views, the identification for example of Hallux and Horrinx, Garwood and Jarrold being open to doubt; a very full list of the Rectors and Curates is given; in short, with the exception of an index locorum to the Registers, all that can reasonably be required is to be found.

The accounts of the Parishes and their inhabitants are of a less complete kind. Extracts from lay subsidies of various dates are printed, and also some wills and a few inquisitions are given in extenso, but with these exceptions the matter has been collected almost entirely from printed authorities. There are, however, stray notes of a large number of persons, and anyone who is connected with the western part of Suffolk is nearly sure to find valuable information in one if not all of these very interesting volumes.

SOME NOTES ON THE LOWTHERS WHO HELD JUDICIAL OFFICE IN IRELAND IN THE SEVENTEENTH CENTURY. By Sir Edmund T. Bewley, LL.D. (Reprinted from the Cumberland and Westmorland Antiquarian and Archaeological Society's Transactions).

We are glad to notice this reprint, especially as the important discovery which Sir Edmund Bewley has made of an error in the Lowther pedigree, may fail to receive the attention it deserves, owing to its publication in the proceedings of a local society. The mistake in question by which two Sir Gerard Lowthers, both Irish judges, have been rolled into one, was at first due to a slight slip of Dugdale's in the 1664 Visitation of Cumberland and Westmorland, and it seems to have steadily grown ever since, every printed pedigree having accentuated the original blunder, and also fallen into fresh errors. Sir Edmund Bewley has contrived to unravel the tangled web, and gives a detailed account of each of the three members of the Lowther family who have held judicial office in Ireland, viz. (1) Sir Gerard Lowther, a Justice of the Common Pleas 1610-1624, whom Sir Edmund describes as "a man of unimpeached honour and blameless life," and who was a son of Sir Richard Lowther, the celebrated Warden of the West Marches; (2) Sir Lancelot Lowther, one of the Barons of the Exchequer 1617-1637, and also a son of Sir Richard; (3) Sir Gerard Lowther, Baron of the Exchequer 1628-1634, and Chief Justice of the Common Pleas 1634-1660. A further error is corrected regarding this last Sir Gerard, whose record is unfortunately by no means so satisfactory as that of his kinsman and namesake; he was not, as has often been stated, Lord Chancellor of Ireland, but merely one of the Commissioners of the Great Seal under Cromwell.

Notes and Queries.

WILLIAM DE VALENCE, EARL OF PEMBROKE.—There have been great doubts and differences of opinion as to when William de Valence obtained the title of Earl of Pembroke. Brooke gives the date as early as 1247. Doyle says before 29 Sep. 1251. Courthope says probably between 1262 and 1264. G.E.C. in his "Complete Peerage" says probably about August 1265. The following extracts bear on this vexed question, and are not given in the interesting note ("a") in "Complete Peerage," vol. vi, p. 206, nor has attention elsewhere been called to them as far as I know.

There is a grant from the Pope to him as Will: de Valence, Earl of Pembroke, dated as early as 7 Kal: Aug: 1255. On the other hand, though his name occurs constantly both in the Close

Some Notes on the Lowthers who held Judicial Office in the North in the Seventeenth Century. By Sir Edmund T. Howard. (Reprinted from the Cumberland and Westmorland Antiquarian and Archaeological Society's Transactions.)

The mistake in question by which two Sir Gerard Lowthers, both Irish judges, have been rolled into one was at first due to a slight slip of the tongue in the 1864 Visitation of Cumberland and Westmorland, and it seems to have steadily grown ever since, every printed pedigree having accumulated the original blunder, and also fallen into fresh errors. Notes and Queries.

WILLIAM DE VALANCE, Baron of Pembroke—There have been great doubts and differences of opinion as to when William de Valance obtained the title of Earl of Pembroke. Brooke gives the date as early as 1317. Doyle says before 20 Sep. 1321. Compton says probably between 1303 and 1304. O.E.C. in his "Complete Peerage" says probably about August 1305. The following extracts bear on this vexed question, and also are given in the interesting note ("a") in "Complete Peerage," vol. vi. p. 208, but has attention elsewhere been called to them as far as I know.

There is a grant from the Pope to him as WILL. de Valance, Earl of Pembroke, dated as early as 7 Feb. Aug. 1300. On the other hand, though the name occurs constantly both in the Close and Patent Rolls he is very seldom described as Earl of Pembroke; the first occasion in the former being 10 May 1276, and in the latter not till 26 Oct: 1291. Moreover, at later dates in both Rolls he is simply called "Will: de Valencia" or "W. de Val: the King's Uncle" [i.e., uterine brother of Hen. III].

It is very rare (if it ever occurs) for an Earl to be mentioned in these Rolls simply by his name without the addition of his title, and I therefore conclude that William de Valence never was so created, but was gradually so recognised.

It helps to emphasize the dubious character of William's Earldom that his son and heir Aymer should (after his death in 1296) have been summoned as a Baron only, from 1298/9 to 3 Nov: 1306, and not as an Earl until 18 Jan. 1307/8, when his mother Joan, through whom he descended from the former Earls (Marshal) of Pembroke, was dead.

VICARY GIBBS.

JOHN (COMYN), SEVENTH AND LAST EARL OF BUCHAN is stated in G.E.C.'s "Complete Peerage," on the authority of Douglas, to have been living 1312-3, but to have died before 28 April 1313; he did in fact die in 1308, between 21 June and 3 Dec. See Close Rolls, 21 June and 5 Dec. 1308, and Pat: Rolls, 3 Dec. 1308—"Grant to Ralph de Monthermer of the custody of the lands of John Earl of Buchan, deceased, tenant in chief, together with the marriage of his heirs."

JOLLEY OR JOLLY FAMILY (vol. xix, p. 209).—At this reference appears the record of a grant of arms to Robert Jolly of Hatton Garden, etc., and a reference to Add. MS. 14,831, and Stowe MS. 677. The achievement of three dexter hands belonged to the Jolley family of Leek, co. Stafford; this is mentioned in Harl. MS. 2,161, in which a short pedigree of three generations is given, ending with William Jolley of Leek, 1613. Since three hands were retained in the coat granted to Robert Jolly in 1692, it is to be presumed that he had some connection with the Leek family, but had no hereditary right to the coat without difference. Did Robert Jolly deposit a pedigree at the Heralds' College, shewing his connection with the Leek family? His own achievement was:—A lion passant gardant. Was there any historical or other reason for this?

In the same Harleian MS. 2,161, is the record of a grant of arms to James Jolley of Manchester, in the county of Lancaster, Gent., dated 24 Oct. 1648, and signed "Randle Holme of the City of Chester, Alderman, and Deputy to the office of Arms." This grant was disallowed at the Restoration. But it is of interest to note what it was. The grant recites the fact that James Jolley was a member of the Staffordshire family. The three dexter hands Arg. are retained on a chief Vert to accentuate the relationship; whilst on the shield are placed James Jolley's own achievement:—Arg. a sword Gules in pale between two keys erect Az. James Jolley commanded a company of Colonel Dukinfield's regiment in Ireland;

and Patent Rolls he is very seldom described as Earl of Pembroke; the first occasion in the former being 10 May 1376 and in the latter not till 26 Oct. 1391. Moreover, at later dates in both rolls he is simply called "Will. de Valence" or "W. de Val. the King's Uncle" (i.e. uncle brother of Hen. III).

It is very rare (if it ever occurs) for an Earl to be mentioned in these rolls simply by his name without the addition of his title, and I therefore conclude that William de Valence never was so created, but was gradually so recognised.

It helps to emphasise the dubious character of William's Pedigree that his son and heir Aymer should (after his death in 1392) have been announced as a Baron only, from 1392-5 to 3 Nov. 1396 and not as an Earl until 18 Jan. 1397, when his mother Joan, through whom he descended from the former Barons (Marquess of Pembroke) was dead.

JOHN (COURT), BAKERY AND EAST ROAD, ON BECKON, is stated in D.E.C.'s "Complete Peerage" on the authority of Douglas to have been living 1312-3, but to have died before 28 April 1313; he did in fact die in 1308, between 21 June and 3 Dec. 25th Class. Rolls, 21 June and 3 Dec. 1308, and Part. Rolls, 3 Dec. 1308-9. Grant to Ralph de Montbarnon of the custody of the lands of John Earl of Hereford deceased, tenant in chief, together with the marriage of his heirs.

JOSEPH OR JOSEF FAMILY (vol. xix, p. 200).—At this reference appears the record of a grant of arms to Robert Jolly of Hinton Garden, etc., and a reference to Add. MS. 14,831, and Stowe MS. 677. The achievement of three Dexter hands belonged to the Jolly family of Leek, co. Stafford; this is mentioned in Harl. MS. 2,161, in which a short pedigree of three generations is given ending with William Jolly of Leek, 1613. Since three hands were retained in the coat granted to Robert Jolly in 1622, it is to be presumed that he had some connection with the Leek family, but had no hereditary right to the coat without difference. Was there any historical or other reason for this?

In the same Harleian MS. 2,161 is the record of a grant of arms to James Jolly of Manchester in the county of Lancashire, dated 21 Oct. 1613, and signed "Humble Hobbs of the City of Chester, Alderman and Mayor in the name of James." The grant was challenged at the Restoration. But it is of interest to note what it was. The grant recites the fact that James Jolly was a member of the Stanburth family. The three Dexter hands, etc., are retained on a chief Vert to designate the relationship; whilst on the shield are placed James Jolly's own achievement—A lion passant guardant in pale between two keys, one St. James' Jolly, commanded a company of Colonel Darnley's regiment in Ireland.

he was also Quartermaster-General under the Rt. Hon. Sir Thomas Fairfax, Kt., Commander-in-Chief of the Parliament Army, Provost-Marshal General of all the Forces in the County Palatine of Lancaster, and Muster Master for the same county. He deposited in the Herald's College a pedigree of four generations, showing his descent from John Jolly of Standish, co. Lanc., but not his connection with the Leek family. I want to know the connection between Robert and James. In my pedigree of James Jolley (a maternal ancestor of mine) there is no Robert.

FRANK PENNY, LL.M.

CURTOIS FAMILY (vol. xviii, p. 280).—The arms of Courtois are given in Berry's Dictionary of Heraldry. They are there described as similar to those of Surtees, viz., Ermine, on a canton Gules an orle Or. Sir William Courteys mentioned in the Agincourt Roll, amongst other Durham men, is, I should suggest, a Surtees, and possibly the originator of Courtois.

RICHARDS OF CAERYNWCH (Burke's Landed Gentry).—Would any of your readers kindly assist me in ascertaining who was the father of Thomas Richards, of Coed, co. Merioneth, and the mother of Catherine his wife, sister of Rev. William Parry, Warden of Ruthin, and also likewise assist me in ascertaining who was the father of Pierre Chalié, from Montauban, Department of Tarn-et-Garonne, France, and the mother of Sarah [? Brustis], in business with her son-in-law at Rotterdam as "la Veuve Chalié et Duc," and still living in 1750. (Vide Pedigree of the Chalié family, vol. xix, p. 59).

CHOLMELEY PEDIGREE (vol. xix, p. 251).—There can be little doubt that the Nathaniel Cholmeley, who married Mary, only dau. and heir of Sir Hugh Cholmeley, 4th Bart., was identical with Nathaniel Cholmeley, a diamond merchant, and Agent for the East India Company at Golconda, 1680-1. He returned to England about 1682. Sir Hugh, in his will, states that his son-in-law was "from the East." Nathaniel Cholmeley was a friend of Streyusham Master and Sir William Langhorne, Governors in their turn of Fort St. George.

THE EARLIEST PEERAGE ANNUAL (vol. xix, p. 216).—"The Peerage of England," etc., 1710, is a reprint of the first edition of the Peerage by Arthur Collins, printed in 1709, "as Part i of the second edition with very large Additions and Corrections." he was also Quartermaster-General under the Rt. Hon. Sir Thomas Buxton, Kt., Commander-in-Chief of the Parliament Army, Provost-Marshal-General of all the houses in the County of Lancashire, and Master-Marshal for the same county. He deposited in the Herald's College a pedigree of four generations, showing his descent from John Jolly of Standish, co. Lanc., but not his connection with the Jolly family. I want to know the connection between Robert and James. In my pedigree of James Jolly (a maternal ancestor of mine) there is no Robert.

CHRONICLE OF CHRONICLE (vol. xix, p. 201).—There can be little doubt that the Nathaniel Chobson, who married Mary, only daughter and heir of Sir Hugh Chobson, 1st bart., was identical with Nathaniel Chobson, a diamond merchant, and Agent for the East India Company at Calcutta, 1620-1. He returned to England about 1622. Sir Hugh, in his will, states that his son-in-law was "from the East." Nathaniel Chobson was a friend of Henry, Master and Sir William Langborne, Governors in their turn of Port St. George.

VER OF BOTTESFORD AND GOXHILL, CO. LINCOLN, AND SPROATLEY, CO. YORK.

A perusal of the MSS. of the late Rev. F. Laurent, rector of Saleby, and a well-known Lincolnshire scholar and antiquary of the middle of last century, has led me to doubt the correctness of a pedigree of the Vers from Bracton's Note Book, published in The Genealogist.¹ The best way to show the point in question seems to be to put before my readers the pedigrees, and then to produce the information I have been able to collect. I may here say that I have verified all the references I have used from Mr. Laurent's MSS., and have added considerably to them.

Mr. Laurent's pedigree:—

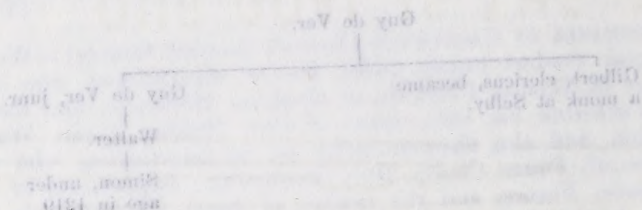

Both pedigrees agree about the first two generations, which may be proved from the Coucher Book of Selby Abbey. Guy de Ver confirmed the grant of his father (Guy) of a bovate of land in Osgotby.² Circa 1189 Guy de Ver gave to Selby the church of St. Bartholomew of Lincoln near the Castle, and the whole land

VER OF BOTTSTORD AND GOSWILL CO. LINCOLN AND SPICATLEY CO. YORK

A perusal of the MSS. of the late Rev. F. Laurent, rector of Salsby, and a well-known Lincolnshire scholar and antiquary of the middle of last century, has led me to doubt the correctness of a pedigree of the Vets from Bracton's Note Book, published in The Genealogist. The best way to show the point in question seems to be to put before my readers the pedigree, and then to produce the information I have been able to collect. I may have any that I have verified all the references I have used from Mr. Laurent's MSS., and have added considerably to them.

Mr. Laurent's pedigree:

Both pedigrees agree about the first two generations, which may be proved from the Conche Book of Salsby Abbey. Guy de Ver confirmed the grant of a heriot of land in Osgatey. Given 1188 Guy de Ver gave to Salsby the church of St Bartholomew of Lanch near the Castle, and the whole land in Butterwyck upon Trent, which is of his fee and tenure, etc. The Sacristan of Selby is to find what has been appointed by the convent of Selby for the anniversary of Gilbert, the abbot, (Guy's brother). A charter of Guy de Ver (the son) c. 1190 confirms the gift of his father to Selby, "all which pertains to his lordship of Botisford."¹ But the question is—Was Walter de Ver the son of the second Guy, or his grandson through his daughter who had married Adam de Gousel?

For the first supposition there is the evidence of Bracton's Note Book,² which is undoubtedly strong, but other evidence seems to me to point strongly the other way. I do not undertake to solve the doubt, though I hope some reader of The Genealogist will be able to do so.

Walter de Ver, son of Adam de Gousle, gave to Bridlington priory the church of Sproteley; Ralph, brother of Ernisius de Gousle, gave two bovates of land at Sproteley to buy incense for the great altar; Walter de Vere, son of Adam de Gousle, confirmed this gift; and Simon, son of Walter de Ver, confirmed the gift of the church and of the two bovates of land.³

Walter de Ver, son of Adam de Gousle, gave to Bridlington the church of All Saints, Gousle,⁴ c. 1205.

In 1205 Simon de Kime is said to be responsible for the debt, which Walter de Ver owes to the King for the fine, which the said Simon made with the King for the same Walter for the debt of Adam son of Robert father of the same Walter (pro debito Ade filii Roberti patris ipsius Walteri).⁵

Michaelmas, 10 John, A.D. 1208, Nicholas de Chevincurt owes xlvj^{li} x^s ij^d of the debt of Guy de Ver, whose daughter and heir he has to wife.⁶

Nicholas de Chevrincurt for an obit on 12th Kal. Sept. (21 August), for Gundreda de Ver his wife, with the consent of William Melton de Ver, his son, gave to Selby 12s. out of land that Reyner de Gunnef held of Guy de Ver in Gunnef.⁷ In a grand assize between Walter de Ver and Walter de Orrebi concerning a free tenement in Wotton, the jurors say that Gundreda de Ver, mother of the said Walter, held the land of Wotton in dower,

He also quotes Pipe Rolls 6 Richard I. He also says that Walter de Ver married Sibilla de Kyme, quoting Harleian MS. 301, fol. 171^b.

in Butterwick upon Trent, which is of his fee and tenure, etc. The statement of Selby is to find what has been appointed by the consent of Selby for the anniversary of Gilbert, the abbot, (Guy's brother). A charter of Guy de Ver (the son) c. 1190 contains the gift of his father to Selby, "all which pertain to his lordship of Holstford." But the question is: Was Walter de Ver the son of the second Guy, or his grandson through his daughter who had married Adam de Gosnell?

For the first supposition there is the evidence of Bracton's Note Book, which is undoubtedly strong, but other evidence seems to me to point strongly the other way. I do not undertake to solve the debate, though I hope some reader of The Archaeologist will be able to do so.

Walter de Ver, son of Adam de Gosnell, gave to Bridlington priory the church of Spurchley; Ralph, brother of Bracton de Gosnell, gave two bovates of land at Spurchley to buy masses for the great altar; Walter de Ver, son of Adam de Gosnell, confirmed the gift; and Simon, son of Walter de Ver, confirmed the gift of the church and of the two bovates of land.

Walter de Ver, son of Adam de Gosnell, gave to Bridlington the church of All Saints, Gosnell, c. 1205.

In 1205 Simon de Kinn is said to be responsible for the debt which Walter de Ver owes to the King for the fine, which the said Simon made with the King for the same Walter for the debt of Adam son of Robert father of the same Walter (pro debito Ade filii Roberti patris ipsius Walteri).
Nicholas de Cheyney owes 20 shillings to John, A.D. 1205. Nicholas de Cheyney owes 20 shillings to the debt of Guy de Ver, whose daughter and heir he has to wife.

Nicholas de Cheyney for an obit on 13th Feb. Sept. (21 August) for Gundrada de Ver his wife, with the consent of William Motton de Ver, his son, gave to Selby 12s. out of land that Henry de Gosnell held of Guy de Ver in Ganness. In a grant made between Walter de Ver and Walter de Gosnell concerning a free tithing in Wotton, the parties say that Gundrada de Ver, mother of the said Walter, held the land of Wotton in dower.

and of that land she gave part to the same Walter (de Orrebi) for his homage and service, so that he and his heirs should hold that land until she should give him 10 marks to purchase land which he should hold of the prior of Thornholm; and Walter says that she never gave him those 10 marks, and that her heir ought to warrant that land to him.¹

The family of Ver held considerable possessions in Lincolnshire and Yorkshire. In 1212 Walter de Ver held the fee of 1 knight in Botelford and in Askeby (of the Barony of Creuker); also he held the fee of 1 knight in Scottun of the Earl of Chester, and the fee of half a knight in Messingham of Lady Ellaria Trussebut.²

In 1243 Simon de Ver holds 1 fee in Wyton and Gousul of the Bishop of Lincoln, and 2½ carucates of land there, whereof xlvij carucates make a knight's fee, of the Earl of Albemarle; he also holds 1 fee in Bottlisford of Alexander de Nevill, 8 parts of 1 fee in Scotton of the Earl Marshal, and the fourth part of 1 fee in Yolthorp of the Honor of Lancaster.³

In 1210-11 Walter de Ver gave to Saer de Sutton half a carucate of land in Sprottel, co. York, and another half carucate in Gousel, co. Lincoln, retaining other lands in Sprottel.⁴ In 1219-20 Nicholas de Schaueneurt and Sibilla his wife claimed land in Gousel as the dower of Sibilla of the free tenement which was of Walter de Ver, formerly her husband.⁵

In 13-14 Henry III, 1228-9, Simon de Ver was summoned to hear judgment of the assize of last presentation, which was taken in the time of King John in court between the same King and the prior of Thornholm of the church of Botelesford, and wherein the jurors say that one Guy de Ver presented the last parson, and wherein the plea of warrant remained until the coming of age of the said Simon. And Simon comes, and they are agreed, and have a chirograph.⁶ The agreement was that Simon acknowledged the advowson of the church to be the right of the prior and the church of Thornholm of the gift of the ancestors of the said Simon, while the prior granted that as often as that church shall be vacant in the life of the said Simon, the said Simon shall elect a fit clerk.⁷ In 1240, Nicholas, son of Nicholas de Chevincurt, quitclaimed to Simon de Ver all right in 27 bovates of land in Scottun and Askeby, in the manor of Bottesford, and in all the lands and tenements which were of the inheritance of Guy de Ver.⁸

In 1271 the prior of the hospital of St. John of Jerusalem in England by his attorney offered himself the fourth day against Simon son of Simon de Veer of a plea that he warrant to him two parts of the manor of Botlesford in Lyndesey, with appurtenances, and the advowson of the church of the same vill, which he holds. And he does not come. And he had a day by his essoin to this day. Let him be attached that he be here on the octave of St. John Baptist.¹

In 1275 the jurors of the Wapentake of Manlee say that Simon de Ver held four fees in Botensford (Bottesford) of the Barony of Redburn, and that four years before he had sold all the said fees to the Hospitallers, worth xl^{li}, whereby the king loses ward, marriage and service.² The prior of the Hospitallers in 1281 says that King Henry III by his charter confirmed the gift which Simon de Veer made to one Roger de Veer, prior of the said Hospital. And Simon's charter testifies that he gave to the said prior all his tenements which he had in his manor of Botelesford, with all its members, viz., Messingham, Yadelthorpe, Burnyngham, Butterwyk, Askeby, Brunneby, together with the advowson of the church of Botelesford, to hold in alms, etc.³ It was also presented by xij jurors of Coringham Wapentake that Simon de Ver, father of the then Simon, held in the vill of Scotton and in Kynnardeferye twenty-four years before 21½ bovates of land.

According to the Hundred Rolls the Abbot of Bridlington holds in 1275 half a fee in Gousel of the gift of Simon de Ver, and another half fee there by the service of 25s. annually to be paid to the Bishop of Lincoln.⁴ But the Roll of the wapentake of Yarborough, which I believe to be the original return from which the shorter account in the Hundred Rolls was compiled, states that the Abbot of Thornton holds these two half fees of the gift of Simon de Veer, as well as half a fee of his gift of the Bishop of Lincoln in Wootton;⁵ and this statement is confirmed by the Lay Subsidy Roll of Edward I, which states that the Abbot of Thornton holds one fee in Wotton and Gousel of the Bishop of Lincoln, which Simon de Ver formerly held,⁶ and by the fact that at the Dissolution the Abbey of Thornton held the manor of Goxhill.⁷

The prior of the Hospital of St. John held temp. Edward I one fee in Botouesford, and John de Theuelby held seven parts of one fee in Scotton, which Simon de Veer formerly held.⁸

On the feast of the Conversion of St. Paul 1270, Sir Simon de Ver, son of Sir Simon de Ver, knt., granted to Robert Gylt lands and certain villeins in Sprothele in Holderness.⁹ Simon de Ver sold the manor of Sprottele to Roger Darcy before 1287.¹⁰

There is, or was, in Goxhill a tenement, called the Vere Cote, which was leased in 1653 by Edward Skynner, of Thornton College, Esq., to Robert Gilliat, of Burnham, yeoman.¹ Walter de Ver gave to Bridlington the bercary or sheep cote in Gousel, which was confirmed by Simon son of Walter de Ver, and in 1264 by Simon, son of the said Simon.²

In the Church of Goxhill is a figure in armour of the thirteenth century, said to represent one of the Vers.

Mr. Laurent says a charter of Simon de Ver to Kirkham in 1229³ has for a seal a boar's head, and the inscription "Sigill. Simonis de Wer," while the cognizance of the great house of Vere was a boar.

W. O. MASSINGBERD.

THE FIRST LORD BELHAVEN AND STENTON.

I suppose that as a general rule Letters of Administration, of which the relict can be shown to have had cognizance by renouncing, are about as good evidence of a man's death as the most sceptical in genealogical matters would require, and when in the case of a Scotch peer the admon. is confirmed by a detailed and circumstantial account of his death from the pen of a contemporary Lyon King of Arms, few would be found to suspect either fraud or mis-statement.

All these conditions were fulfilled in the person of the first Lord Belhaven, yet he can be shown, beyond any shadow of doubt, to have lived some twenty-seven years after his reported death, and nearly twenty-three after his admon.

The account of his decease as given in Balfour's Annals, vol. iv, under date 3 July, 1652, is as follows.

"Sir John Hamilton, Lord Belhaven, who had married the base daughter of James, Marquess of Hamilton, begotten on Stewart, daughter to the Lord Blantyre [i.e., Margaret, bastard da. of the Marquis, by Anne, widow of John, Lord Saltoun, and da. of Walter (Stewart), Lord Blantyre], miserably perished in the sinking sands of the Solway."

In the Complete Peerage, vol. i, p. 306, however, he is shown to have had a re-grant of his peerage in 1675, and is correctly stated to have died 17 June, 1679. (Funeral entry 20th in Lyon Office).

Attention is properly drawn in a note to "an almost inexplicable admon." of the goods of John Hamilton, Lord Belhaven, dat. 11 Nov. 1656.

The explanation which apparently was not known to G.E.C. or to Mr. R. R. Stodart, with whom he was in communication on the subject, is to be found in Chambers' Domestic Annals of Scotland, vol. ii, pp. 249/50, quoting from Nicoll as follows:—

"At this time [Jan., 1659] the public received a great surprise in the sudden re-appearance of a nobleman, Lord Belhaven, who was understood to have been dead for the last six years and upwards. At the forfeiture of the Hamilton family under the English tyranny, Lord Belhaven found himself engaged as security to the creditors of that house for a much larger sum than he could pay; so to escape comprisings of his lands and imprisonment of his person he fell upon an extraordinary expedient. He took a journey to England, and when he had passed Solway sands he caused his servant to come back to his wife with his cloak and hat, and had it given out that he and his horse had sunk in the quicksands and were drowned. None were privy to the secret but his lady and servant. The report passed everywhere as authentic, and to make it more plausible his lady and children went in mourning for two years. Passing into England, Lord Belhaven put on a mean suit of apparel, hired himself to be a gardener, and worked at this humble employment during the whole time of his absence, no one knowing this part of his course but his lady. During his absence his only son, 'a very hopeful youth and pretty scholar,' was struck with a fever which in a few days carried him off. 'In this real death by God's hand, who will not be mocked, the hope of that house perished' [Bail]. The Duchess of Hamilton having at length come to a composition with her creditors, his Lordship returned to Scotland and resumed his rank to the admiration of many." [Diary of Public Transactions and other occurrences, chiefly in Scotland, by John Nicoll].

This strange tale, though satisfactory in so far as it clears up a mystery, must give a shock to those who had believed that "admons." at any rate could not err.

other of the daughters of the said Alexander Thomas." Martha Offley in her will mentions her "brother and sister Andesley." The will of Richard Andsley, of St. Lawrence Jewry, London, citizen and grocer, dated 18 March 1670-1, admon. with will, P.C.C., 3 April 1671 (14 Duke), leaves 20s. for a ring to "sister, cousins and friends hereinafter named (viz^t), Martha Offley, Elizabeth Copley, Mary Offley, Rachel Offley, Robert Offley of London and his wife, Ralph Harwood and his wife, Robert Offley, grocer, Andrew Middleton and his wife, William Bradford and his wife, Samuel Hoyle and Hannah his wife, and the daughter of my said Cousen Elizabeth Copley." Richard Andsley also mentions his wife Mary, his wife's son, Thomas Ferne, and her daughter, Mary Ferne (both under 21); his brothers, Joshua and Robert Andsley; his cousins, Richard and Robert Andsley, and "my brother John Beck, and my sister Silence his wife."

² Chanc. Pro. before 1714, Collins 547, No. 35. Offley v. Hudgeboute and Tunstall. The proceedings are signed by Joseph Offley, as counsel for Robert Offley and Alice his wife.

ii. Martha, born about 1650; mar. (mar. alleg., Faculty, 7 Sept. 1670, to be mar. at Lewisham, co. Kent) Ralph Harwood, of St. Antholin's, London, merchant, by whom she had issue, and whose will, dat. 1 June 1684, was pr. 8 July following, P.C.C. (90 Hare); he was bur. at St. Antholin's, 19 June 1684. She was bur. there 11 Aug. 1697; will dat. 1 June 1697, pr. Comm. Court of London 16 Sept. following.

iii. Mary, born 1654; mar. (mar. alleg., Vic. Gen. 14 Mar. 1675-6, to be mar. at Framfield, co. Sussex) Alexander Thomas,¹ of Lamberhurst (son of Richard Thomas, Bench. of the Middle Temple, by Elizabeth Bathurst, his wife, who mar. secondly Thomas Offley of Possingworth). She died 10 Dec. 1739, aged 85, and was bur. at Lamberhurst. Her will, as of East Malling, co. Kent, widow, dat. 4 July 1732, pr. P.C.C. 5 May 1740.

iv. Rachel, mar., after 18 March 1670-1, Robert Lord.²

(3). David Offley, of New Southampton Buildings, in the par. of St. Giles in the Fields; will dat. 24 Mar. 1670-1, pr. P.C.C. 7 April 1671, (49 Duke); mar. Elizabeth, dau. of . . .; admon. 1 Dec. 1682, to George Smith, M.D. father of Offley Smith, grandson on the daughter's side, and next of kin of the said Elizabeth Offley, late of Brentford, co. Middx., widow. They had issue—

Mary, mar.³ (mar. alleg., Faculty, 26 April 1670, to be mar. at Lincoln's Inn chapel, or St. Andrew, Holborn, then aged 22)

¹ They had issue four sons—Richard, Alexander, William and George (all of whom, except the last-named, were living 1732), and two daughters Elizabeth, wife, first, of William Disher, and secondly, of Sir William Hardres, Bart., M.P.; and Mary, wife of Philip Bartholomew, of Oxenheath, Esq.

² Her will dat. 7 July 1725, pr. P.C.C. 22 Oct. 1725 (214 Romney), as of St. Martin's in the Fields, relict and exor. of Robert Lord, Gent. They had issue two daughters—Mary, mar. William Leigh, Esquire, and Elizabeth, mar. Col. Thomas Wentworth. By her will she made her nephew Ralph Harwood, of London, merchant, trustee for these daughters. She mentions her two messuages in "Villars Street," in one of which she herself resided.

³ She was licenced (Vicar Gen.) 8 Oct. 1668, to marry Arthur Warde, of Hinton, co. Salop, gent., but the intended bridegroom died before the marriage was celebrated.

George Smith, of St. Giles in the Fields, Doctor of Physic, and had issue a son, Offley Smith.

(1). Leah, mar. first, after Nov. 1636, . . . Herbert, and secondly, before 30 Sept. 1661, Robert Spring.¹

(2). Elizabeth, mar. . . . Warren.

4. William Offley of London [fourth son of Hugh Offley (I) by his first wife], bap. 12 Dec. 1568, at St. Lawrence Pountney, mar. . . . dau. of . . . Harrison of Lewisham, co. Kent, and had issue.²

5. Symon Offley, bap. at St. Andrew's Undershaft, 21 Feb. 1573-4; died young.

6. Hugh Offley, bap. at St. Andrew's Undershaft, 24 Aug. 1578, bur. there 28 Dec. 1582.

1. Elizabeth, bap. 8 Dec. 1566, at St. Lawrence Pountney; mar. first, at St. Andrew's Undershaft, 12 Dec. 1585 (as his third wife), Sir James Deane of London, Knt., who died 1608; secondly, John Brewster of the Middle Temple.

2. Margaret, bap. at St. Andrew's Undershaft, 3, and bur. there 4 May 1585.

By his second wife, Dorothy Greswold, Hugh Offley (I) had issue—

3. Susannah, bap. at St. Andrew's Undershaft 28 June 1590; mar. there 29 July 1610 Philip Giffard, of London, son of Edmond Giffard, of Milton Damerell, co. Devon,³ by whom she had issue. She was bur. at St. Andrew's Undershaft 19 Dec. 1616.

II. THOMAS OFFLEY, of London and Elbing, Agent or Deputy of the English Merchants in Prussia; bap. at St. Lawrence Pountney, ¹ They had issue Robert, Elizabeth and Mary Spring. By her first husband Leah Offley had two daughters Leah and Elizabeth Herbert. The will of Martha Harwood, in 1697, mentions her cousin, Leah Ashbourne, widow.

² His daughter Dorothy was a legatee under the will of his step-mother, Dorothy Offley, in 1609-10. His father, Hugh Offley, recites in his will—"my son William Offley has been fully advanced by me and has behaved disobediently to me"; he therefore leaves him only a third part of the portion which he might have claimed, but makes provision for his children, without however naming them. It appears from the will of his uncle, Robert Offley, that this William was a prisoner in the King's Bench in 1596. A William Offley, gent., was buried at St. Giles' Cripplegate, 19 Apr. 1630.

³ See Vivian's "Visitations of Devon."

George Smith, of St. Giles in the Fields,
 Pastor of Trinity, and had issue a son,
 Olney Smith.

(1) Leah, mar. first after Nov. 1836, . . . Herbert, and secondly, before 30 Sept. 1861, Robert Spring.

(2) Elizabeth, mar. . . . Warren.

4. William Olney of London (fourth son of Hugh Olney
 (1) by his first wife) bap. 12 Dec. 1808, at St.
 Lawrence Poultry, mar. . . . dan of . . . Harrison of Lawisham, co. Kent, and had issue.

5. Symon Olney, bap. at St. Andrew's Undershaft, 31 Feb.
 1814; died young.

6. Hugh Olney, bap. at St. Andrew's Undershaft, 21 Aug.
 1818, mar. there 28 Dec. 1832.

7. Elizabeth, bap. 8 Dec. 1806, at St. Lawrence Poultry;
 mar. first at St. Andrew's Undershaft, 12 Dec. 1845
 (as his third wife) Sir James James of London, Kent, who died 1808; secondly, John Brewster of the Middle Temple.

8. Margaret, bap. at St. Andrew's Undershaft, 3, and mar.
 there 1 May 1846.

By his second wife, Dorothy Gresswell, Hugh Olney (4) had issue—

3. Rosemary, bap. at St. Andrew's Undershaft, 28 June 1809;
 mar. there 28 July 1810 Philip Gilman of London, son of Edmund Gilman of Milton Pinner, co. Devon, by whom she had issue. She was bur. at St. Andrew's Undershaft, 19 Dec. 1816.

II. THOMAS OFFLEY, of London and Ealing, Agent or Deputy of the English Merchants in Russia; bap. at St. Lawrence Poultry,

They had issue Robert, Elizabeth, and Mary Spring. By her first husband, Jack Olney had two daughters, Leah and Elizabeth Herbert. The will of Martin Herbert, in 1807, mentions her cousin, Leah Ashbourne, widow.

His daughter, Dorothy, was a legatee under the will of his step-mother, Dorothy Olney, in 1804-10. His father, Hugh Olney, resided in his will—"my son William Olney has been fully informed by me and has behaved disinterestedly to me." He therefore leaves him only a third part of the portion which he might have claimed, but makes provision for his children, without however naming them. It appears from the will of his uncle, Robert Olney, that this William was a partner in the King's Bench in 1808. A William Olney, Kent, was buried at St. Giles Cripplegate, 10 Apr.

Devon.—John Crocker, of Lyneham, Kt., John Crocker, of Lyneham, gentleman, Henry Bokelle, of Lyneham, yeoman, and two others, were sued by John Fortescu, Armiger, for breaking into his closes and houses at Ermyngton and Rattre, and taking twenty horses and ten cows belonging to him. The pleadings state that one John Folywell and Agnes, his wife, were seised of the tenements for their lives, with remainder to George Densyll and Agnes, his wife, and the heirs of the bodies of George and Agnes, and failing such, to the heirs of the body of Agnes, and failing such, to Mabel, then wife of one William Fortescu, and to the heirs of the body of Mabel for ever.

John Fortescu also stated that Agnes had died leaving no issue, but George Densill had issue one Margaret, a bastard, the mother of Henry Bokelle, by one Margaret Dey, born in adultery, and had left no legitimate issue, and the tenements had therefore reverted to William Fortescu and Mabel, in right of Mabel, and they had issue, John Fortescu, the plaintiff.

According to an Inquisition p.m. taken in 27 Hen. 6, 1448-9, (apparently) on the death of John Chaney,¹ the manor of Great Sampford, called Giffords, had descended to John Gifford and Margaret (sic) his wife, and from them to William Gifford, their son, and from William to John Gifford, son of William, who died s.p., and the manor had descended to Margaret Chaney, the sister of John and daughter of William Gifford. Margaret Chaney had granted the manor to John Chaney, her eldest son, and John Chaney, the elder, by his deed had granted it to John Chaney, the younger, his brother, to be held by him and his heirs for ever.

John Marney, Kt.

John Marney had enfeoffed in the manor Thomas Tyrell, Kt., Thomas Cornewaleys, Armiger, and two others, and they had re-enfeoffed Joan Marney, for her life, with remainder to Henry Marney, the defendant, and the heirs of his body.

Coram Rege. Trinity. 20. Ed. 4. m. 37.

Glouc.—Henry Tracy, Armiger, sued John Vampage for a trespass at Newington and Bampton. William, the Abbot of Hailes, had enfeoffed William Tracy, the younger, son of William Tracy, Armiger, and Katrine, his wife, and the heirs of their bodies, in the tenelements, in 13 Hen. 6, with remainder to Isabella, wife of Richard Urdeley, and the heirs of her body; and William Tracy and Katrine had died without leaving issue.

¹ The Inquisition is stated in the Calendar to have been taken on the death of John Giffard, but the contents of it shew this could not have been the case. John Giffard is stated in the Inquisition to have died in 1414, thirty-four years before the date of the Inquisition.

John O'Neary, the defendant, who had entered after the death of Margaret.

According to an inscription now taken in 27 Hen. 6, 1448-9, (apparently) on the death of John O'Neary, the owner of Great Hampton, called Gifford, had descended to John Gifford and Margaret (his) son and from them to William Gifford their son, and from William to John Gifford, son of William who died s.p., and the manor had descended to Margaret O'Neary, the sister of John and daughter of William Gifford. Margaret O'Neary had granted the manor to John O'Neary, her eldest son, and John O'Neary, the eldest, by his deed had granted it to John O'Neary, the younger, his brother, to be held by him and his heirs for ever.

entailed William Troy, the younger son of William Troy, Armiger, and Katharine his wife and the heirs of their bodies in the ten-ments in 13 Hen. 6 with remainder to Isabella wife of Richard Unley, and the heirs of her body, and William Troy and Katharine had died without leaving issue.

death of John Gifford, but the contents of it show this could not have been the case. John Gifford is stated in the inscription to have died in 1448 thirty-four years before the date of the inscription.

THE FOLLIOTTS OF LONDONDERRY AND CHESTER.

The English Foliots, Folyotts, or Folliotts—for the name was spelled in various ways—appear to have been a branch of an ancient Norman family, and to have settled originally in Yorkshire, where in the reign of William the Conqueror they were lords of Fenwick and Foliot's Fee.¹

They subsequently acquired the manor of Northon in the same county; the manor of Grimston in the county of Nottingham; and other manors in Norfolk and Derby.² Fenwick and Northon were apparently mesne manors within the manor of Pontefract.

On the great Roll of the Pipe of 31 Henry I, we find a William Foliot in Yorkshire, and a Pain Foliot in Devonshire³; but afterwards they are met with in many other counties in England.

Early in the reign of Edward III, the Folliott possessions in the counties of York, Nottingham, and Norfolk came to Margaret or Margery, daughter and heiress of Sir Richard Folliott⁴; and on her subsequent marriage with Sir Hugh Hastings, they passed to the Hastings family.⁵

In Harl. MS. 4,630, fol. 201, the following passage is found:—

“ffolyott of ffenwicke in the Wapentake of Osgoldcrosse beares gules a bend argent.

John ffolyott, Lord of ffenwicke, married the daughter of Sr Adam Newmarche Kn^t; had issue John.

John ffolyott Esq., son and heire of John, and Lord of ffenwicke, married Annabella, daughter of Sr John Pollington of Pollington in Balne, near Snaith, Kn^t; had issue Sr Richard, Cuthbert, and Alexander.

Sr Richard ffolyott, Kn^t, son and heire of John, and Lord of ffenwicke, married [blank], daughter of Sr John of Emley, Kn^t; had issue Margaret, his daughter and sole heire, married to Sr Hugh Hastings, Kn^t, in whose right he was Lord of ffenwicke and ffolyott ffee, which lands were holden of Wilm Placiter, Earle of Warren, Sussex and Surrey.”

One of the younger members of the Yorkshire family settled in Worcestershire, where a branch of the family existed in the reign of Henry I.⁶ From this stock came Hugh Foliot, Bishop of Hereford in 1219; and of this name and perhaps family were Gilbert Foliot, bishop of the same See in 1161, who was afterwards translated to London, and Robert Foliot, who was consecrated Bishop of Hereford by St. Thomas, Archbishop of Canterbury.

Pedigrees of the Worcestershire family are given in Nash's History of Worcestershire, vol. ii, p. 528, and in the Visitation of Worcestershire in Harl. Soc., xxvii, p. 53.

From the Worcestershire Foliots descended Sir Henry Folliott, Governor of Ballyshannon, co. Donegal, who was created Lord Folliott, Baron of Ballyshannon, in the Peerage of Ireland, on 22 Jan. 1619/20. He became one of the Undertakers in the Plantation of Ulster; and frequent mention of him is made in the State Papers of the period.

Early in the seventeenth century one William Folliott migrated from England to the city of Londonderry. As his arrival occurred at the time when Sir Henry Folliott, afterwards Lord Folliott, was actively concerned with Irish affairs, and especially with those in the Province of Ulster, one might conjecture that this William Folliott was a cadet of the Worcestershire family, following the fortunes of his house. However, the Rev. James Folliott, of Stapeley House, Nantwich, who took a great deal of trouble about seventy years ago in collecting materials for a family pedigree, has left amongst his papers a document stating, amongst other things, that this William Folliott came from Yorkshire; and the pedigree of the Folliott family given in the early editions of Burke's Landed Gentry, the materials for which were no doubt supplied by the Rev. James Folliott, repeats this statement.

The Yorkshire origin was perhaps a matter of tradition amongst the Folliotts of Londonderry, for there does not appear to be any documentary evidence on the subject.

William Folliott had two sons, Thomas and Robert. Thomas, the eldest son, established himself at Coleraine in the county Londonderry, and his only son went to the East Indies and died without issue. Robert, the younger son, served in the Army, and on his retirement married Eleanor Bradshaw, of Bradshaw Hall, co. Lancaster, and settled down in the city of Londonderry. His name appears on the Hearth Money Roll of the city and county of Londonderry for Michaelmas 1663, now in the Public Record Office, Dublin.

Robert Folliott had three sons, viz., William, John, and Henry; but of these William, the eldest son, alone needs notice. He was born in Londonderry in 1644, and married Jane, daughter of Matthew Thompson of the co. Antrim, by his wife Jane Coburn. Of this marriage there was issue two children, viz., Elinor, born in Londonderry in 1670, who married Humphrey Ewing, and William, who was born in Londonderry on 18 March 1686. He entered the Army when not quite fifteen years old, and served in Spain in the War of the Spanish Succession. He was at the taking of Barcelona and Alicante, and was taken prisoner at the battle of Almanza. Having made his escape, however, he was able to be present at Tortosa on 14 May 1707, when he was severely wounded by a shot through the right arm. For his bravery on this occasion he was recommended for a commission by General Earle, but he did not receive it until the year 1715.

When quartered at Tilbury Fort, after his return from Spain, he married Rosamond, daughter of John Greenstreet, of Tanbridge and Gravesend, by his wife Miss Knowles. There were four children of this marriage, viz., two sons who died in infancy, a daughter, Jane, who was married in 1747 to Mr. Philip Prosser of Dublin, merchant; and a son William, who went to Antigua and married Mrs. Fowler, a widow. Of this marriage there was no issue.

William Folliott, the elder, retired from the Army as a lieutenant on half-pay, and his wife Rosamond dying at Gravesend in 1720, he returned to his native city of Londonderry, and became a merchant there. In 1721 he married Joan, daughter of William Evory, one of the leading merchants of Londonderry, and by this second marriage he had four children, viz., three sons and one daughter. John, the eldest son, died young, having been drowned off the coast of Londonderry; and Robert, the youngest, after living a roving, and not very satisfactory life, died unmarried, sometime before 1805. Margaret, the daughter, married Captain Thomas Duval, who ultimately attained the rank of a Major-General in the Army on 3 May 1796. She died in 1803, leaving several children, issue of this marriage.

James Folliott, the second son, by whom the line of this branch of the Folliotts was continued, will be noticed presently, but the career of George, the third son, will be first dealt with. He was born in 1729 in Londonderry, and when he grew up he resolved to seek his fortune in one of the British Colonies of North America. His parents were at first strongly opposed to this plan, but owing, as is believed, to the advice of his maternal uncle, George Evory, who was a medical man in Londonderry, their consent was ultimately given, and he emigrated to New York. Settling in New York City, he in the course of time became a successful and wealthy merchant and shipowner. In 1759 he married Jane, daughter of George Harison of New York, merchant, by his wife Jane Nichols, but there were no children of the marriage. Two interesting volumes of the diaries kept by George Folliott are now in the possession of Lady Lawrence of Belgard, co. Dublin.¹ One of these details his doings from 26 September 1765 to the 7 June 1766, during a visit to England; while the other, which covers a period from 6 July 1771 to 24 March 1775, is chiefly taken up with memoranda relating to the daily life of himself and his wife during the summers spent by them at Mr. Denyse's, The Narrows, New York Harbour, and his visits on business to lands in Dutchess County and elsewhere, of which he was in possession as a mortgagee.

In 1775 he was elected a Member of the Provincial Congress for the city and county of New York, but declined serving.² During the War of Independence he took the side of the Loyalists, with the result that all his property in lands and mortgages was confiscated. Forced at last to leave America, he and his wife and his emancipated slave Cato, sailed from New York, and arrived at Falmouth on 23 June 1784. The remainder of his life was spent almost entirely at Chester, where his brother James Folliott resided. He died in August 1810, and was buried at Chester. His wife had predeceased him, and by his will, dated 31 July 1809, he left the bulk of his property to his cousins, Dr. Thomas Evory of Dublin, and Margaret Evory, the children of his uncle, George Evory of Londonderry. At the time of his death his claims against the British Government for the losses sustained by him during the war were still unsatisfied.

² Biographical Sketches of Loyalists of the American Revolution, by Lorenzo Sabine, vol. i, 429.

James Folliott, the second son of Lieutenant William Folliott of Londonderry, was born at Londonderry in 1726, and when he grew up was placed in the counting house of his uncle, James Evory, a merchant and shipowner of Dublin. He afterwards settled in Chester, and became one of the principal merchants in that city. He married first, in 1760, Mary, daughter of Rev. Edward Harwood, rector of Thornton, Cheshire, by his first wife Theodosia Trevisa,¹ and there were two children of the marriage, namely, an only son, William Harwood Folliott, born in 1761, and a daughter Theodosia, who died in infancy. His wife Mary died in 1764, and after an interval of some years he married Catherine Darbishire, daughter of the rector of Davenham, but there was no issue of this marriage.

His father, Lieutenant William Folliott of Londonderry, attained the age of ninety-two years, and died in Londonderry in 1778.

The subsequent history of the family is sufficiently set out in the tabular pedigree overleaf. It will be seen that on the death of the Rev. James Folliott, of Stapeley House, Nantwich, in 1876, the male line of the Folliotts of Chester and Londonderry came to an end.

At a time when "ff" was used to denote a capital "F," the name of the family was written "ffolliott," and Lieutenant James Folliott in letters written between March 1755 and August 1770, now before the present writer, always so subscribed himself. But, as has often been pointed out, it is absurd at the present day to write surnames such as Folliott or French with "ff" instead of "F." As well might every Jones and Robinson insist on writing his name Iones and Robinfon, because in former times "I" was the symbol used where "J" is now employed, and an "s" was represented by "f" when it was not a final letter. It need hardly be stated that such forms as Ffolliott, Ffrench, and the like are wholly indefensible. The double "f" discharged the functions of a capital "F," and if "F" is used, the raison d'être of the second "f" ceases to exist.

The arms of Folliott of Chester and Stapeley House, near Nantwich, are given on plate xxxiv in Heraldic Illustrations by John Burke and John Bernard Burke (1844), and are:—

ARMS: Gules a bend argent.

CREST: A lion rampant per pale argent and gules.²

EDMUND T. BEWLEY.

¹ The pedigree of the Harwood family will be found in Burke's Commoners, and Burke's Landed Gentry (second edition).

he left the bulk of his property to his cousin, Dr Thomas Evely of Dublin, and Margaret Evely, the children of his uncle, George Evely of Londonderry. At the time of his death his claims against the British Government for the losses sustained by him during the war were still unsatisfied.

James Follitt, the second son of Lieutenant William Follitt of Londonderry, was born at Londonderry in 1736, and when he grew up was placed in the counting house of his uncle, James Evely, a merchant and shipowner of Dublin. He afterwards settled in Chester, and became one of the principal merchants in that city. He married first, in 1760, Mary, daughter of Rev. Edward Harwood, rector of Thurston, Cheshire, by his first wife Theodosia Trevelyan, and there were two children of the marriage, namely, an only son, William Harwood Follitt, born in 1761, and a daughter, Theodosia, who died in infancy. His wife Mary died in 1761, and after an interval of some years he married Catherine Darbishire, daughter of the rector of Davenham, but there was no issue of this marriage.

His father, Lieutenant William Follitt of Londonderry, attained the age of ninety-two years, and died in Londonderry in 1778.

The subsequent history of the family is sufficiently set out in the tabular pedigree overhead. It will be seen that on the death of the Rev. James Follitt of Stapley House, Nantwich, in 1876, the male line of the Follitts of Chester and Londonderry came to an end.

At a time when "F" was used to denote a capital "F," the name of the family was written "Follitt," and Lieutenant James Follitt in letters written between March 1755 and August 1770 now before the present writer always so subscribed himself. But as has often been pointed out, it is absurd at the present day to write surnames such as Follitt or French with "F," instead of "F." As well might every Jones and Robinson insist on writing his name Jones and Robinson, because in former times "J" was the symbol used where "I" is now employed, and an "s" was represented by "t" when it was not a final letter. It need hardly be stated that such forms as Follitt, French, and the like are wholly indefensible. The double "l" distinguished the functions of a capital "F," and if "F" is used, the reason of the second "l" ceases to exist.

The arms of Follitt of Chester and Stapley House, near Nantwich, are given on plate xxxix in Herbivore Illustrations by John Burke and John Howard Burke (1844), and are:—

Arms: Gules a bend argent.

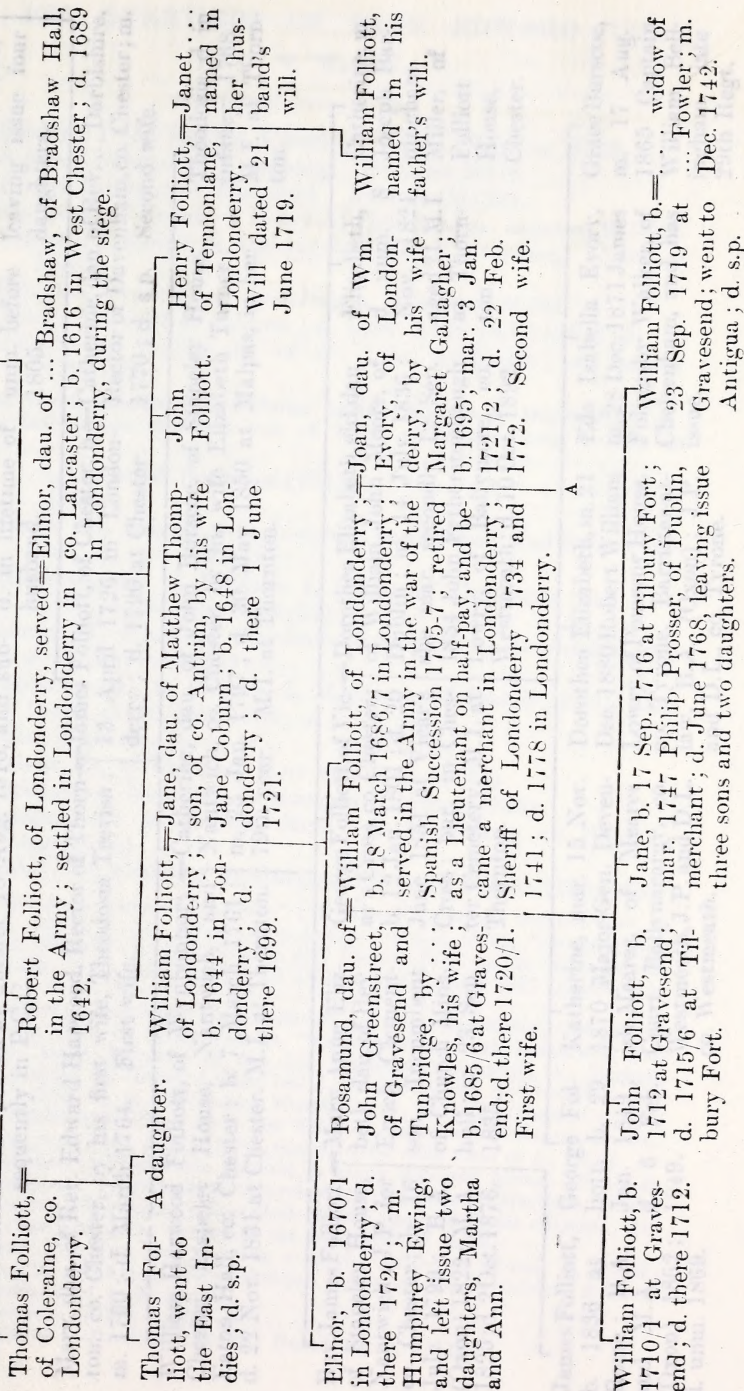

Crest: A lion rampant per pale argent and gules.

Supporters: T. Buxley.

¹ The pedigree of the Harwood family will be found in Burke's Commoners, and Burke's Landed Gentry (second edition).
² A large portion of the materials for the above article has been supplied by documents relating to the Follitt family kindly lent by Mrs. Howard-Morris and Mrs. William Holbrooke, daughters of the late George Follitt, Esq., of Vicar's Cross, Chester.

¹ There is some dispute as to what this crest is, and some explanations are rather far-fetched. From old drawings and blazons there seems little doubt that it is really:—From a panache of partridge feathers three heads of onions, gone to seed, all ppr. They are called chibbals or chibbols, which is a provincialism for spring onions.

² This John Langford is probably the John Langford, matric. at St. Edmund's Hall, Oxon, 19 Oct. 1599, aged 18, as of co. Denbigh, pleb., and admitted to Gray's Inn as a student 14 Aug. 1612, as son of Roger Langford, of co. Denbigh, Esq. There was a John Langford, of Oxford, gent., admitted to Gray's Inn 23 Nov. 1596, but he does not seem so likely to be the grantee.

THE BEWLEYS OF CUMBERLAND AND THEIR IRISH AND OTHER DESCENDANTS. By Sir Edmund Thomas Bewley, M.A., LL.D. Dublin (William McGee).

To carry back the male line of a family for nineteen generations without a break is of itself no mean achievement, and when we consider that the writer of this work commenced his labours under considerable disadvantages, the result of his investigations, pursued as they have been with much patience and logical acumen, may be considered as a veritable triumph of genealogical research. In the middle of the seventeenth century the Bewleys of Cumberland adopted the tenets of the Society of Friends, whose religious opinions led them to regard the preservation of ancestral records and traditions as savouring of the pomp and pride of life, and in later times the family migrated to Ireland, a country not as a rule fruitful in sources of genealogical information. But though the Quaker body were neglectful of their early ancestry, they preserved with the utmost care the particulars of births, deaths and marriages since they became a separate religious sect, so that the author's difficulties have mainly been concerned with the early pedigree, and here he has had to depend entirely upon public records. In addition to the usual sources of information, such as parish registers, bishops' transcripts, subsidy rolls and inquisitions post mortem, the Court Rolls and Surveys of the important manor of Caldbeck have been laid under contribution, and have been found a positive mine of genealogical facts, welding together the earlier and later descents.

THE BREWERS OF CUMBERLAND AND THEIR IRISH AND OTHER DESCENDANTS. By Sir Edmund Thomas Bewley, M.A., LL.D. Dublin (William Meehan).

To carry back the male line of a family for nineteen generations without a break is of itself no mean achievement, and when we consider that the writer of this work commenced his labours under considerable disadvantages, the result of his investigations pursued as they have been with much patience and logical accuracy, may be considered as a veritable triumph of genealogical research. In the middle of the seventeenth century the Brewers of Cumberland adopted the tenets of the Society of Friends, whose religious opinions led them to regard the preservation of ancestral records and traditions as savouring of the pomp and pride of life, and in later times the family, situated in Ireland, a country not as a rule fruitful in sources of genealogical information, but though the Quaker body were negligent of their early ancestry, they preserved with the utmost care the particulars of births, deaths and marriages since they became a separate religious sect, so that the author's difficulties have mainly been concerned with the early pedigree, and here he has had to depend entirely upon public records. In addition to the usual sources of information, such as parish registers, bishops' transcripts, sundry wills and indentations past and present, the Court Rolls and Surveys of the important manor of Carlisle have been laid under contribution, and have been found a positive mine of genealogical facts, welding together the earlier and later descents.

Sir Edmund Bewley begins with a learned introduction upon the origin of the name, which he derives from Beaulieu, or Bellus locus, showing this to be a place name given by the monks to numerous monasteries and ecclesiastical manor houses scattered over Europe. One of these domains, Beaulieu, or Bewley, Castle in Cumberland, was long a residence of the Bishops of Carlisle, and a family holding office under the Bishops derived from it the surname of de Beaulieu, which in later times became Bewley. This theory is suggested in Appendix I., and is far more probable than the supposed descent from the family of the same name in Hainault, which is set forth in Chapter II, and which we understand subsequent discoveries have led the author to abandon.

The first certain ancestor on record is Thomas de Beaulieu, of Thistlethwaite in the parish of Castle Sowerby, who is named in Subsidy Rolls 1332-1340; his grandson and great grandson were knights of the shire for Cumberland, and occupied a considerable position in their county. A younger son of this house, Richard Beaulieu, was a burgess for Carlisle to the Parliament of 1433, and founded a family for many generations settled at Hesket Hall, Hesket being a mesne manor within that of Caldbeck. A branch of the Bewleys of Hesket was seated at Woodhall within the parish of Caldbeck, and from this branch came Thomas Bewley of Haltcliffe Hall, who, being a devoted adherent of George Fox, suffered imprisonment for non-payment of tithes, as did also his two sons. Several of the grandsons of this Thomas Bewley removed to Ireland, and their descendants are fully set out both in the text and in the very carefully compiled tabular pedigrees at the end of the volume.

The chapter on the arms of the Bewleys of Cumberland is of considerable interest, and is evidently the fruit of careful study of the subject. The ancient coat of Beaulieu dates from feudal times, and is to be found in some of the early rolls of arms, so that it is satisfactory to find that it has recently been confirmed by "Ulster" to the writer of this book.

THE COURT OF CLAIMS: CASES AND EVIDENCE. By G. Woods Wollaston. London (Harrison & Sons).

Mr. Wollaston has here given a most interesting and intelligible account of the constitution of the Court of Claims and report of the proceedings before it, which is all the more important because, being derived from the original authorities, it forms a complete, if unofficial, account of what took place; the record of the judgments, which alone finds place on the Coronation Roll, being of little value and less general interest. In this well-printed volume the petitions are given in extenso, together with the evidence adduced in support of them: this is followed by an able summary of the arguments and a note of the judgment. It is hardly necessary to remind our readers that the only point of great interest decided by the Court of Claims was the dispute with reference to the office of Hereditary Grand Standard Bearer of Scotland, and that the decision is under revision by the Scotch Courts. Mr. Wollaston adds several appendices, the first giving an epitome of the claims made before the Committee of Privileges to the office of Lord Great Chamberlain, and its decision thereon, without which the judgment of the Court of Claims on this matter is incomplete: the second being a very valuable table of the claims made at the Coronations from the time of Richard II to Edward VII and the decisions thereon, taken from documents which are records receivable in evidence in the strictest sense.

The introduction does not seem to be up to the high level of the bulk of the volume: parts of it, especially when taken in conjunction with the photograph which serves as a frontispiece, suggest that the author has not a very high opinion of the dignity of the Court or the value of its judgments, but it is not of sufficient length or importance to detract materially from the very great merits of the remainder of the work, which is the best account that has yet appeared in print of what is to genealogists the most interesting part of the proceedings in connection with the Coronation.

THE SCOTTISH HISTORICAL REVIEW. Vol. i, No. 1. October, 1903. Glasgow (James MacLehose and Sons).

Old friends of The Scottish Antiquary will be glad to see it re-appear in a new and greatly improved form; excellently printed and artistically illustrated, it is now quite up to the level of English reviews of the first rank. If some of the papers, as for instance that with which the number opens—Professor Walter Raleigh's scholarly and most interesting article on "The Lives of Authors"—have little to do with Scotland and the Scottish people, the same objection cannot be urged against the majority of the contributions. One of the most valuable papers is that by Mr. A. H. Millar, on "Scotland described for Queen Magdalene," which brings to notice a small and curious volume written by one Jehan Desmontiers, for the information of the first consort of James V, who did not however live to read it, at all events in print. The Rev. James Wilson contributes, with explanatory notes, a charter of Gospatric from an ancient copy preserved at Lowther Castle. Mr. Andrew Lang gives the full text of a letter from Sir William Stewart, "Lyon," to the Regent in 1569. In a short paper of two pages, which is the only strictly genealogical article in the number, Mr. J. M. Bulloch advocates the investigation of cadet branches of a historic house before attempting to tackle the main line.

A long list of well known writers who have promised assistance in the future justifies the hope that this excellent quarterly may have a long and useful career before it.

We have also received "The Blood Royal of Britain," by the Marquis of Ruvigny and Raineval (London, T. C. and E. C. Jack), which reached us too late for review in this number, but we shall hope to insert a notice in January.

Notes and Queries.

A FLEMISH BRANCH OF THE HAMILTONS OF INNERWICK.—Mr. Keith W. Murray's most interesting paper, with which the current volume of The Genealogist opens, has drawn attention to this ancient branch of the house of Hamilton, and it is therefore hoped that some student of Scottish genealogy may be able to throw light upon the exact place in the family tree of the James or Jacques Hamilton who heads the following short pedigree, which is mainly taken from Goethals (Miroir, vol. i, pp. 922, 928, 929, and Dictionnaire, vol. iii, under Looz-Corswarem).

James, or Jacques Hamilton (descended from the barons of "Enderwick"), merchant at Liège. — Marie de Marchinelle de Buzet.

Pierre Ferdinand Hamilton, merchant at Liège; — Marguerite, dau. of Martin Stael, Seigneur de Malonne, de Petitlez, etc.; réhabilité en noblesse, by letters patent 11 April 1648. said to have been descended from the house of Stael de Holstein.

Marie, only child of her parents; — François de Corswarem, Seigneur de Faulx et born 8 Sept. 1640, or 1641; mar. de Mozet, Colonel of Infantry, in service of at Liège, contract 6 Feb. 1662. the King of Spain.

Rietstap's Armorial Général gives the following:—"Hamilton d'Enderwyck—Flandre (Reh. de nob., 11 avril 1648). De gu. à la fasce échiq. d'arg. et d'azur de trois tires, acc. de trois quintefeuilles d'herm., percées d'or; et un croiss. d'or, posé au point d'honneur. S.: deux cerfs d'arg."

Among the marriages at the church of Sluys in Dutch Flanders, under date 7 April 1612, occurs the following:—"Jonckheer Pieter Hamelton, of Kinkevel in Scotland, in the Company of Captain Hudson, and Francyntgen La Bassiere, spinster, of Drÿsluys."

It also appears from Goethals (Dictionnaire, vol. i, under Blondel) that Marie Françoise Hamilton, daughter of William, or Guillaume, Hamilton, Colonel of a Scottish regiment in the service of Spain, and of Elizabeth Eggerton, married, as his second wife, Michael Louis Blondel, Seigneur de Werquigneul, who was created hereditary chevalier by letters patent 20 May 1614. The mention of Eggerton in connection with Hamilton affords a clue to this William Hamilton, who may have been quite unconnected with the Innerwick family and was possibly related to the Hamiltons of Ypres, whose pedigree I contributed to The Genealogist, N.S., vol. xiv, p. 264.

For references to these and many other members of the Hamilton family settled in the Netherlands, I am indebted to my friend Mr. W. J. C. Moens, F.S.A., Vice-President of the Huguenot Society.

DIARY OF ALEXANDER BENNETT, 1705 to 1758.

The writer, who was eight years in the service of the East India Company, was the fourth and youngest son of Sir John Bennett, Serjeant-at-Law and Judge of the Marshalsea Court (1699-1723), by Anne (sister of Susan, wife of Sir John Morden, Baronet, the founder of Morden College, Blackheath), daughter of Joseph Brand, or Brond, of Edwardstone, Suffolk. His marriage, 16 Sep. 1716, with Mary, da. of Henry Merttins (brother of Alderman Sir George Merttins), the birth of their fourteen children and the various incidents that befel them and divers of his relatives are herein set forth, together with several pious reflections, etc. He died 30 Sep. 1759, aged 70, about seventeen months after the last entry.

A copy (from which this is printed) of the original MS. has been kindly made by Jessie Maria Georgina Bennett, daughter of the present proprietor, the Rev. Alexander Sykes Bennett, M.A., Vicar of St. Stephen's, Bournemouth, great grandson of the Diarist, he being the eldest son of the Rev. Alexander Morden Bennett, M.A., sometime (1845-1880) Vicar of Bournemouth (died 19 Jan. 1880, aged 72), who was eldest son of Alexander Bennett, sometime (1802-1819), Treasurer to Morden College (died Oct. 1819, aged 85), the youngest son of the above-named Alexander Bennett, the Diarist.

It is proposed to illustrate this diary with a pedigree enlarged from that in Le Neve's Knights, and abstracts of wills, parish registers, etc., relating to some of the parties therein mentioned.

My father having been so kind to desire my company to live with him in Essex Street, and being pretty well settled in England, Resolved to sett myself some rules for my better behaviour in company and for the future conduct of my life, viz. :—

Resolved to be very carefull in company how I talked of other people or gave characters except for their advantage.

Resolved never to value myself upon, or talk too much in company of, my own family.

Being sensible that diligence is the only way to thrive, therefore resolved to put off no business for to-morrow that could be done to-day.

Resolved every evening to sett apart a convenient time to recollect the materiall actions of the past day.

Resolved to live so circumspectly that if my Life was to be put in print, no part of it should make me blush.

Resolved upon the appearance of any temptation to lay my hand upon my heart and repeat these words, ‘He that knows his Master’s will and does it not, shall be beaten with many stripes.’

Resolved to be dutifull to my parents, loving to my brothers and sisters, and obliging and affable to all.”

“SOME MATERIALL SENTENCES TOWARDS MAKING OUR LIVES HAPPY.

“Never do anything materiall by another that you can do yourself.

“Never put off anything that is material till to-morrow that you can do to-day.

“When in company if you hear any body blamed, recollect if guilty of the same, and amend.

“Be sure you spend no more than you can afford, for, besides the continuall uneasiness of mind, “Duns succeed extravagance;

“Bayliffs succeed duns;

“Prison succeeds bayliffs.

“A broken heart or the goale distemper succeeds the prison and closes the malancholy seen by death.

“Be cautious in employing and getting money.

“Be carefull in giving characters.

“Be prudent in all your actions, so that if your life was to be put in print no part should make you blush.

“Be contented in your condition.

“Be neat, not fine, and speak rather slow than fast.”

the East India 3 Feb. 1706/7.

"Child,

"You have hitherto been religiously and carefully and tenderly educated and brought up with no small expense under the wings of an indulgent father and of the fondest (yet prudent) mother. Nor hath their care been less now, that it is time that you should be transplanted to grow and flourish upon your own root. It is true your first step is to view the wonders of the deep in a long voyage, but your eyes are shown by the Providence of the Almighty who settles you to the sea (and I know not whether I shall live to see you again) yet we have all that satisfaction that your lot is laid out in a goodly inheritance, and by the blessing of God and your own industry, you cannot fail of returning with your arms full of sheels, and all the comfort and enjoyments of this life; but let not these glittering toys (the rewards of diligence and industry) by looking too much on them, make you forget the hand that gave them, who can as soon snatch 'em from you and show your folly and the emptiness thereof in your greatest security and highest enjoyment, dear child. Remember what promises were made for you at your baptism, and which you (by your parents care having been brought to the Holy Communion) have confirmed and undertaken and promised in your own person and have received thereupon the seals of your salvation.

"Therefore let God be always in your thoughts who has you always in his eye. Fear him, love him, and do all things to his honour and to his glory and beg his protection and wholly rely on him in all perils at sea and dangers on land and if you do not leave him, he will never leave you nor forsake you.

"Remember you have been taught and used to read 3 chapters every day, whereby you read the Holy Bible (the most valuable of all books) through once in every year and do not forget how often you used to offer yourself with great zeal and devotion to God Almighty in prayer and thanksgiving for his great mercies vouchsafed to you and how solemnly you then every night repeated God's Holy Commandments, and with your hand upon your breast repeating each Commandment examined yourself whether you had that day broken any of those laws in thought, word, or deed and humbly begged God's pardon for your failings and sins and backslidings (though unwillingly) committed, and giving God the glory when you had resisted any temptation and every morning putting yourself under God's protection and faithfully promising to do his holy will and commandments, set yourself to your business and resolve to run the race that he has set before you with holiness and righteousness all the days of your life and remember how you used to keep holy the Sabbath day, which if you do not continue to do, believe, if you forsake him, he will also forsake you and you will soon find yourself in a fool's paradise, who had, and certainly, if you take care to perform all his commandments will have the assurance of the enjoyments of eternal joys in heaven for evermore. And remember if you forsake your God you are doomed to the everlasting burnings for ever and for ever, world without end.

"As for your behaviour in your business, be industrious, careful, honest, just, wronging no man, but quicksighted and sharp to discover the frauds and cheats of others, call no man knave but deal with all, as such, to your own security. Backbite no man nor speak ill of any man, but speak well and do all the good you can to all men, but especially to those of the household of faith. Be kind, affable, courteous and obliging to all and give honour to whom honour is due and obey the magistrate, for their power is of the Lord. If you deserve God's blessing, you can't fayle of it and then though absent, you will be the joy of the hearts of your parents who give you their blessing and dayly pray for your preservation. And if I never see you more, remember that I gave you these as the advice and dying words of your most indulgent loving father,

"Jo: BENNETT."

Pedigrees from the Plea Rolls.

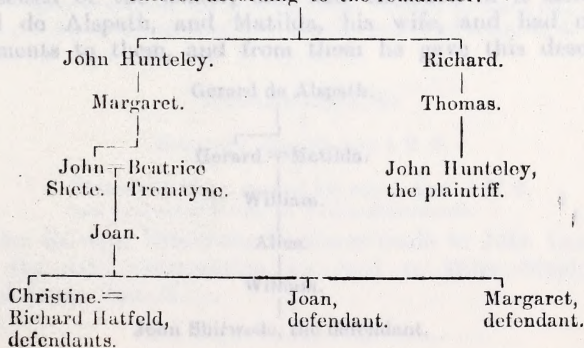

By Major-General the Hon. GEORGE WROTTESELEY.

De Banco. Mich. 22. Ed. 4. m. 477.

Somerset.—John Hunteley sued Richard Hatfeld, Armiger, and Christine, his wife, Joan Swete and Margaret Swete for lands and tenements in Netheratbare, Overatbare and Horner. The pleadings state that in 4 E. 2 a Fine was levied between Geoffrey de Mahun and Margery, his wife, and William de Burne, by which the tenements were settled on Geoffrey and Margery, and the heirs of the body of Geoffrey, with remainder to Nicholas, brother of Geoffrey, for his life, with remainder to David, son of Thomas Huntelegh and the heirs of his body, and failing such, to Thomas, brother of David and the heirs of his body, and failing such, to the right heirs of Geoffrey de Mahun for ever. The defendants gave this pedigree:—

Thomas, brother of David Huntelegh, entered according to the remainder.

for ever and for ever, without end.

John Hunteley stated that Margaret, the daughter of John Hunteley of the pedigree, had died s.p., and the jury found in his favour.

De Banco. Trinity. 22. Ed. 4. m. 411.

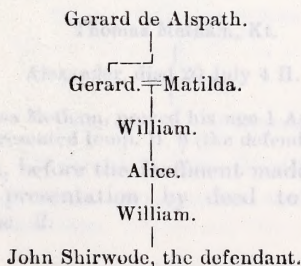

Oxon.—John Nowers sued Elizabeth Boteler, late of London, widow, and John Barantyne, late of London, gentleman, for a trespass at Churchehill by depasturing cattle on his grass.

The defendants claimed by a demise of Alice, the second wife of John Nowers, made to one John Drayton, who had enfeoffed Drogo Barantyne, and Drogo had enfeoffed Elizabeth Boteler. John Barantyne was the son of Drogo. John Nowers, the younger, had been outlawed and had abjured the Kingdom, and in 26 H. 6 had released all his claim in the manor of Churchehill to Drogo Barantyne and his heirs. See also a suit on p. 93 of this volume.

Coram Rege. Mich. 3. Ed. 4. m. 27.

Warwick.—Richard Clapham sued John Shirwode to deliver up to him a pyx containing the muniments of the manor of Alspath (Meriden). The defendant stated that one Osbert Clinton was formerly seised of the manor, and had enfeoffed in it Gerard, son of Gerard de Alspath, and Matilda, his wife, and had delivered the muniments to them, and from them he gave this descent:—

John Huntley stated that Margaret, the daughter of John Huntley of the pedigree, had died a.p., and the jury found in his favour.

THE 4096 QUARTIERS OF KING EDWARD VII.

By G. W. WATSON.

- N2101. James IV, King of Scotland; b. 17 March 1472/3; d. 9 Sep. 1513.(212)
- N2102. Margaret Tudor, Princess of England; m. 8 Aug. 1503. Same as N2100.
- N2103. Claude de Lorraine, Duke of Guise; b. 20 Oct. 1496; d. 12 Apr. 1550.(215)
- N2104. Antoinette, da. of Francis de Bourbon, Count of Vendôme; b. 25 Dec. 1493 [not 1494]; m. (c. 9 June 1513) 12 June 1513; d. 22 Jan. [not 20 Jan.] 1583.(210)
- N2145. Joachim Desmier, Seigneur d'Olbreuse; living 4 July 1543.(216)
- N2146. Guillemette, da. of Andrew d'Alloue, Seigneur des Adjots; m. 13 July 1506.(217)
- (“Sans doute fille d'André” (Filleau). According to the Abbé le Laboureur—to whom Alexander Desmier committed the task of proving the antiquity of his family, on the occasion of his sister's alliance with the Duke of Brunswick—she was daughter of Clement d'Alloue (son of Andrew) by his marriage with Mary de St. Gelais; which marriage unfortunately did not take place till 1498 (contract 11 Oct.). Unfortunately, because it was through this Mary that the genealogists deduced the descent of Eleanor Desmier from the Counts of la Marche, of Angoulême, and of Vermandois, and so from no less a personage than “Charles Magne” himself. See the pedigree by Greiffeneranz, in Bodemann's Neue Beiträge, as in 1168 note, 229).
- N2147. John Dorin, Seigneur de Ligné et du Poiron; living 25 Dec. 1552.(218)
- N2148. Jane, da. of René Bodet, Seigneur de la Fenestre; m. 1 July 1518.(219)
- N2149. Peter de Mathefelon, Seigneur de Lanchenay.(220)
- N2150. Catherine, da. of John de Chourses, Seigneur de Malicorne.(221)

(This filiation for M1075 appears to be incorrect. According to the genealogy of Mathefelon, Peter left, by his wife Catherine de Chourses, 4 daughters his coheirs).

(215). LORRAINE:—Calmet, as in note 12, i, 204-273; Gebhardi, i; Behr, 108-117. DUKES OF GUISE:—Anselme, iii, 478-503; R. de Bouillé, Hist. des Ducs de Guise, 1849-50.

(216). DESMIER:—H. et P. Beauchet-Filleau, Dictionnaire des Familles du Poitou, seconde édit., 1891, etc., iii, 89-108. The account here given of the ancestors [N2145—N2176] of Eleanor Desmier [1168] was compiled for the present work by the person best qualified to do so, M. Paul Beauchet-Filleau; for the notes he is not responsible.

(217, 218, 219, 221, 222, 224, 225). ALLOUE: DORIN: BODET: CHOURSSES: COURRET: BAUDOUIN: BERNEGOYAU:—Filleau, seconde édit., i, 49-51, iii, 16; iii, 143-144; i, 561-564; ii, 493-494; ii, 693-694; i, 336-338; i, 478.

 N2146. Guillemette, da. of Andrew d'Alione, Seigneur des Adjots; m. 13 July 1508 (217)

"Sans doute elle d'Alione" (Fibian). According to the Abbé de LaPorte—to whom Alexander has committed the task of proving the nobility of his family, on the occasion of his sister's alliance with the Duke of Brabant—she was daughter of Clément d'Alione (son of Andrew) by his marriage with Mary de St. Gelais; which marriage unfortunately did not take place till 1492 (contrast 11 Oct.). Unfortunately, because it was through this Mary that the genealogist believed the descent of Francis de Bourbon from the Counts of Mont de Angoulême, and of Vendôme, and so from no less a personage than "Charles Martel" himself. See the passage by Godefroy in Holmann's Nob. Belgic., m. in 1102, note 223.

Pedigree of Offley.

Compiled by G. C. BOWER and H. W. F. HARWOOD.

K.

KATHERINE OFFLEY, mar. before 1 Feb. 1551-2 Robert, or William Bowyer.¹ She was living 1596. They had issue—

Hugh Bowyer, living 1600.

William Bowyer, living 1600.

Grissell, mar. Nicholas Chapman, Haberdasher, and had issue—

L.

.² mar. before 1 Feb. 1551-2 Gyles Jacob, Citizen and Merchant Taylor of London, whose will dated 18 Feb., was pr. P.C.C. 16 March 1580-1, and had issue—

1. Robert Jacob, M.A. and Fellow of Trin. Coll., Camb; entered at Merchant Taylors' School 21 Jan. 1563-4; Physician to Queen Elizabeth, and in 1581 to the Czar Ivan; Fellow of the College of Physicians 15 March 1586; died unmar. 1588; will dated 16 March 1585-6, pr. P.C.C. 5 June 1588 (42 Rutland). See Dictionary of National Biography.

2. Gisbriht Jacob, of Clare Hall, Cambridge; died s.p. 1598; will dated 17 June 1597, pr. P.C.C. 7 April 1598.³

3. Giles Jacob, of London, leatherseller, born in the parish of St. Mary Cole Church; died s.p. Will, not dated, with codicil dated 7 Feb. 1592-3, pr. P.C.C. 30 Jan. 1593-4.

1. Jane, mar. first . . . Whitefoote, secondly . . . Peers.

2. Anne, unmar. 1585-6; mar. before 17 June 1597, Humfrey Hooper.

¹ He is called Robert Bowyer in the wills of Sir Thomas Offley and Robert Offley, but William in that of Margaret Kirton.

² She is, by mistake, called "Anne" on p. 218, vol. xix. Anne was the name of Giles Jacob's second wife, who survived him, and by whom he had a dau. Elizabeth, wife of . . . Parrys.

³ The testator left by this will £100 to the Master, Fellows and Scholars of Clare Hall, Cambridge, if so much should be received upon a suit then in Chancery between himself and his cousin Thomas Offley.

ADDENDA.

REGISTERS OF ST. ANDREW UNDERSHAFT, LONDON.¹

BAPTISMS.

- 21 June 1558. Margett Whethyll,² dau. of Rychard Whethyll.
 18 Oct. 1559. Stephen Whethell, son of Rychard Whethell.
 29 Dec. 1560. Margeret Dutton,³ dau. of M^r Dutton Esquier.
 8 Feb. 1569-70. Thomas Offley,⁴ sonne of Henry Offley gentleman.
 21 Feb. 1573-4. Symond Offley sonne of Mister Hugh Offley.
 24 Aug. 1578. Hugh Offlie the sonne of M^r Hugh Offlie.
 2 Apr. 1580. Margaret Offlie⁵ the daughter of M^r Henry Offlie gentleman.
 25 June 1584. Henry Offlie⁶ the sonne of M^r Offlie.
 3 May 1585. Margaret Offlie the daughter of M^r Hugh Offlie.
 3 May 1586. John Offlie⁷ the sonne of M^r Henry Offlie.
 28 June 1590. Suzan Offlie⁸ the daughter of M^r Hugh Offlie, ald^rman.
 10 Nov. 1594. Hugh Offlie the sonne of M^r Thō Offlie.
 29 Aug. 1598. An Offlie the daughter of M^r Thomas Offlie.
 13 May 1606. Elizabeth Offlie⁹ daught. of M^r John Offlie.
 9 May 1611. Harry Gyfford son of M^r Philip Gyfford.

MARRIAGES.

- 12 Dec. 1585. M^r Jeames Deane & M^{rs} Elizabeth Offlie.

¹ Since the earlier part of the Offley pedigree was compiled, access to these registers has been permitted by the Bishop of Islington, Rector of St. Andrew's, with the result that additional information has been obtained, especially as to the direct line of Sir Thomas Offley. It has, therefore, been deemed advisable to print these extracts in full. Every entry relating to the family of Offley has been taken from the commencement of the registers to 1634.

² Afterwards Lady Mildmay. See Offley Manuscript, vol. xix, p. 6, and Offley Pedigree, p. 224 of same volume.

³ Probably dau. of Thomas Dutton, of Sherborne, co. Glouc., by Anne Kirton, his wife. See vol. xix, pp. 6, 224.

⁴ See his burial 24 Feb. 1611-12. He was, therefore, not aged sixteen at his death as stated in the Offley Manuscript, vol. xix, p. 5, but was forty-two years old. He may have been the Thomas Offley of St. Leonard's, Eastcheap, Merchant Taylor, who married there 29 Oct. 1604 Margaret Pratt, of St. Mary Magdalen's, Bermondsey, spinster; but as his brother Sir John Offley was found by the Inq. P.M. to their father to be the latter's heir, this Thomas must have died s.p.

⁵ See her burial 15 Sept. following. There seems to be no mention in the St. Andrew's Registers of the daughter of Henry Offley named Mary, who is said in the Offley Manuscript to have died aged eight years, and to have been interred in the chancel, near her grandmother Dame Joane Offley.

⁶ Buried 9 July following. See Manuscript, vol. xix, p. 5.

⁷ Afterwards Sir John Offley.

⁸ See her marriage 29 July 1610, and her burial 19 Dec. 1616.

⁹ Bur. 25 Oct. 1610. Sir John had another dau. Elizabeth, who became Lady Jenney. See Pedigree, vol. xix, p. 219.

APPENDIX.

Registers of St. Andrew Undershaft, London.

BAPTISMS.

29 Dec.	1560.	Margaret Patton, dau. of Mr. Dutton Esq.
8 Feb.	1569-70.	Thomas Orfley, son of Henry Orfley Esq.
21 Feb.	1573-4.	Symond Orfley, son of Misses Hugh Orfley.
24 Aug.	1578.	Hugh Orfley, the son of Mr. Hugh Orfley.
2 Apr.	1580.	Margaret Orfley, the daughter of Mr. Henry Orfley Esq.
25 June	1581.	Henry Orfley, the son of Mr. Orfley.
3 May	1583.	Margaret Orfley, the daughter of Mr. Hugh Orfley.
3 May	1586.	John Orfley, the son of Mr. Henry Orfley.
28 June	1590.	Samuel Orfley, the daughter of Mr. Hugh Orfley Esq.
10 Nov.	1594.	Hugh Orfley, the son of Mr. Thomas Orfley.
29 Aug.	1598.	An Orfley, the daughter of Mr. Thomas Orfley.
13 May	1606.	Elizabeth Orfley, daughter of Mr. John Orfley.
9 May	1611.	Henry Orfley, son of Mr. Philip Orfley.

MARRIAGES.

12 Dec. 1585. Mr. James Deane & Mrs. Elizabeth Orfley.

¹ Since the earlier part of the Orfley pedigree was thought correct to these registers has been corrected by the Bishop of London, Doctor of St. Andrew's, with the result that additional information has been obtained, especially as to the direct line of Sir Thomas Orfley. It has, therefore, been deemed advisable to print these extracts in full. Every entry relating to the family of Orfley has been taken from the commencement of the registers to 1634.

² Attestments Lady Manners. See Orfley Manuscript, vol. xix, p. 6, and Orfley's Register, p. 224 of same volume.

³ Probably dau. of Thomas Patton of Shropshire, co. Gloucester, by Anne Kirton, his wife. See vol. xix, p. 224.

⁴ See his burial 24 Feb. 1611-12. He was, therefore, not aged sixteen at his death as stated in the Orfley Manuscript, vol. xix, p. 6, but was forty-two years old. He may have been the Thomas Orfley of St. Leonard's, Shropshire, who married Tabitha, who married Thomas, 24 Oct. 1604. Manners' list of Mr. Henry Manners' descendants, however, but as his brother Sir John Orfley was found by the L.R. to have died in 1611, it is probable that this Thomas must have died early.

⁵ See her burial 16 Sept. following. There seems to be no mention in the St. Andrew's Register of the daughter of Henry Orfley named Mary, who is said in the Orfley Manuscript to have died aged eight years, and to have been buried in the church near her grandfather Deane's tomb Orfley.

⁶ Buried 3 July following. See Manuscript, vol. xix, p. 5.

⁷ Attestments Sir John Orfley.

⁸ See her marriage 20 July 1610, and her burial 12 Dec. 1610.

⁹ Bur. 25 Oct. 1610. Sir John had another dau. Elizabeth, who became Lady Tenney. See Pedigree, vol. xix, p. 219.

- 23 Apr. 1594. Ric. Dorrington¹ & Em Cradocke.¹
 29 July 1610. Mr Phillip Gyffard & Suzanna Offlie.²

¹ This entry must refer to the well known General Alexander Leslie, of Balgonie, co. Fife, son of George Leslie of the same place. He served in Holland and under Gustavus Adolphus with great distinction, being made by the latter a Field Marshal. He returned to Scotland and commanded the army of the Covenanters, for whom he captured Edinburgh Castle. In 1640 he defeated the Royal army at Newburn and took possession of Newcastle. Later he was appointed one of the Commissioners to treat with the King at Ripon, by whom he was created on 11 October [patent sealed 20 October] 1641, Lord Balgonie and Earl of Leven. In 1642 he was appointed General of the Scottish Forces in Ireland, and with 21,000 men under him joined the Parliamentary army, greatly contributing to the victory of Marston Moor. After the execution of King Charles he went over to the Royalist side. The male line failing, the patent was surrendered and the titles regranted with remainder to the heir female, by which they went to the family of Melville, from whom they descended to the present Earl of Leven and Melville, who quarters for Leslie, Arg. on a bend Az. three oval buckles Or. The misspelling the name of such a distinguished person is strange, while the record of this variation of the arms of the chief line of the Leslie family is most interesting, particularly as the present representative uses a different coat for this family.

² These arms are on a large monument at Churchill, with recumbent effigies of John Latch and his wife.

London, and George Lasso, citizen and mercer of London, sons of William Lasso, late of Helian, dec. Gr. by E. Ryse, Clk., and W. Dugdale, Notary. Arg. a tabbed pass. See a chief of the second Crest—On a wreath Arg. and Ss. a mural coronet. Of therefrom a demi-tail of the second. Shows M.S. 718.

Lator, John, of Chinnell, co. Somerset. Gr. by W. Segar, Garter. Arg. on a fess wavy As., betw. three inescutcheons Or., as many lions. Crest—A lion's head erased Or., collared wavy As., langued G. Shows M.S. 677 and 692.

Laurie, John, of Halesworth, in Suffolk, s. of John Laurie of the same. Conf. by Sir G. Dethick, Garter, 8 Nov. 1580. Gr. on a fess dancette Ss., three inescutcheons of the first; a canton of the second charged with a lion ramp. of the field. Crest—A gauntlet lessways supporting a lance erect, all ppr. Hart. M.S. 1441; Shows M.S. 703.

LAURENCE, WILLIAM, of London, gent. and mercer, 1634. Cert. by Edw. Norgate, Windsor Herald. From a lion ramp. Ss. Crest—On a chapeau G. turned up Ss., a lion's head erased of the last. He had issue John, then aged 30; William, aged 16; and Thomas, aged 14. Hart. M.S. 5809 (two separate entries in one of which the lion in the arms is Ss., in the other As.). Add. M.S. 5523 f. 135.

LAVERDER, NATHANIEL, of London, s. of William Laverder, of Standon, co. Hert. Conf. of arms and gr. of crest by Sir W. Segar, Garter, 7 May 1628. For fess G. and Arg. a pale counterchanged, and three fountain ppr. Crest—A demi-horse salient Arg., gorged with a chaplet of lavender ppr. Add. M.S. 12255; Shows M.S. 703.

This entry must refer to the well known General Alexander Leslie of Lathcote, co. Fife, son of George Leslie of the same place. He served in Holland and under Gustavus Adolphus with great distinction, being made by the latter a Field Marshal. He returned to Scotland and commanded the army of the Commonwealth for whom he captured Edinburgh Castle, in 1640 he defeated the Royal army at Newburn and took possession of Newcastle. Later he was appointed one of the Commissioners to treat with the King at Upton, by whom he was created on 11 October [patent sealed 30 October] 1641, Lord Balgonie and Earl of Leven. In 1642 he was appointed General of the Scottish forces in Ireland, and with 21,000 men under him joined the Parliamentary army, greatly contributing to the victory of Marston Moor. After the execution of King Charles he went over to the Royalist side. The mode here following the patent was misunderstood and the blazon requested with remission to the baron, by which they went to the family of Melville from whom they descended to the present Earl of Leven and Melville, who quarters for Leslie, viz. on a bend the three gold buckles Or. The misspelling the name of such a distinguished person is strange, while the record of this variation of the arms of the chief line of the Leslie family is most interesting, particularly as the present representative was a different coat for the family.

These arms are on a silver monument at Linlithgow, with numerous copies of John Leslie and his wife.

LAWRENCE, ADAM, of London, merchant, High Sheriff of Bucks 1653. Gr. by Sir E. Bysshe, Garter, 1652. Lord Mayor of London 1665. Erm. a cross ragulée Gu., a canton Erms. Crest—Two staves ragulée, in saltire Arg., entw. by a wreath of laurel Vert. Harl. MS. 1,441; Stowe MS. 703.

LAWRENCE, RICHARD, of Foxcote, co. Gloucester. Gr. by W. Dethick, Garter, 41 Eliz. Arg. a cross ragulée Gu., in the first quarter a lion pass. of the second. Crest—A fox's head coupé ppr., on the neck a bezant.

Richard Lawrence,  . . . of Foxcote.

Richard Lawrence,  Elizabeth, second dau. of Richard
s. & h. | Coningsby, Esq., Gent. Usher to
| H.M. Court of Parliament.

Stowe MS. 676.

LAWRENCE, WILLIAM, of St. Ives, Hunts, Esq. Conf. of arms and gr. of crest by W. Hervey, Clar., 30 Oct. 1562. Arg. a cross ragulée Gu., on a chief Az. a lion pass. gard. Or. Crest—A roebuck's head erased Sa., bezantée, attired Or, gorged with a coronet Arg. Copied 18 Aug. 1688, per H. St. George, Clar. Add. MS. 14,295.

LAWSE,¹ THOMAS, D.C.L., late of Norfolk, now of Kent. Gr. by R. Cook, Clar., 1581. Or, on a chief Az. three estoiles of the first. Crest—On a crest coronet Or, an ermine pass. Arg., on the tail an ermine spot Sa. Stowe MS. 670; Add. MS. 14,295; Harl. MS. 1,359.

LAWSON, GEORGE, of Bardfield, co. Essex, gent. Gr. by Sir C. Barker, Garter. Paly of four Gu. and Vert, on a chief Or, a greyhound's head erased Sa., betw. two crescents of the last, each crescent charged with three plates. Crest—A hound's head erased Arg., collar Vert, thereon three plates. Stowe MS. 692.

LAWSON, THOMAS, of Little Usworth, co. Durham, and Robert Lawson, of Rock, co. Northumberland, and to William, John, George and Rowland Lawson, all six being sons of William Lawson, of Little Usworth, gent. Conf. by L. Dalton, Norroy, 28 Feb. 1558. Per pale Arg. and Sa. a chev. counterchanged. Crest—Two arms counter embowed, vested Erm., the hands ppr., supporting the sun in its splendour Or. Harl. MS. 1,359.

¹ THOMAS LAWSE took his M.A. degree at Oxford, 14 March 1534-5, and was admitted to Gray's Inn in 1542.

In Memoriam.

The Rev Francis John Poynton, M.A., of Exeter Coll., Oxford, and since 1858 Rector of Kelston, Somerset, died at Kelston Rectory 22 Nov. 1903. He was born at Chew Magna, 16 June 1827, and was educated at Shrewsbury School, whence he proceeded to Oxford, where he obtained the Symes Exhibition in 1849. He was the author of "Memoranda, Historical and Genealogical, relating to the parish of Kelston," which contains much information concerning the family of Harrington, long resident there. He also contributed papers of considerable interest both to Miscellanea Genealogica et Heraldica and to this Magazine. A note written by him appeared in our "Notes and Queries" column only last April. For many years he took great interest in the antiquities of Somerset, on which he occasionally read papers before the Bath Literary Club, and his accurate knowledge of local history often enabled him to be of assistance to other workers in the same field of industry. It is satisfactory to add that he has left behind him a son who fully shares his genealogical and literary tastes, and whose name is familiar to readers of The Genealogist.

THE BLOOD ROYAL OF BRITAIN, BEING A ROLL OF THE LIVING DESCENDANTS OF EDWARD IV AND HENRY VII, KINGS OF ENGLAND, AND JAMES III, KING OF SCOTLAND. By the Marquis of Ravigny and Raineval. London (T. C. & E. C. Jack).

The skilled genealogist is apt to look coldly upon any printed collection of Royal Descents, for while to the man in the street it is absolutely incredible that a humdrum individual of his acquaintance, perhaps of plebeian appearance and homely manners, should have within his veins the blood of the Plantagenets, the student of pedigrees is aware that there are few persons of good birth who do not reckon among their progenitors an English monarch, and that many not even gently born can boast the same distinction. It must, however, be admitted that to derive from Henry VII is far more rare than to descend from the Plantagenets, and on this account alone the task which the compiler of this handsome and beautifully illustrated volume has set him-

Memoriam

The Rev Francis John Leyton, M.A. of Exeter Coll. Oxford, and since 1858 Rector of Kington, Somerset, died at Kington Rectory 22 Nov. 1903. He was born at Chow Wagon, 16 June 1827, and was educated at Shrewsbury School, whence he proceeded to Oxford, where he obtained the Sykes Exhibition in 1849. He was the author of "Memoranda, Historical and Genealogical, relating to the parish of Kington," which contains much information concerning the family of Harrington, long resident there. He also contributed papers of considerable interest both to Westminster Gazette & Westminster and to the Magazine. A note written by him appeared in our "Notes and Queries" column only last April. For many years he took great interest in the antiquities of Somerset, on which he occasionally read papers before the Bath Literary Club, and his accurate knowledge of local history often enabled him to be of assistance to other workers in the same field of industry. Notice of Books

THE BRADSHAW OF BRITAIN BEING A HISTORY OF THE LIVING BRADSHAW OF BRITAIN BY AND HENRY VII. KING OF ENGLAND AND JAMES III. KING OF SCOTLAND BY THE MARQUIS OF HAVINGHAM AND HANOVER. LONDON (T. C. & E. C. JACK).

The skilled genealogist is apt to look coldly upon any printed collection of Royal Descents for while to the man in the street it is absolutely incredible that a humdrum individual of his acquaintance, perhaps of pedestrian appearance and homely manners, should have within his veins the blood of the Plantagenets, the student of pedigrees is aware that there are few persons of good birth who do not reckon among their progenitors an English monarch, and that many not even gently born can boast the same distinction. It must, however, be admitted that to derive from Henry VII is far more rare than to descend from the Plantagenets, and on this account alone the task which the compiler of this handsome and beautifully illustrated volume has set himself was well worth the great pains and labour which he has evidently expended upon it. There can be no difference of opinion as to the admirably clear method in which he has arranged what he claims to be "the largest pedigree ever published," and as a rule the descents have been brought down to modern times with the utmost care. The Roll cannot be said to be entirely complete, for there are many lines still unexplored, as the Tables which form the groundwork of the scheme will show at a glance, while even in the body of the work there are omissions which a little research and enquiry could easily have supplied.

The compiler of these descents has occasionally allowed his opinions to run away with him, as for instance on Table I, where he states that the lawful issue of Henry VIII became extinct in 1558, thus making "good Queen Bess" a bastard. Don Carlos, Duke of Madrid, is styled de jure King of France and Spain.

The work falls into two divisions—(1) Descendants of the elder daughter of Henry VII and Elizabeth of York, the Princess Margaret Tudor (wife of James IV of Scotland), whose heir general is Princess Mary of Modena, wife of Prince Louis of Bavaria; (2) Descendants of Princess Mary Tudor, younger daughter of the same royal couple, now represented as senior co-heir by the Baroness Kinloss. The first division consists almost entirely of royal and princely personages, while the other contains, for the most part, members of the English aristocracy, titled and untitled, although it also includes butchers, gamekeepers, toll-keepers, tenant farmers, etc., nearly all of whom obtain their strain of royal blood through the marriage of Frances Lea, a descendant of the Barons Dudley, with Walter Woodcock, whose daughters made sad mésalliances. It is satisfactory to find that further information has been obtained regarding these persons and their descendants beyond that contained in Mr. Long's Royal Descents, published in 1815.

In this work a small shield has been placed against the names of those descendants of Henry VII who are supposed to be entitled to quarter the royal arms, but it does not appear to have been understood that no such right is possessed by anyone who cannot prove that all the intervening coats between his own and that of the royal house are "good" in an heraldic sense.

ADMISSIONS TO THE COLLEGE OF ST. JOHN THE EVANGELIST IN THE UNIVERSITY OF CAMBRIDGE. Part III. July, 1715—November, 1767. Edited, with notes, by Robert Forsyth Scott, M.A., Fellow and Bursar of the College. Cambridge (Deighton Bell and Co.), 1903.

It cannot be said that the Admission Register of St. John's College, Cambridge, has been hurried through the press. It was as long ago as 1882 that Part I first appeared, and not until 1893 that it was re-issued by Professor J. E. B. Mayor, who at the same time produced Part II, and now that another ten years have self was well worth the great pains and labour which he has evidently expended upon it. There can be no difference of opinion as to the admirably clear method in which he has arranged what he claims to be "the largest pedigree ever published," and as a rule the descents have been brought down to modern times with the utmost care. The Roll cannot be said to be entirely complete, for there are many lines still unexplained, as the Tables which form the groundwork of the scheme will show at a glance, while even in the body of the work there are omissions which a little research and enquiry could easily have supplied.

The compiler of these descents has occasionally allowed his opinions to run away with him, as for instance on Table I, where he states that the lawful issue of Henry VIII became extinct in 1558, thus making "good Queen Bess" a bastard. Don Carlos Duke of Albalade, styled as King of France and Spain.

The work falls into two divisions—(1) Descendants of the elder daughter of Henry VII and Elizabeth of York, the Princess Margaret Tudor (wife of James IV of Scotland), whose heir was Henry VIII; (2) Descendants of Princess Mary Tudor, younger daughter of the same royal couple, now represented as senior co-heir by the Barons Kinloss. The first division consists almost entirely of royal and princely personages, while the other contains for the most part members of the English aristocracy, titled and untitled, although it also includes butchers, gunkeepers, toll-keepers, tenant farmers, etc., nearly all of whom obtain their stain of royal blood through the marriage of Princess Mary, a descendant of the famous Duke, with Walter Woodcock, whose daughter's name and nameless. It is satisfactory to find that further information has been obtained regarding these persons and their descendants beyond that contained in Mr. Long's Wagon, published in 1815.

In this work a small shield has been placed against the names of those descendants of Henry VII who are supposed to be entitled to quarter the royal arms, but it does not appear to have been understood that no such right is possessed by anyone who cannot prove that all the intervening coats between his own and that of the royal house are "good" in an heraldic sense.

ADMISSIONS TO THE COLLEGE OF ST. JOHN THE EVANGELIST IN THE UNIVERSITY OF CAMBRIDGE. Part III. July, 1715—November, 1767. Edited, with notes, by Robert Forsyth Scott, M.A. Fellow and Bursar of the College. Cambridge (Deighton Bell and Co.), 1906.

It cannot be said that the Admission Register of St. John's College, Cambridge, has been buried through the press. It was as long ago as 1822 that Part I first appeared, and not until 1893 that it was reissued by Professor J. R. H. Mayor, who at the same time produced Part II, and now that another ten years have passed we have Part III. But if the progress has been slow it has been sure, and Mr. R. F. Scott has carried on Professor Mayor's work with much judgment and the most indefatigable industry. He has, indeed, succeeded in collecting biographical notes relating to nearly all the members admitted to St. John's during the period with which this volume deals. These personal details are by no means dry reading, for many amusing stories are scattered here and there through the notes, chiefly culled from Cole's MS. Collections, now in the British Museum, of which copious use has been made. We can only enumerate a very few of the distinguished scholars whose names appear in the register—William Bowyer the printer, Sir Samuel Prime and Sir Fletcher Norton (first Lord Grantley), both famous lawyers; Edmund Law, Bishop of Carlisle; John Green, Bishop of Lincoln; Samuel Pegge, the antiquary; William Heberden, a distinguished physician; Thomas Bedford, a non-juror; John Hulse, founder of the Hulsean lectures; John Burton, editor of Monasticon Eboracense; John Cradock, Archbishop of Dublin, father of the first Lord Howden; Dr. Rutherford, ancestor in the male line of the Abdy baronets; Erasmus Darwin, and lastly Charles Churchill, poet and satirist. One entry recalls a romance of the Peerage—Theophilus Henry Hastings, who eventually became entitled to the ancient Earldom of Huntingdon, now enjoyed by a descendant of his brother, was admitted to the College, 25 May 1748, being described in the register as son of Henry Hastings, shoemaker (caligarii).

As in Parts I and II the index, unfortunately, does not include the notes, but the list of schools from which the students came to the College will be found most useful, and the index to and translation of the trades and occupations of the parents will also be appreciated, especially as in the register the trades are often in somewhat recondite Latin.

THE ANCESTRY OF RANDALL THOMAS DAVIDSON, D.D., ARCHBISHOP OF CANTERBURY. By the Rev. Adam Phelip, M.A. London (Elliot Stock).

The genealogy contained in this small volume is not its strong point, as the reader who expects to find the pedigree of the Primate properly set out will find on consulting its pages. After carefully piecing together the items vouchsafed by the author, which by the way are scattered about at random, we find that the two earliest ancestors introduced to us are David Randall who went to Holland in 1728 and Thomas Davidson, Minister at Dundee, who died in 1760. The latter married "a remarkable woman," whose name is not stated, and was father of Mary Davidson, who married Thomas, the son of the abovementioned David Randall. The work is chiefly confined to an account of the lives and writings of this Thomas Randall, Minister at Inchtute, and his son Thomas Randall Davidson, who assumed the surname of Davidson on the death of an uncle also Minister at Inchtute and afterwards in Edinburgh. Thomas Randall Davidson, married twice, and we passed we have Part III. But if the progress has been slow it has been sure, and Mr. R. E. Scott has carried on Professor Mayr's work with much judgment and the most indefatigable industry. He has, indeed, succeeded in collecting biographical notes relating to nearly all the members admitted to St. John's during the period with which this volume deals. These personal details are by no means dry reading, for many amusing stories are scattered here and there through the notes, chiefly culled from Coleridge's MSS. Collections, now in the British Museum, of which edition we have been made. We can only commend a very few of the distinguished scholars whose names appear in the register—William Howey, the printer; Sir Samuel Jurin and Sir Robert Norton (first Lord Granby); both famous lawyers; Edmund Law, Bishop of Carlisle; John Green, Bishop of Lincoln; Samuel Pegg, the antiquary; William Heberden, a distinguished physician; Thomas Beddoe, a non-juror; John Huber, founder of the Huberian lectures; John Hunter, editor of Museum Aëreum; John Gualtero, Archbishop of Dublin, father of the first Lord Howden; the Hunterian ancestor in the male line of the Abby baronets; William Barwin and finally Charles Churchill, poet and satirist. One entry reveals a romance of the Peagars—Theophilus Henry Hastings, who eventually became entitled to the ancient barony of Hastings, now enjoyed by a descendant of his brother, was admitted to the College 25 May 1718, being described in the register as son of Henry Hastings, shoemaker (cavalier).

As in Parts I and II the index, unfortunately, does not include the notes, but the list of schools from which the students came to the College will be found most useful, and the index to and translation of the trades and occupations of the parents will also be appreciated, especially as in the register the trades are often in somewhat recondite Latin.

THE ANCESTRY OF HENRY THOMAS DAVIDSON, D.D., ARCHBISHOP OF CANTERBURY. By the Rev. Adam Philip, M.A., London (Elkin Stock).

The genealogy contained in this small volume is not its strong point, as the reader who expects to find the pedigree of the Puritan properly set out will find on consulting its pages. After carefully piecing together the items vouchsafed by the author, which by the way are scattered about at random, we find that the two earliest ancestors introduced to us are David Randall who went to Holland in 1738 and Thomas Davidson, Minister at Dundee, who died in 1750. The latter married a remarkable woman, whose name is not stated, and was father of Mary Davidson, who married Thomas, the son of the aforementioned David Randall. The work is chiefly confined to an account of the lives and writings of this Thomas Randall, Minister at Dundee, and his son Thomas Davidson, who assumed the surname of Davidson on the death of an uncle and Minister at Dundee and afterwards in Edinburgh. Thomas Randall Davidson married twice, and two gather that his second wife, "a sister of the great Scottish Advocate and Judge, Lord Cockburn," was the grandmother of Archbishop Davidson. This in brief is the ancestry, as given by Mr. Phelip, of the second Scotsman who has been enthroned Archbishop of Canterbury within a generation.

WEST STOW PARISH REGISTERS, 1558 TO 1850. WORDWELL PARISH REGISTERS, 1580 TO 1850. WITH SUNDRY NOTES. Woodbridge (George Booth). 1903.

These two registers have been transcribed and edited by the same anonymous author to whom we owe those of Horringer, Little Saxham and Rushbrook, recently noticed in this Magazine. The same arrangement has been adopted as in the registers previously issued, and its merits and demerits need not therefore be further discussed. The author has added much information which is generally absent from the ordinary printed parish register, and has, in fact, compiled short parochial histories. Monumental inscriptions, lay subsidies, lists of rectors, and abstracts of wills, proved both in London and in the country, have been supplied, and a very interesting account added of the manorial families who were connected with the two parishes and of the ancient mansions, both still standing, in which they dwelt. The details relating to the Crofts, who owned West Stow for many generations, are supplementary to the account given of them in the Little Saxham volume, and the story of the succeeding owners is here narrated. By far the most important of these proprietors was Edward Proger, to whom the estate of West Stow was bequeathed by the will of Dame Bryers Crofts in 1669. He was a trusty servant of both Charles I and Charles II, and concerned in many of the secret enterprises of the troublous times in which his long life of ninety-two years was passed. The biographical notice of him is all the more welcome as he has been inexplicably ignored in the Dictionary of National Biography. A portrait of him now at Rushbrook Hall is reproduced among the illustrations, which also include views of West Stow Hall, one of the most ancient of Suffolk manor houses. Its gate house bears the arms of Mary Tudor, sister of Henry VIII, but the author shows that the tradition that she once resided at West Stow is improbable. In the list of Wordwell Rectors occurs the name of Robert Butts, who filled in turn the Sees of Norwich and Ely.

LINCOLN'S INN. By G. J. Turner. London (F. E. Robinson & Co.).

Whether or no they agree with the conclusions at which he has arrived, all those who are interested in the history of old London will be grateful to the writer of this short pamphlet for bringing to light the documents upon which his very clearly and logically expressed arguments are founded. Mr. Turner's investigations have led him to uphold the view that the Inn took its name from its having anciently belonged to rather than his second wife, "a sister of the great Scottish Advocate and Judge Lord Cockburn," was the grandmother of Archbishop Davidson. This in brief is the ancestry as given by Mr. Bishop of the second Scotsman who has been mentioned Archbishop of Canterbury within a generation.

West Stow Parish Registers, 1553 to 1850. Worcester: Printed by Wm. E. Rogers, 1850. With Rogers' Notes. Woodbridge (George Fooks), 1903.

These two registers have been transmitted and edited by the same anonymous author to whom we owe those of Hoxton, Little Saxham and Hachbrook, recently noticed in this Magazine. The same arrangement has been adopted as in the registers previously issued, and its merits and demerits need not therefore be further discussed. The author has added much information which is generally absent from the ordinary printed parish registers, and has in fact compiled short parochial histories. Monumental inscriptions, by subsidiary lists of rectors and abstracts of wills, proved both in London and in the country, have been supplied, and a very interesting account added of the manorial families who were connected with the two parishes and of the ancient manors, both still standing in which they dwelt. The details relating to the Crofts, who owned West Stow for many generations are supplementary to the account given of them in the Little Saxham volume, and the story of the succeeding owners is here narrated. By far the most important of these proprietors was Edward Proger, to whom the estate of West Stow was bequeathed by the will of James Byers Crofts in 1668. He was a treasury servant of both Charles I and Charles II, and concerned in many of the secret enterprises of the troublous times in which his long life of ninety-two years was passed. The biographical notice of him is all the more welcome as he has been hitherto ignored in the Dictionary of Axiomaxia. A portrait of him now at Hachbrook Hall is reproduced among the illustrations which also include views of West Stow Hall, one of the most ancient of Suffolk manor houses. Its gate house bears the arms of Mary Tudor, sister of Henry VIII, but the author shows that the tradition that she once resided at West Stow is improbable. In the list of Worcester rectors occurs the name of Robert Butts, who filled in turn the sees of Norwich and Ely.

Lancaster's Inn. By G. J. Turner. London (F. E. Robinson & Co.).

Whether or no they agree with the conclusions at which he has arrived, all those who are interested in the history of old London will be grateful to the writer of this short pamphlet for bringing to light the documents upon which his very clearly and logically expressed arguments are founded. Mr. Turner's investigations have led him to uphold the view that the Inn took its name from its having originally belonged to the de Lacys, Earls of Lincoln. He endeavours to prove that "the place with a garden" in the New Street in front of the New Temple granted by Henry III, 1226-8, to Ralph de Neville, Bishop of Chichester, and trebly assured to him by charters, was not the site of Lincoln's Inn. It appears from one of these charters that the place and garden in question were opposite to the land of the Bishop in the same street, and had escheated to the King by the custom according to which forfeited lands within the City of London and the suburbs thereof were held to be his. Mr. Turner insists upon the strict legal meaning of "suburb" as "a district outside the city walls, but subject to the jurisdiction of the city courts," and as Lincoln's Inn does not stand within the suburbs in this sense, then universally accepted, his argument appears conclusive. Incidentally he shows that this place and garden are more likely to have been the estate now called Chichester Rents, which was opposite to the land of the Bishops of Chichester on the other side of Chancery Lane, then known as New Street and later as Converts Street. He also suggests that the Inn, which certainly afterwards did belong to the See of Chichester, was acquired during the episcopate of John of Langton or Robert of Stratford, the latter of whom is shown by Document No. 16 to have resided at his inn in Chancery Lane in 1340. A footnote on p. 15 induces us to look forward to the publication of further evidence bearing upon this interesting subject.

HOW TO DECIPHER AND STUDY OLD DOCUMENTS. By E. E. Thoyts (Mrs. John Hautenville Cope). With an Introduction by C. Trice Martin. Second Edition. London (Elliot Stock), 1903.

That it should have been thought advisable to issue another edition of this little book is an encouraging sign of the interest which of late has been aroused in the study of paleography. It contains some useful and interesting information, confessedly of an elementary character, but it is difficult to believe that it can be of much practical assistance to a beginner. Although the work is of such slender dimensions, the authoress has occasionally discoursed upon matters hardly relevant to the subject. The illustrations which might have been made of great service to the student, are, as they were in the former edition, on so small a scale as to be absolutely valueless.

We have also received:—BALL RECORDS. Part I. Index to Wills of BALL, BALLE or BALLS in the Prerogative Court of Canterbury, 1445—1802. Bishops Stortford (A. Boardman & Son).

the de lazeys Bank of Lincoln. His endeavours to prove that "the place with a garden" in the New Street in front of the New Temple granted by Henry III. 1236-8, to Ralph de Neville Bishop of Chester, and truly assigned to him by charter, was not the site of Lincoln's Inn. It appears from one of these charters that the place and garden in question were opposite to the hand of the Bishop in the same street, and had extended to the King by the custom according to which forfeited lands within the City of London and the suburbs thereof were held to be his. "a district outside the city walls, but subject to the jurisdiction of the city courts," and as Lincoln's Inn does not stand within the suburbs in this sense, then universally accepted, his argument appears conclusive. Incidentally he shows that this place and garden are more likely to have been the estate now called Chester House, which was opposite to the hand of the Bishop of Chester on the other side of Chancery Lane, then known as New Street and later as Countess Street. He also suggests that the Inn, which certainly afterwards did belong to the Sec of Chester, was acquired during the episcopate of John of Langton or Robert of Sharnford, the latter of whom is shown by Document No. 16 to have resided at his Inn in Chancery Lane in 1210. A footnote on p. 15 induces us to look forward to the publication of further evidence bearing upon this interesting subject.

Notes and Queries.

LANGFORD GRANTS OF ARMS (ante p. 140).—(1) John Langford, of Salford, co. Beds. On referring to the pedigree of Langford recorded in the Visitation of Shropshire, anno 1623, it will be seen that Richard Langford, great grandson of John, of co. Derby, married Anne, dau. and h. of Walter Rogers, and they had with other issue John Langford, D.C.L. Oxon., and Chancellor of Worcester, who in his will dated and proved in 1579 [P.C.C., 45 Bacon] names his son John a minor, his wife Martha, and his father-in-law Garbrand Hecks, of Oxford, and also states that he had taken out letters of administration of the goods of his late father Richard Langford, of Ludlow, deceased. Martha, widow of the above John Langford, and dau. of John Garbrand alias Hecks, D.D. Oxon, in her will dated at Sawford, co. Beds, in 1604, and proved the same year [P.C.C., 37 Harte], names her sons John and Nicholas, the former of whom, I presume, had the patent for arms in 1607. His ancestral coat as recorded in the Visitation of Shropshire was:—Paly of six Or and Gu. a bend Arg. He left four sons, who all died s.p., of whom Robert, the eldest and the last surviving, was a Bencher of Gray's Inn and died in 1662, aged 61. In Metcalfe's "Knights" it appears that Sir John Langforde, who was knighted in 1497, bore:—Paly of six Or and Gu., over all a bend Arg., and for Crest:—Three chibolls in a tuft of pheasants fethers.

(2) John Langford, of Gray's Inn. As to the identification of this grantee there can be no difficulty. He was descended from an ancient family settled for centuries at Ruthin and Constables of its Castle. His pedigree was entered in the Visitation of London anno 1634, with the four coats as confirmed by Segar. John Langford, of Alington, in the parish of Gresford, co. Denbigh, had a younger son Roger, of Ruthin, who was in 1588 and for many years later Paymaster to the Navy. Roger married at Deptford (see Drake's "History of the Hundred of Blackheath") 1593, May 27, Elizabeth, dau. and coh. of John Randall or Randolph, Professor of the Civil Law, and he apparently entered Gray's Inn, "1606, Aug. 16. Roger Langford, of Ruthin, co. Denbigh, gent." (Poster's Registers, p. 113). Of his children John, the eldest, was baptised at Deptford, 1595, May 4, and also entered Gray's Inn:—"1612, Aug. 14. John Langford, son of Roger L., of Ruthin, co. Denbigh, Esq." (Ibid., p. 131). He was living in 1634, but I know nothing more of him, nor have I any clue to the two quarterings of Sandilf and Wild.

ROYAL DESCENT OF THE TREFFRY FAMILY.—In the second volume of McLean's "Trigg Minor," the Treffrys are given a royal pedigree through an "Elizabeth Holland, daughter of Thomas

LANSBURY GRANTS OF ARMS (cont. p. 110).—(1) John Lansbury of Salford, co. York. On referring to the pedigree of Lansbury recorded in the Visitation of Shropshire, anno 1623, it will be seen that Richard Lansbury, great grandson of John, of co. Derby, married Anne, dau. and h. of Walter Rogers, and they had with other issue John Lansbury, B.C.L. Oxon, and Chamberlain of Worcester, who in his will dated and proved in 1579 [P.C.C., 15 Bacon] names his son John a minor, his wife married, and his father-in-law (Richard) Hecks of Oxford, and also states that he had taken out letters of administration of the goods of his late father Richard Lansbury of Ludlow, deceased. Married widow of the above John Lansbury and dau. of John Garbrand wife Hecks D.D. Oxon, in her will dated at Salford, co. York, in 1601, and proved the same year [P.C.C., 37 Bacon], names her sons John and Nicholas, the former of whom I presume had the patent for arms in 1607. His ancestral coat as recorded in the Visitation of Shropshire was:—A gyron of six Or and six a bend dymy. He left four sons, who all died s.p.s. of whom Robert, the eldest and the last surviving, was a Bachelor of Gray's Inn and died in 1632, aged 81. In his will, it appears that Sir John Lansbury, who was knighted in 1577, bore:—A gyron of six Or and six a bend dymy, and for Crest:—Three chevrons in a gyron of six Or and six a bend dymy. As to the identification of this grantee there can be no difficulty. He was descended from an ancient family settled for centuries at Hatfield and Constaton of co. Lincoln. His pedigree was entered in the Visitation of London anno 1634, with the four coats as confirmed by Rogers. John Lansbury of Avington, in the parish of Gressford, co. Derby, had a younger son Roger of Hatfield, who was in 1588 and for many years later Paymaster to the Navy. Roger married at Dordrecht (see Parker's 'History of the Household of Blackheath') 1593, May 27, Elizabeth, dau. and co. of John Randall or Handolph, Professor of the Civil Law, and he apparently entered Gray's Inn, "1606, Aug. 16. Roger Lansbury of Hatfield, co. Derby, gent." (Parker's 'History' p. 113). Of his children John, the eldest, was baptised at Hatfield, 1605, May 1, and also entered Gray's Inn:—"1612, Aug. 14. John Lansbury son of Roger L. of Hatfield, co. Derby, gent." (Ward, p. 131). He was living in 1631, but I know nothing more of him nor have I any clue to the two quarterings of Randall and Will.

ROYAL DESCENT OF THE TROOP TAVAR. In the second volume of Melan's "Tribal Manners," the Troops are given a royal pedigree through an Elizabeth Holland daughter of Thomas Holland and Joan Plantagenet (Fair Maid of Kent), the latter grand daughter of Edward I." The said Elizabeth Holland is given as wife of Sir Oliver Carminow, and I understand in the College of Arms Sir Oliver Carminow is given the same wife. Is this correct, seeing that Colonel Vivian in his "Visitation of Devon" gives this Elizabeth as "daughter of — Pomeroy"? What raises the question is that according to Coll. Top. et Genealogica, vol. i, p. 319, it is given as from Harl. MS. 1074, folio 320b, that Oliver Carmynowe was related to the blood royal, temp Henry VII. In view of the fact that it does not seem absolutely certain that Elizabeth was a Pomeroy, can the College of Arms pedigree be taken as proof of the royal relationship, and is it known whether Joan Plantagenet had a daughter Elizabeth in addition to her sons, Thomas and John (Earls respectively of Kent and Exeter). I have examined Anderson's, Foster's, Burke's and Browning's Royal Pedigrees (the last American), but fail to find one family claiming this descent through the Carminows and Elizabeth Holland.

NOTES ON THE SCRASE FAMILY OF CO. SUSSEX.

The pedigree of the family of Scrase of Sussex given in Berry's Sussex Genealogies, p. 366, is not supported by modern investigation. Mr. M. A. Lower shewed his appreciation of the family not only by publishing an article upon it with improved but still inaccurate pedigrees,¹ but also by marrying in 1870, as his second wife, Sarah Scrase, daughter of William Scrase of Friston Place. It is to one line of descent in this family (the materials for a history of which are extremely voluminous) that this article relates, namely, the descent of the branch of Scrase-Dickins as published in Burke's Landed Gentry, ed. 1847, vol. i, p. 330. It is there asserted that the Scrase-Dickins family are descended from Tuppen Scrase through his eldest son, Richard Scrase. Not only is this statement untrue, but many of the other allegations as to the Scrase family contained in the pedigree there outlined and called the "Lineage" are equally fabulous or unwarranted.

Tuppen Scrase, born circa 1583, was of Magdalen Hall, Oxford, admitted of the Middle Temple, 1601, compounded for not taking up Knighthood, temp. Car. I, and was buried at Preston Episcopi, 9 December 1633. He had by his wife, Susan, daughter of William Hay of Salehurst, four sons and six daughters. His four sons were (1) Richard Scrase, baptized at Salehurst, 2 October 1609; (2) an unnamed son buried at Hamsey, 1 May 1616; (3) William Scrase, baptized at Hamsey, 26 March 1620, and (4) Henry Scrase, baptized at Hamsey, 2 February 1623. Tuppen Scrase died intestate and his brother William administered to his effects. (P.C.C. 1634, Act 71.) Susan Scrase, his wife, was buried at Hamsey, 12 June 1631. Of these sons:—

(1) Richard Scrase, who according to Berry's Sussex Genealogies, Mr. Lower and the "Lineage," had four sons, was as a matter of fact never married. He died some months under the age of 25, and was buried at Preston, 9 July 1634, having by his will, dated 5 July 1634 (wherein he is described as of Blatchington, Gent., and wherein he mentions his father, Tuppen Scrase) bequeathed £150 to Jane Trowt, of "Hoostene" (Owston), in Lincolnshire, to whom he was "about to be married," and given his remaining personal property to his two brothers and four of his sisters by names. His will, which does not mention any child of his, was proved in P.C.C. (104, Seager) on 7 November 1634, by Edward Blaker, who had married in 1628, his eldest sister, Susannah Scrase, and on 5 May 1635, by George Bedford, who had married in 1633 his third sister, Edith Scrase.²

(3) William Scrase, who was eventually of Annington in Botolphs, married with Frances, daughter of Joseph Valiant (described in his Admon. in P.C.C., dated 18 May 1658, as of Annington), and

² Mr. Lower states in the article above referred to that the marriage of Richard Scrase was not recorded, so far as he could discover, in the registers of Preston, Brighton, or Hove, and he might have added, or elsewhere. Neither is the baptism of any child of his to be found.

NOTES ON THE SCORSE FAMILY OF CO. SUSSEX.

The pedigree of the family of Scorse of Sussex given in Henry's Sussex Genealogist p. 366 is not supported by modern investigation. Mr. M. A. Lower showed his appreciation of the family not only by publishing an article upon it with improved but still inaccurate pedigree, but also by marrying in 1870, as his second wife, Sarah Scorse, daughter of William Scorse of Preston Place. It is to one line of descent in this family (the materials for a history of which are extremely voluminous) that this article relates, namely, the descent of the branch of Scorse-Dickins as published in Burke's Landmark ed. 1817, vol. 2, p. 230. It is there asserted that the Scorse-Dickins family are descended from Tuppen Scorse through his eldest son, Richard Scorse. Not only is this statement untrue, but many of the other allegations as to the Scorse family contained in the pedigree there contained and called the "lineage" are equally fabulous or unwarranted.

Tuppen Scorse, born c. 1583, was of Magdalen Hall, Oxford, admitted of the Middle Temple, 1601, compounded for not taking up Knighthood, temp. Car. I and was buried at Tresholt, Episcopi, 9 December 1633. He had by his wife Susan, daughter of William Hay of Salhurst, four sons and six daughters. His four sons were (1) Richard Scorse, baptised at Hove, 2 October 1609; (2) an unnamed son, buried at Hove, 1 May 1616; (3) William Scorse, baptised at Hove, 26 March 1620; and (4) Henry Scorse, baptised at Hove, 2 February 1625. Tuppen Scorse died intestate and his brother William administered to his effects. (P.C.C. 1631, Act 71.) Susan Scorse, his wife, was buried at Hove, 12 June 1631. Of these sons:—

(1) Richard Scorse, who according to Henry's Sussex Genealogist, Mr. Lower and the "lineage," had four sons, was a matter of fact never married. He died some months under the age of 20, and was buried at Preston, 3 July 1634, having by his will, dated 5 July 1634 (wherein he is described as of Hatchingdon, Gent., and wherein he mentions his father, Tuppen Scorse) bequeathed £150 to Jane Trow, of "Hooctons" (Owston), in Lincolnshire, to whom he was "about to be married," and given his remaining personal property to his two brothers and four of his sisters by name. His will, which does not mention any child of his, was proved in P.C.C. (101, Scargy) on 7 November 1634, by Edward Baker, who had married in 1628, his eldest sister, Susannah Scorse, and on 5 May 1635, by George Holford, who had married in 1633 his third sister, Elizabeth Scorse.

(2) William Scorse, who was eventually of Avington in Hampshire, married with Frances, daughter of Joseph Valiant (described in his Admon. in P.C.C., dated 18 May 1658, as of Avington) and was buried at Botolphs, 27 September 1683. His only surviving son, William Scrase, who was buried at Botolphs, 12 February 171 $\frac{3}{4}$, and who was the last lineal male descendant of Tuppen Scrase, left by his wife, Mary, daughter of Henry Lintot, of Bolney, and widow of Edward Goring, one child only surviving him, namely, Elizabeth, baptized at Botolphs, 7 May 1686, who was married at Nuthurst, 23 April 1702, to Nathaniel Tredercroft, of Horsham.

(4) Henry Scrase married twice, first with Barbara, daughter of Henry Goring, of Highden in Washington, and widow first of Thomas Cooper of Stroode in Slinfold, who was buried at Slinfold, 26 April 1648, and secondly of Nicholas Monke of Hurston in Storrington, whose will, dated 13 July 1657, was proved 30 June 1658 (P.C.C. 485, Wootton), and to whom she was married at Slinfold, 3 October 1655, and secondly with Susanna Willingham, widow.¹ He left no issue, and by his will dated 2 April 1681, and proved 14 March 168 $\frac{1}{2}$ (P.C.C. 38, Cottle), in which he is described as of St. Martins in the Fields, he left all his property to his widow, Susanna.

The Visitation of Sussex, 1662 (Heralds' Coll., D. 16), does not even mention Richard Scrase as a son of Tuppen Scrase, but is confined to the descent from Tuppen Scrase in his sons William and Henry.

If further proof were needed it may be found in the proceedings in several suits in Chancery, to the earliest of which it will be sufficient to refer. In the suit of Scrase v. Bedford (Car. I, Bundle S. 69, no. 27) the Bill was filed 4 April 1636, by William Scrase as plaintiff, by William Hay his guardian, and therein, after stating a lease granted to Tuppen Scrase, "your orator's father," of the prebend of Hova Ecclesia for the term of the lives of Richard Scrase, deceased, the orator William Scrase, and Henry Scrase, "sons of the said Tuppen Scrase," and the life of the longest liver of them, and also a lease to Tuppen Scrase of the prebend of Hova Villa and Bolney for the same lives and life, it was alleged that Tuppen Scrase peacefully and quietly held the same, and "that after his death your orator's elder brother Richard did enter and hold the prebends without disturbance," and that "about the monthes of June or July, 10 Car. I, the said Richard deceased, and your orator did enter and doth still hold the same prebends," and complaint was made that George Bedford and Sir John Wolstenholme had obtained possession of the leases and were defrauding the orator. George Bedford, who it will be remembered, was a brother-in-law, and one of the executors of Richard Scrase, filed his answer, 1 May, 1636, and thereby admitted that shortly after the death of Richard he took the complainant down to the prebends and did enter the lands to avoid any other occupation, and set up that he had maintained the complainant and was entitled to be reimbursed therefor out of the profits of the prebends.

was buried at Botolphs 27 September 1683. His only surviving son, William Scarke, who was buried at Botolphs 12 February 1713, and who was the last lineal male descendant of Tupper Scarke left by his wife, Mary, daughter of Henry Junior of Holney, and widow of Edward Goring, one child only surviving him, namely, Elizabeth, baptised at Botolphs 7 May 1686, who was married at Nuthurst, 23 April 1702, to Nathaniel Tredwell of Holham.

(4) Henry Scarke married twice, first with Barbara, daughter of Henry Goring of Highden in Wiltshire, and widow first of Thomas Cooper of Strouds in Shropshire, who was buried at Shropshire 26 April 1648, and secondly of Nicholas Munk of Hutton in Stroughton, whose will dated 13 July 1637, was proved 30 June 1638 (P.C.C. 185, Wootton), and to whom she was married at Shropshire, 2 October 1635, and secondly with Susanna Wingham, widow. He left no issue, and by his will dated 2 April 1681, and proved 14 March 1682 (P.C.C. 38, Colles), in which he is described as of St Martin's in the Fields, he left all his property to his widow, Susanna.

The Visitation of Sussex, 1663 (Herald's Coll. D. 16), does not even mention Richard Scarke as a son of Tupper Scarke, but is confined to the descent from Tupper Scarke in his sons William and Henry.

If further proof were needed it may be found in the proceedings in several suits in Chancery to the earliest of which it will be sufficient to refer. In the suit of Scarke v. Bedford (Car. I. Hables 2, 69, no 27) the Bill was filed 4 April 1636, by William Scarke as plaintiff, by William Hay, his guardian, and therein, after stating a lease granted to Tupper Scarke, "your orator's father," of the prebend of Hove, Rochester for the term of the lives of Richard Scarke, deceased, the orator William Scarke, and Henry Scarke, "sons of the said Tupper Scarke," and the life of the longest liver of them, and also a lease to Tupper Scarke of the prebend of Hove, Villa and Boney for the same lives and life, it was alleged that Tupper Scarke peacefully and quietly held the same, and "that after his death your orator's elder brother Richard did enter and hold the prebends without disturbance," and that "about the month of June or July, 16 Car. ¹ Scarke v. Hastings, Cause No. 11, and A. Wingham before 1715. Hables 143.

Having thus shewn that the family of Scrase-Dickins is not descended in the way alleged from Tuppen Scrase, and is therefore not entitled, according to the terms of the original grant, to "use, beare or shew forth" the crest granted to him and "his yssue" on the 13 August 1616,¹ let us investigate its true descent.

Tuppen Scrase was the eldest son of Richard Scrase of Blatchington by Julyana, daughter of John Tuppyn of Brighthelmstone. She was buried at Preston, 3 July 1620, and Richard Scrase was buried there, 21 June 1625. He died intestate, but no letters of administration of his effects were taken out, as on 23 July 1625, Tuppen Scrase exhibited in the Archdeaconry Court of Lewes a deed of gift to him of all the intestate's goods (Book B. 5, fol. 216). Richard Scrase had eight sons and two daughters. The second of these sons was John Scrase, who was baptized at Hove, 13 September 1584, and it is from him that the Scrase-Dickins family is derived.

John Scrase matriculated at Oxford, 19 March 160½, as of Hart Hall, proceeded to the degree of B.A., 23 October 1605, and was admitted of the Middle Temple, 1607. He married with Elizabeth, daughter of John de la Chambre, of Rodmell,² and by her had issue, one son and three daughters. In his will, dated 11 September 1617, and proved at Lewes, 8 June 1619 (Book A. 17, fol. 15), wherein he is described as of Hove, gent., he mentions his "father, Master Richard Scrase, of Bletchington," and after giving legacies to each of his three daughters, makes his only son, John Scrase, residuary legatee. His widow, Elizabeth, in her will, dated 15 September 1637, and proved at Lewes, 13 October 1637 (Book A. 25, fol. 55), also mentions the same four children.

The son, John Scrase, married at Sompting, 5 April 1638, with his cousin, Elizabeth, baptized at Brighton, 21 August 1621, the eldest daughter of Richard Scrase (another younger brother of Tuppen Scrase), by Elizabeth, daughter of Henry Goring, of Horsham, and widow of one Jenner.³ Elizabeth, the wife of John Scrase, after his death in 1662, was re-married at Hove, 29 April 1663, to Richard Alderton. This John Scrase had issue, three sons (1) Richard, baptized at Hove, 7 November 1645; (2) William, baptized there, 11 August 1650, and (3) Henry, baptized there, 18 April 1653.

William Scrase, the second of these sons, married at Tillington, 4 October 1672, with Mary Alderton, and was buried at Hove, 5 April 1693. He had issue, five sons and two daughters. His sons were (1) Richard, baptized at Hove, 29 July 1673, and buried there, 23 September following; (2) Richard, baptized there, 16 October, 1674, who married at Stanmer, 25 October 1716, Having thus shown that the family of Scarse-Pickins is not descended in the way alleged from Tupper Scarse, and is therefore not entitled, according to the terms of the original grant, to "any house or share forth" the estate granted to him and "his issue" on the 13 August 1616, let us investigate the true descent.

Tupper Scarse was the eldest son of Richard Scarse of Hatchington by Juliana, daughter of John Tupper of Brightelmston. She was buried at Preston 3 July 1630, and Richard Scarse was buried there 21 June 1635. He died intestate but no letters of administration of his effects were taken out as on 28 July 1635 Tupper Scarse exhibited in the Archdeaconry Court of Lewes a deed of gift to him of all the intestate goods (Book A. 5, fol. 216). Richard Scarse had eight sons and two daughters. The second of these sons was John Scarse, who was baptised at Hove 13 September 1584, and it is from him that the Scarse-Pickins family is derived.

John Scarse matriculated at Oxford, 19 March 1601, as of Hart Hall, proceeded to the degree of B.A., 23 October 1605, and was admitted of the Middle Temple, 1607. He married with Elizabeth, daughter of John de la Chambre of Redmill, and by her had issue, one son and three daughters. In his will, dated 11 September 1617, and proved at Lewes 8 June 1619 (Book A. 17, fol. 16), wherein he is described as of Hove, gent., he mentions his "father Master Richard Scarse of Hatchington," and after giving legacies to each of his three daughters, makes his only son, John Scarse, residuary legatee. His widow, Elizabeth, in her will, dated 15 September 1637, and proved at Lewes 13 October 1637 (Book A. 25, fol. 65), also mentions the same four children.

The son, John Scarse, married at Southampton 5 April 1638, with his cousin, Elizabeth, baptised at Hatchington 21 August 1621, the eldest daughter of Richard Scarse (another younger brother of Tupper Scarse), by Elizabeth, daughter of Henry Goring, of Horsham, and widow of one Towner. Elizabeth, the wife of John Scarse, after his death in 1662, was re-married at Hove, 29 April 1663, to Richard Alderton. This John Scarse had issue, three sons (1) Richard, baptised at Hove 7 November 1615; (2) William, baptised there 11 August 1620, and (3) Henry, baptised there 18 April 1623.

William Scarse, the second of these sons, married at Tillington, 4 October 1672, with Mary Alderton, and was buried at Hove 5 April 1693. He had issue, five sons and two daughters. His sons were (1) Richard, baptised at Hove 29 July 1673, and buried there 23 September following; (2) Richard, baptised there 16 October 1674, who married at Stannett, 25 October 1716.

with Katharine, daughter of Charles Harrison ; (3) John, baptised at Hove, 14 December 1675 ; (4) Henry, baptized there, 1 May 1677 and (5) William.

William, the fifth son, married at All Saints, Lewes, 25 December 1706, with Elizabeth, another daughter of Charles Harrison. He died 22 Nov. 1726, and was buried at St. Nicholas Church, Brighton, where there is an altar-tomb to his memory. Letters of administration of his effects were granted 20 September 1727 out of P.C.C. to his widow, Elizabeth. The latter, in her will, dated 3 July 1731, and proved 6 June 1734 (P.C.C. 144, Oakham), mentioned her sister, Katharine Scrase, her brother, Charles Harrison, and her children, Charles Scrase (whom she described as her eldest son and made an executor), William, Henry, Catharine, and Frances. She was buried at Stanmer, 18 August 1732, and there is an M.I. to her in the church there. Her first son was William Scrase, baptized at Seaford, 21 December 1707, and buried at Stanmer, 9 October 1718, and her son Charles Scrase was baptized at Seaford, 17 March 1708.

Charles Scrase married, 13 June 1742, with Sarah, daughter of Richard Turner, died 13 July 1792 and was buried at Brighton, where, in St. Nicholas church, is an M.I. to him.¹ He had two children, Elizabeth, married to William Smith, who died s.p., and Sally, married to Anthony Dickins, whence the Scrase-Dickins family. He practised as an attorney-at-law at Brighton and in London. By his will, dated "in the 83rd year of my age" on 3 December 1791, and proved with a codicil, 4 February 1792 (P.C.C. 109, Fountaine), he settled his manor of Brighton (he really had a moiety of it only), with the manor house called Steine House and his farms in Brighton, Ditchling, Blatchington, and elsewhere in Sussex on the sons of his daughter, Sally Dickins, requiring each "as he comes into the property," to take the name and arms of Scrase and be called "Scrase-Dickins."

The "Lineage" states that "the family of Scrase, originally of Danish extraction, held lands in Sussex before and at the period of the Norman Conquest, as appears by the General Survey." Mr. Lower quoted this statement, which is taken from a note in Berry, and remarked that he "could find no documentary evidence for it and that Domesday Book and other early records of the Norman period make no mention of the name." This remark of Mr. Lower is well founded. The next allegation in the "Lineage" is that "from Nicholas Scras who in 10 E. I was vicecomes or sheriff, an office at that time of great trust and power, descended Richard Scrase of Hambleton in Sussex, styled Valettus ad coronam," etc. No Nicholas Scrase was Sheriff in 10 E. I (1281), with Katharine, daughter of Charles Harrison; (3) John, baptised at Hove, 11 December 1875; (4) Henry, baptised there, 1 May 1877 and (5) William.

William, the fifth son, married at All Saints, Lower, 25 December 1700, with Elizabeth, another daughter of Charles Harrison. He died 22 Nov. 1728, and was buried at St. Nicholas Church, Brighton, where there is an altar-tomb to his memory. Letters of administration of his effects were granted 20 September 1727 out of P.C.C. to his widow, Elizabeth. The latter, in her will, dated 2 July 1731, and proved 6 June 1734 (P.C.C. 114, Ockham), mentioned her sister, Katharine Scarce, her brother, Charles Harrison, and her children, Charles Scarce (whom she described as her eldest son and made an executor), William, Henry, Katharine, and Francis. She was buried at Stannum, 18 August 1732, and there is an M.I. to her in the church there. Her first son was William Scarce, baptised at Stedford, 21 December 1707, and buried at Stannum, 9 October 1718, and her son Charles Scarce was baptised at Stedford, 17 March 1707.

Charles Scarce married, 12 June 1712, with Sarah, daughter of Richard Turner, died 12 July 1792 and was buried at Brighton, where in St. Nicholas church is an M.I. to him. He had two children, Elizabeth, married to William Smith, who died s.p., and Sally, married to Anthony Dickins, whence the Scarce-Dickins family. He practised as an attorney-at-law at Brighton and in London. By his will, dated "in the 83rd year of my age" on 3 December 1791, and proved with a codicil, 4 February 1792 (P.C.C. 109, Fontaine), he settled his manor of Brighton (he really had a moiety of it only), with the manor house called Steine House and his farms in Brighton, Hatching, Blatchington, and elsewhere in Sussex on the sons of his daughter, Sally Dickins, regarding each "as he comes into the property," to take the name and arms of Scarce and be called "Scarce-Dickins."

The "lineage" states that "the family of Scarce, originally of Danish extraction, held lands in Sussex before and at the period of the Norman Conquest, as appears by the General Survey." Mr. Lower quoted this statement which is taken from a note in Perry, and remarked that he "could find no documentary evidence for it and that Domesday Book and other early records of the Norman period make no mention of the name." This remark of Mr. Lower is well founded. The next allegation in the "lineage" is that "from Nicholas Scarce who in 10 H. I. was vicar of St. Peter's, an office at that time of great trust and power, descended Richard Scarce of Hatching in Sussex, styled Valentin, and 'et cetera' etc. No Nicholas Scarce was shown in 10 H. I. (1121).

The inscription to the memory of Charles Scarce and his father are printed in Sussex Arch. Soc. vol. 10 and 11. The inscription to his mother at Stannum runs: "Here lies the remains of Elizabeth Scarce (daughter of Charles Harrison, Esq. and Katharine, his wife of Lower, and sister of Charles Harrison, Esq. of Sutton, in this county), widow of William Scarce, who has lived at Brighton. She died on the 17th of August 1722, aged 22."

or at any other time, but according to the Record Office List of Sheriffs, Nicholas le Gras was Sheriff of Surrey and Sussex in 1280 and 1282. The writer's opinion is that the family of Scrase is derived from that of Scures; but anyhow in 1280 it was established in Sussex. One instance, and that not the earliest, may be given. In 1262 or 1263, Geoffrey Scrase and Joan his wife were plaintiffs, and the Prior of Lewes tenant in a fine then levied as to lands in Patheleswy,¹ and about 1265, Geoffrey Scrase was a juror on an inquest holden at Lewes as to the rebels after the Barons' War.²

The Richard Scrase styled "Valettus," etc., was the only son of Richard Scrase of Hangleton, whose will, dated 21 February 1480, was proved at Lambeth, 27 November 1487 (P.C.C., 5 Milles). By it he directed that he should be buried at Preston, near his deceased wives, Alice and Malma. Richard Scrase, the Valettus, who was also of Hangleton (not Hambleton), and was admitted of Lincoln's Inn, 1486, left a will, dated 1 February 1499-1500, and proved at Lambeth, 19 May 1500 (P.C.C. 1, Moone). He directed that he should be buried at Preston, beside his father and mother, and mentions his wife, Alice. The brass plate on his tomb in the chancel of Preston church mentioned in the "Lineage," was probably put up about the end of the sixteenth century,³ and after being treated as rubbish by church restorers, it, in 1883, found a resting place on a wall in Portslade church. The eldest of his four sons was Richard Scrase of Blatchington, who, according to the "Lineage," died in 1519, but who, in fact, was buried at Preston, 5 April 1549, leaving a will dated 15 March 1549, and proved 4 July 1549 (P.C.C. 34, Populwell). By his wife, Mary de la Chambre,⁴ this Richard Scrase had two sons (1) Richard Scrase, who died about 1573, unmarried, and a lunatic, so found by Inquisition,⁵ and (2) Edward Scrase, of Blatchington, who, according to the "Lineage," died in 1579. Really he was buried at Preston, 10 May 1576, and his will dated 25 April 1576, was proved 5 June following (P.C.C. 11, Carew). By his wife, Agnes, Edward Scrase had two sons, the elder of whom was the above-named Richard Scrase, who married with Julyana Tuppyn.

at any other time, but according to the Record Office list of Sheriff Nicholas in 1280 was Sheriff of Surrey and Sussex in 1280 and 1281. The writer's opinion is that the family of Scarre is derived from that of Scars, but anyhow in 1280 it was established in Sussex. One instance, and that not the earliest, may be given. In 1282 or 1283 Geoffrey Scarre and Joan his wife were plaintiffs and the Prior of Lewes tenant in a fine then listed as to lands in Pothelwy, and about 1285 Geoffrey Scarre was a juror on an inquest held at Lewes as to the robes after the famous War.

The Richard Scarre styled "Valentin", etc., was the only son of Richard Scarre of Hanchington, whose will dated 21 February 1487 was proved at Lambeth, 27 November 1487 (P.C.C. 5 Miles). By it he directed that he should be buried at Preston, near his deceased wives, Alice and Maline. Richard Scarre, the Valentin, who was also of Hanchington (not Hanchington) and was admitted of Lincoln's Inn 1486, left a will dated 1 February 1490-1500, and proved at Lambeth, 19 May 1500 (P.C.C. 1 Moore). He directed that he should be buried at Preston, beside his father and mother, and mentions his wife Alice. The brass plate on his tomb in the chancel of Preston church mentioned in the "Lincage", was probably put up about the end of the sixteenth century, and after being treated as rubbish by church restorers, it in 1883 found a resting place on a wall in Pothelwy church. The eldest of his four sons was Richard Scarre of Hanchington who, according to the "Lincage", died in 1519, but who, in fact, was buried at Preston, 5 April 1519, leaving a will dated 15 March 1517, and proved 4 July 1519 (P.C.C. 34 Topham). By his wife, Mary, he had two sons (1) Richard Scarre, who died about 1573, unmarried, and a daughter, so found by Hanchington, and (2) Edward Scarre of Hanchington, who, according to the "Lincage", died in 1579. Really he was buried at Preston, 10 May 1576, and his will dated 25 April 1576, was proved 5 June following (P.C.C. 11 Green). By his wife, Agnes, Edward Scarre had two sons, the elder of whom was the above-named Richard Scarre, who married with Juliana Tappin.

Curia Regis Roll. No. 72. 4. Hen. 3. m. 4.

Somerset.—Vitalis Engaine and Roger Gurnet sued William de Cantilupe and Mabel, his wife, for a carucate and a half of land in Wurle, and they sued Elias de Bellocampo for a carucate and a half of land in the same vill. The pleadings give these pedigrees:—

The land had been given to Beatrice in frank marriage, and if she died s.p., was to remain to Matilda, her sister. Matilda had issue William, John and Andrew, who were all older than Elias, but they had left England for Normandy, and had renounced all their rights. Elias pleaded that all the male heirs of Geoffrey de Limesi had renounced the English allegiance, but Ralph de Bellocampo put in a claim for the sons of Andrew. This suit occurs in Bracton's Note Book (see Genealogist, N.S., vol. vi, p. 10).

A later suit of 9 H. 3 shews that the father of Vitalis Engaine was named Richard, and the father of William de Courtenay was named Robert.

N.B.—Reginald Fitz Urse was one of those implicated in the murder of Thomas à Becket.

Matilda stated that Sarra was in Normandy and married there and was out of the allegiance. She also held land there which was as much the right of Matilda as of Sarra. Sarra replied by her attorney, that she was not married and had never held any land in Normandy. Matilda stated that King Richard had married the said Matilda and Sarra to two brothers Geoffrey de Lascelles and William de Lascelles, who held the said lands both in England and Normandy, until King John had lost Normandy, and when the King of France deforced Geoffrey of his land in Normandy, the said Geoffrey came to England and held all the land in England with the said Matilda, and William had stayed abroad with Sarra and held her lands in Normandy. The suit was dismissed until Sarra should come to the peace and allegiance of the King. (See an article by Mr. J. H. Round on "The Heirs of Richard de Lucy, Genealogist, N.S., vol. xv, p. 129.)

Curia Regis Roll. No. 121. Mich. 24—25. Hen. 3. m. 24.
 King.—The King sued Lambert de Minton for the advowson of the churches of Kibbek and Kirkston, which he claimed as an escheat of the Breton lands &c. the Honor of Richmond.

Thomas de Minton, seized temp. Ric. 1.
 Thomas.
 Lambert de Minton, the defendant.
 The King's attorney stated that the Minton had held the advowson only as Bailiffs of the Earl of Richmond, but Lambert produced a grant of the manors in fee by Conan, Duke of Brittany and Earl of Richmond, and the King withdrew his suit.

Curia Regis Roll. Wilby and Raster. 25. Hen. 3. m. 12.
 Salop.—A long suit in which William Pagyn, William de Cantilupe, and Roger Gernot claimed the Honor of Montgomery in Wales, which had been granted to Baldwin de Bolleby by Henry I on his marriage with Sibyl de la Palsey, the King's niece (nephew).

The issue of Baldwin by a second wife was as follows:—

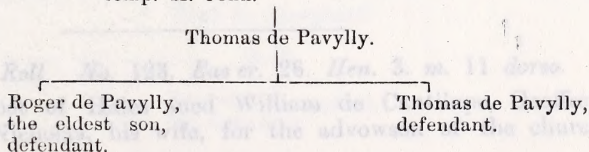

A verdict was given for Vitalis Engaine and William de Cantilupe.

Suff.—In another suit Vitalis Engaine, William de Cantilupe and Roger Gernet, sued the King for the manor of Badmundefeld, co. Suffolk, Hillaria Trussebut, who had held the manor in dower, having died. In this suit it is stated that a Robert de Bullers had died seised of the Honor of Montgomery and had died s.p., and had been succeeded by his brother Baldwin, who had also died s.p., and that Stephen de Stanton, the nepos of Baldwin de Bullers, had enfeoffed Thomas de Erdington in the manor in the reign of King John.

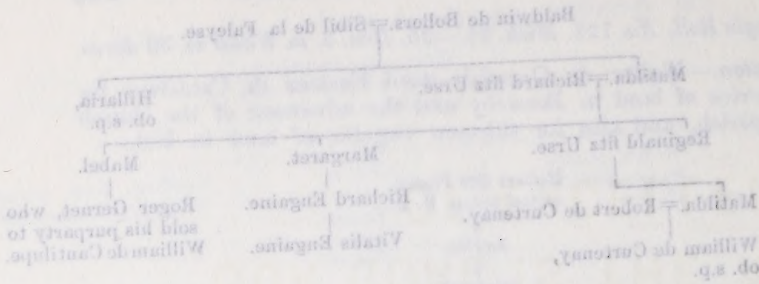

Curia Regis Roll. No. 122. Hillary and Trinity. 25. Hen. 3. m. 17.

Berks.—The King sued Thomas de Pavyly for the manor of Wyly, and he sued Roger de Pavyly for the manor of Linlegh, claiming them as escheats.

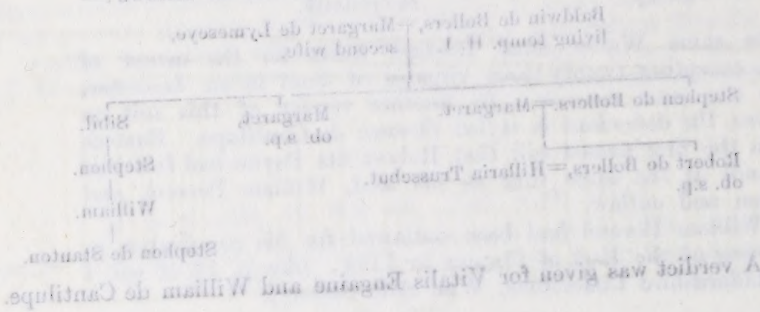

Thiffonia, sister of Geoffrey Malet, who had granted the manors to her temp. K. John.

PREDECESSORS FROM THE PLAIN ROLLS.

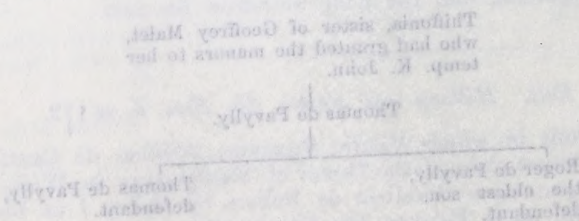

The issue of Baldwin by a second wife was as follows:—

In another suit Vitalis Engaine, William de Cantilupe and Roger Gernel, sued the King for the manor of Badminton, co. Wilts. Hilary de Bolles, who had held the manor in dower, having died. In this suit it is stated that a Walter de Bolles had died seized of the Honor of Montgomerie, and had died s.p., and had been succeeded by his brother Baldwin, who had also died s.p., and that Stephen de Stanton, the nephew of Baldwin de Bolles, had entailed Thomas de Fyngton in the manor in the reign of King John.

² Samuel Marsh had issue by each of his wives, viz., by his first wife (besides probably other issue) (1) the Rev. Samuel Grame Marsh, (2) Henry Marsh, of Brackenbury, in Harefield, co. Middlesex, (3) Caroline, wife of William Adam Williams; by his second wife (who was "founder's kin" to Morden College) he had (besides possibly other issue) (1) John Marsh, born 11 Jan. and bap. 25 Feb. 1777, at St. George's, Bloomsbury, living 3 March 1793; (2) the Rev. William Marsh, born 1778; educated at Pembroke College, Cambridge; B.A., 1804; M.A., 1808; Chaplain to Morden College, 1819–1842; died 13 May 1842, aged 64, and was buried in Morden Chapel, having married and left issue. (See his monumental inscription in Drake's Hasted's Kent, vol. i. p. 127); (3) Elizabeth, wife of (—) Williams. (See note 1 above).

⁴ Pedigree of Robinson and connections entered at the College of Arms (4, D. xiv, 37) in 1712. In it it is stated that Sir Edward Wood was "a younger son of the family of Wood, of Shirewood, co. Salop." In the memorial for armorial ensigns, 30 Oct. 1767, by his grandson Sir William Burnaby, Baronet, he is styled "Knight Banneret and Lieut.-General."

⁶ Her will as "of Serjeants Inn, Fleet Street, London," dat. 4 to 5 and proved C.P.C., 15 Jan. 1778 (28 Hay). She leaves her estate of Valence to her nephew "Henry Merttins Bird, Esquire"; mentions her sister, Mrs. Mary Bird, nephew Robert Bird and nieces Mary, Catharine and Elizabeth Bird.

⁷ According to Burke's "Landed Gentry" (edit. 1847, p. 1337, under "SWABY") "Catherine, da. of Robert Bird, Esq., of Barton on the Heath, co. Warwick, by Mary, da. and coheir of John Henry Merttins, Esq., of Ketton, co. Suffolk, son of Sir George Merttins, Knt.," married 4 Sep. 1783, as his first wife, Maurice Swabey. No such son is, however, mentioned in Sir George Merttins' will, and unquestionably it is a mistake for John Henry Merttins the nephew (not a son) of Sir George. Among the marriages at Dagenham (as extracted in Colonel Chester's Collection) is on 26 March 1747 that of "Robert Boice [sic, but doubtless a mistake for Robert Bird], of Coventry, Esq., and Mary Mertins, of this parish, Lic." The date agrees and the christian names coincide.

⁸ His will dat. 25 Aug. 1739; admon. with will annexed, C.P.C., 3 Oct. 1740 to his father (276 Browne).

¹⁰ His will as "of Bedford Row, co. Middlesex, Esquire," dat. 16 March 1784, proved C.P.C. 8 June 1785 (323 Ducarel).

² Samuel Marsh had issue by each of his wives, viz. by his first wife (besides probably other issue) (1) the Rev. Samuel Danks Marsh, (2) Henry Marsh, of Blackbury, in Hartford, co. Middlesex, (3) Caroline, wife of William Adams Williams; by his second wife (who was "loved's" kin) to his son, John Marsh, born 11 Jan. and bapt. 25 Feb. 1777, at St. George's, Bloomsbury, with 3 Marsh 1703; (2) the Rev. William Marsh, born 1774; educated at Pembroke College, Cambridge; B.A. 1804; M.A. 1808; Chaplain to Newton College, 1812-1813; died 13 May 1813, aged 41, and was buried in Newton Chapel, having married and had issue. (See his monumental inscription in Drake's Wake's Acre, vol. i, p. 137.) (3) Elizabeth, wife of [...] Williams. (See note 1 above).

⁵ His wife (which fills 16 pages) is "of Throckmole Street, London, England," dated 2 July 1771 or 1772 to 2 March 1774, proved C.P.C. 6 Sep. 1770 (G22 Bolls). He rectifies the marriage settlement, 8 June 1775, with "my daughter with Elizabeth," and her husband at Bognorham; mentions "my nephew Thomas and his sister," and devises his property between his daughters Elizabeth Merritt and Mary, wife of Robert Bolls, rectifying the marriage settlement of the latter, 21 March 1740 (C.P.C. 1740-7).

⁶ Her will is "of Bognorham, in Kent Street, London," dat. 4 to 5 and proved C.P.C. 12 Jan. 1775 (G22 Bolls). She leaves her estate of Yorks to her nephew "Henry Merritt Bolls, Esquire," mentions her sister, Mrs. Mary Bolls, nephew Robert Bolls and niece Mary, Catherine and Elizabeth Bolls.

⁷ According to Burke's "Aristocratic Family" (vol. i, p. 1337, under "Hume"), "Catherine, da. of Robert Bolls Esq., of Borton on the Heath, co. Warwick, by Mary, da. and coheir of John Henry Mervin Esq., of Borton, co. Suffolk, was w. of Sir George Mervin Bart., married 4 Sep. 1782, as his first wife. Mervin Esq. was such son as is however mentioned in Sir George Mervin's will, and undoubtedly it is a mistake for John Henry Mervin the nephew (not a son) of Sir George. Among the marriages at Bognorham (as entered in Colonel Chester's Collection) is on 22 March 1747 that of "Robert Bolls Esq., but doubtless a mistake for Robert Bolls of Coventry, Esq., and Mary Merritt of this parish, Esq." The date agrees and the Christian names suitable.

⁸ His will dat. 25 Aug. 1730, when with will annexed, C.P.C. 3 Oct. 1740 to his father (G22 Bolls).

¹⁰ His will is "of Bedford Row co. Middlesex, Esquire," dat. 16 March 1751, proved C.P.C. 8 June 1755 (G22 Bolls).

Southwark."

The following entry relates to a nephew of Anne Lady Bennett:—
1766, April 11. "Joseph Brand, Esq., formerly Treasurer of this College and nephew of Lady Morden, died at his house at May's Hill, Greenwich, on Thursday 3 April, aged 74, and was buried in this chapel in the Morden vault of Sir John Morden on Friday the 11th of April."

MONUMENT.

No monument exists to the name of Bennett, but the following one, to a brother of Anne, Lady Bennet, is in the aisle of the chapel, on a slab of dark marble :—"Sub hoc marmore depositæ sunt reliquie THOMÆ BRAND, Ar., fratris SUSANNÆ, uxoris JOHANNIS MORDEN, Baronetti, qui hanc capellam et collegium, tam pro animarum salute, quam pro corporum sustentatione, Mercatorum, condidit; atque etiam MARIÆ BRAND, conjugis charissimæ. Obierunt, THOMAS 13^o die aprilis anno ætatis 75, connubii, 47, salutis 1719; MARIA 16^o die Junii, anno ætatis 74, Christi 1724. Nemo ante obitum felix"

(2 Bolton.) SIR JOHN BENNET, Knt and Serjeant at Law—in good health—to be buried near my wife in the vault I have made in Witham church. Whereas by indenture 29 Nov. 1682 (being my marriage settlement with my late wife Dame Anna Bennet, dec^d) my eldest son John Bennet, Esqr., one of the Masters in Chancery, will at my death be entitled to the manors of Newland and Chipping in Witham, co. Essex, and to premises at Greenwich, co. Kent, now I confirm the same and devise to him a house and premises since purchased at Witham. To him my lands and premises in Sedgwick park in the parishes of Nuthurst, Broadwater and Oftham [Oftham?], co. Sussex, and, tho' I do not entail these, I desire my said son to keep them in the family. To my second son Thomas Bennet, one of the Masters in Chancery, 3 messuages in Thames street by London bridge in the parish of St Magnus the Martyr, charged with an annuity of £20 granted by me to "my sister Pengrey," now of St Clement Danes, widow, for her life and with an additional one of £12 which I now give her. My said son to retain the s^d premises as long as may be in the family. To him 5 East India bonds of £100 each, my law books in my house in Essex street and the lease of my said house. To my two sons Joseph Bennet and Alexander Bennet my South Sea stock equally. To my granddaughter Anne Bennet, dau. of my son Joseph Bennet, the annuity of £40 due on the death of "my long acquaintance and good friend" M^{rs} Ann Squibb, of Covent Garden, widow. To my daughter Bennet, wife of my son John Bennet, all my jewels, and the great silver bason wherein the said John & the rest of my children were baptized, which I desire "to be made use of on such occasions for his and his children's children as long as may be." To her also "my father's & my mother's picture in little & my mother's in water colours drawn by the famous M^r Cooper." To my daughter Bennet, wife of my son Thomas Bennet, my own picture drawn in my robes, for "as to any plate, it would be useless, she has so much more than she can use." To my daughter, wife of my son Joseph Bennet, 20 broad pieces of gold &c. also "the marrow scoop given me by M^{rs} Plunkett." To my daughter, wife of my son Alexander Bennet, two of my largest salvers (except the great salver that was my wife's) and "all my aggett knives and forks." To my daughter Hungerford, wife of Walter Hungerford, Esq., "my gold snush [snuff?] box not knowing what else I have can be acceptable to her." To my granddaughter Frances Bennet, dau. of my son John Bennet, my gold watch and half a dozen of "large silver plates with my Lady Morden's arms." To my grandsons John Bennet and Benjamin Bennet, sons of my son John Bennet, to my grandson, Philip Bennet, son of my son Joseph Bennet, to granddaughter Clara Bennet dau. of my son Alexander Bennet, certain bequests. To granddaughter Anne Bennet, da. of my son Joseph Bennet "all my daughter Lysborn's books." To sister Pengrey & to my brother Benjamin Bennet, Esq., 10 guineas each. Dated 29 Nov. 1723. Proved 22 Jan^y 1723/4 by John Bennet, son and executor.

(3) Holton) Sir John Bennett, Knt and Sergeant at Law—in good health—to be buried near my wife in the vault I have made in Wiltshire church. Witnesses by indenture 29 Nov 1683 (being my marriage settlement with my late wife Anne whom I have dec'd) my eldest son John Bennett Esq; one of the Masters in Chancery, will at my death be entitled to the manors of Newland and Chipping in Wiltshire, co. Wilts, and to premises at Gillingham, co. Kent, now I confirm the same and devise to him a house and premises since purchased at Wiltshire. To him my lands and premises in Redwick park in the parish of Northwick, Herefordshire and in Oldham (Giffham) co. Sussex, and the I do not entail these, I desire my said son to keep them in the family. To my second son Thomas Bennett, one of the Masters in Chancery, 3 messuages in Thomas street by London bridge in the parish of St. Magnus the Martyr, charged with an annuity of £20 granted by me to "my sister Parnsey" now of St. Clement Danes, widow, for her life and with an additional one of £12 which I now give her. My said son to retain the premises as long as may be in the family. To him 5 leasehold tenements of £100 each, my late house in my house in Essex street and the lease of my said house. To my two sons Joseph Bennett and Alexander Bennett my South Sea stock equally. To my granddaughter Anne Bennett, dau. of my son Joseph Bennett, the annuity of £40 due on the death of "my long acquaintance and good friend" Mrs. Ann Spence of Covent Garden, widow. To my daughter Bennett, wife of my son John Bennett, all my jewels and the great silver basin wherein the said John & the rest of my children were baptised, which I desire "to be made use of on such occasions for him and his children's children as long as may be." To her also "my father's & my mother's picture in little & my mother's in water colour, drawn by the famous Mr. Cooper." To my daughter Bennett, wife of my son Thomas Bennett, my own picture drawn in my robes for "as to any plate, it would be useless she has so much more than she can use." To my daughter's wife of my son Joseph Bennett 20 broad pieces of gold and also "the nursery scoop given me by Mr. Plunkett." To my daughter's wife of my son Alexander Bennett two of my highest silver (except the great silver that was my wife's) and "all my silver knives and forks." To my daughter Bennett's wife of Walter Wrayford Esq; "my gold snuff (snuff) box not knowing what else I have can be acceptable to her." To my granddaughter Anne Bennett, dau. of my son John Bennett, my gold watch and half a dozen of "large silver plates with my lady Bennett's arms." To my grandsons John Bennett and Benjamin Bennett, sons of my son John Bennett, to my grandson Philip Bennett son of my son Joseph Bennett, to granddaughter Anne Bennett dau. of my son Alexander Bennett, certain bequests. To granddaughter Anne Bennett, dau. of my son Joseph Bennett "all my daughter Lady's books." To sister Parnsey & to my brother Benjamin Bennett, £10 guineas each. Dated 29 Nov. 1733. Proved 22 Jan. 1734 by John Bennett, son and executor.

1858. On 11 June 1858, the following directions as to his burial:—
 "And I will that if it shall please God to call me to his mercy in any place excepted hereby or some other place in Staffordshire, then my body to be decently brought forth and buried within the parish of St Andrew Undershaft in London where the will of Sir Thomas Office, dated 5 Aug 1680, contains the following directions as to his burial:—

 Heritage of Office.

I am a parishioner, in the myddle Ile of the Chauncell of the same Church within the Queere uppon the Northe syde of the same middle Ile, overagainste the buriall place there of Mr David Woodroff, Aldermanne deceased, wheare Dame Johan my late wief lyethe nowe buried, wheare I will some convenient Tombe shalbe made."

Sir Thomas Offley's tomb has suffered at the hands of well-meaning church "restorers," and the coats of arms have evidently been displaced and re-coloured by persons innocent of heraldic knowledge. A representation of this monument forms the frontispiece to the last volume of The Genealogist, but as the inscriptions thereon could not be reproduced in the photograph, they have been printed below. At the top of the monument are three shields of arms. In the centre are the arms and crest of Offley, as borne by Sir Thomas at the date of the Visitation of London, 1568:—Argent, on a cross fleurettée Azure, between four Cornish choughs Sable, beaked Or, membered Gules, a lion passant guardant of the fourth. Crest—A demi-lion rampant per pale Or and Azure, gorged with a collar counter compony of the second and first, lined of the second, holding in both paws an olive branch Vert, fructed Gold.¹ On the right, over the kneeling figure of Dame Joane, though perhaps originally over Sir Thomas, is the same coat, impaled with the arms of Nechells or Nicholls, which should be—Azure, on a chevron Argent, between in chief two eagles displayed and in base a lion passant Or, three torteaux, each charged with a leopard's face of the second. This last coat is repeated singly in a lozenge over the figure of Sir Thomas, though it should probably be above that of his wife. In two compartments over their effigies are the dates of their respective deaths, 1582 and 1578. At the base of the monument are three more shields of arms carved in relief. That in the centre is a

By the side is a drawing of these arms and crest—Arg. a cross fleurettée Azure between four Cornish choughs (or ousells) Sable, beaked Or, memb. Gu. Crest—On a wreath Arg. and Az. a demi-lion ramp. Or, collared Az., holding between the paws an olive branch Vert, leaved Or. (See also Harl. MSS. 1,359, f. 14, and f. 111; 6,169, f. 9 and Add. MS. 4,966, f. 40.) This coat appears, except that the cross in the arms is flory not fleurettée, and the lion in the crest is not collared, in the Visitation of London 1633-5 (Harl. Soc., vol. xvii, 130), where it is impaled with that of Harding. Sir Thomas Offley's descendants continued to bear the original coat (see Visitations of Staffordshire 1614 and 1663-4, William Salt Society), and presumably the variation of the arms was strictly confined to Hugh Offley and his issue. In the Visitations of Surrey, as printed by the Harl. Society, vol. xliii, however, the altered coat is attributed to the descendants of William Offley, another of Sir Thomas' half-brothers, and it appears on the monument of a descendant of this branch at Offley, co. Herts (see ante, p. 55, note 2).

I am a parishioner in the middle of the Chancel of the same Church within the Quire upon the North side of the same middle. He overgates the burial place of Mr. David Woodcock, Alderman deceased, where I have taken my late wife's body now buried, where I will some convenient Tomb shall make."

Sir Thomas Offley's tomb has suffered at the hands of well-meaning church "restorers", and the coats of arms have evidently been displaced and re-coloured by persons ignorant of heraldic knowledge. A representation of this monument forms the frontispiece to the last volume of The Genealogist, but as the inscriptions thereon could not be reproduced in the photograph they have been printed below. At the top of the monument are three shields of arms. In the centre are the arms and crest of Offley, as borne by Sir Thomas at the date of the Visitation of London, 1568: Argent on a cross quarterly Azure, between four Cornish choughs Sable, beaked Or, membered Gules, a lion passant guardant of the fourth Crest—A demilion rampant per pale Or and Azure, gorged with a collar counter compony of the second and first fimb of the second, holding in both paws an olive branch Vert, fructed Gold. On the right, over the kneeling figure of Dame Jane, though perhaps originally over Sir Thomas, is the same coat, impaled with the arms of Needhills or Niblethill, which should be—Azure, on a chevron Argent, between in chief two eagles displayed and in base a lion passant Or three torteaux, each charged with a leopard's face of the second. This last coat is repeated singly in a lozenge over the figure of Sir Thomas, though it should probably be above that of his wife. In two compartments over their effigies are the dates of their respective deaths, 1582 and 1578. At the base of the monument are three more shields of arms carved in relief. That in the centre is a

"In Add. MS. 14296 (Brit. Name of Arms under his hand and the date of his Office bearing date the first day of September 1568 and the date of the Office of the Mayor of London 1568. At the side is a drawing of these lozenge and crest—Arg. a cross quarterly Azure, between four Cornish choughs Sable, beaked Or, membered Gules, a lion passant guardant of the fourth Crest—A demilion rampant per pale Or and Azure, gorged with a collar counter compony of the second and first fimb of the second, holding in both paws an olive branch Vert, fructed Gold. Visitation of London 1568-6 (1567-68, vol. xiv, 130), where it is impaled with that of Harding. Sir Thomas Offley's descendants continued to bear the original coat (see Visitation of Staffordshire 1614 and 1634-4, William Salt Society), and presumably the variation of the arms was strictly confined to Hugh Offley and his issue. In the Visitation of Surrey, as printed by the last Society, vol. xiii, however, the altered coat is attributed to the descendants of William Offley, member of St. Thomas, Westminster, and it appears on the monument of this branch at Offley, co. These arms are evidently intended for those of the Russia Merchants' Company (vide Papworth, p. 1092). On the left beneath Sir Thomas is the coat of the Merchants of the Staple—Barry nebulée Or and Azure, on a chief Gules, a lion passant guardant of the first (vide Papworth, p. 563).

Between the effigies of Sir Thomas and his lady are the figures of their three sons, also kneeling. Just above these is the following inscription:—

Tomb of William Offley, formerly in St. Peter's Church, Chester.

The will of William Offley of London (fourth son of William Offley of Chester, by his second wife and half brother of Sir Thomas), dated 21 Dec. 1600, contains the following clause:—

"Item I will that my Executors within One year next after my decease shall cause to be made and set up in some conveniente place of the parishe of Sainte Peeter in Chestar aforesaid there still to remayne one faire table of white Allyblaster and black marble which shall cost Thirtie or flortie poundes of lawfull money of England or there aboute wherein shalbe fairely engraven as well the picture of my ffather and mother withall their children as also such wordes and sentences wrytten in ffaire letters as shalbe thoughte meete and agreable eyther for memorie or edification to be set downe by the discretion of my Executors upon the same monumente."

There is no trace now of any such monument in the Church of St. Peter, but in the churchwardens' account¹ of that parish occur the following entries¹:—

- 1627. Paid for two pound of black for the Offley's tombe & for mending other things about the said tombe, ii^s v^d.
- 1631. 14th ffer 1631 to John Walker for glasse over Mr Offley's tomb, 8^s 0.
- 1638. John Annion & Thomas Malbone for putting up the Offley's monum^t, 1^s.

Ashmole has, however, fortunately preserved a copy of the inscription upon the monument,² which runs as follows:—

IN ST. PETER'S CHURCH IN CHESTER.

Under the East window of the South Ile, is a faire Alablaster Monument Erected; wth the portraiture of a Man & Woman kneeling, under whome is this Inscriptō cut:—

The information given above, taken in connection with the will of William Rogerson (P.C.C., 17 Ayloff) seems almost conclusively to show that the Offley Manuscript is in error here, and that Elizabeth was daughter of William Rogerson, and relict of one Wright. Richard Wright was Sheriff of Chester 1490, and Mayor 1502, 1509; Robert Wright was Sheriff 1515 (Helsby's Ormerod).

There is no trace now of any such monument in the Church of St Peter but in the churchwardens' account of that parish occur the following entries:—

1637. Paid for two pound of black for the Offley's tombe & for mending other things about the said tombe, 12 s. 4 d.
1631. 14th Dec 1631 to John Walker for glasses over Mr Offley's tombe, 2 s. 0.
1638. John Anson & Thomas Malbone for putting up the Offley's monument, 1 s.

Asmole has, however, fortunately preserved a copy of the inscription upon the monument, which runs as follows:—

IN ST. PETER'S CHURCH IN CHESTER.

Under the East window of the South Ile is a fair Alabaster Monument Erected; w^{ch} the portraiture of a Man & Woman kneeling, under whom is this inscription cut:—

The information given above, taken in connection with the will of William Offley (F.C.C. 17 A. 100), seems almost conclusively to show that the Offley Manuscript is in error here, and that Elizabeth was daughter of William Robertson, and wife of one Wright. Robert Wright was Sheriff of Chester 1460, and Mayor 1502, 1503, 1504. Robert Wright was Sheriff 1510 (Hobday's Chronicle).

At the head of the monument when Ashmole's copy was taken there still remained three shields of Arms, one being the coat of the Merchants of the Staple, as depicted on the tomb of Sir Thomas Offley, and another that of the City of Chester. The third shield appears to be a sword in pale, point upwards, between three garbs (no tinctures).

OFFLEY, OF HINTON, CO. SALOP.

The pedigree of this branch of the Offley family is somewhat obscure, and its connection with the main stem is not at present apparent. That such a relationship did exist is probable, for as has been stated above in a footnote on p. 83, Mary, daughter of David Offley, was on the 8th October, 1668, licenced to marry Arthur Ward,¹ of Hinton, co Salop, a member of a family from whom, by a subsequent intermarriage, this branch of the Offleys acquired the Hinton estate. For the following pedigree the compilers are indebted to Sir Offley Wakeman, Bart., in whose family it has been for some generations:—

OFFLEY OF HINTON, CO. SALOP.

The pedigree of this branch of the Offley family is somewhat obscure, and its connection with the main stem is not at present apparent. That such a relationship did exist is probable, for as has been stated above in a footnote on p. 25, Mary, daughter of David Offley, was on the 24th October, 1668, licensed to marry Arthur Ward, of Hinton, co. Salop, a member of a family from whom by a subsequent intermarriage this branch of the Offleys acquired the Hinton estate. For the following pedigree the compiler is indebted to Sir Offley Walsingham Bart., in whose family it has been for some generations:—

Arthur Ward did not, as will be stated in the footnote on page 25, the pedigree this marriage was celebrated, but the alliance was abandoned for some unknown reason.

The upper part of this pedigree, though it shows considerable knowledge of the connections of the founder of the Offley family, is manifestly incorrect, as will be seen by a perusal of what has been already printed. Thomas, the eldest surviving son of Alderman Hugh Offley, was a considerable merchant trading between London and Germany, and was in 1594 presumably residing not at Ince in Cheshire, but in London, for on the 10 Nov. of that year his son, Hugh, was baptized at St. Andrew's Undershaft. Nor could the Joseph who appears in the above pedigree, and is there said to have died 1665, have been his son, for the confirmation of arms granted by Ryley to Francis Offley in 1654¹ proves that the latter was the only son then living of this Thomas Offley.

The parish registers of Ince for the period in question are unfortunately not in existence, but a careful examination of the episcopal transcripts at Chester has yielded this meagre result:—

1615. Thomas Offley, buried 14th September.

1637-8. Joseph Offley, gentleman, and Elizabeth Gillibrand, married 9th February.

1662. M^{rs} Mary Ophley, buried 27th September.

On the 21st Feb. 1676-7, was proved in P.C.C. (22 Hale) the following will, which, notwithstanding the discrepancy in dates, may be that of the Joseph Offley in Sir Offley Wakeman's pedigree.

Memorandum that on or about the 14th & 15th Aug. 1676 Joseph Offley, late of the Day house in the parish of Meole Brace ats Brace Meole in co. Salop gent. made his will nuncupative. To my dau. Frances £350. The rest of my estate to my son Robert Offley, whom I make executor. Witnesses, Rich. Warter, M.A., Vicar of Meole Brace, Mart: Warter.

The above particulars have been printed in the hope that further research may throw light upon this, the chief unsolved problem of the Offley pedigree.¹

In Memoriam.

On the 7th January, 1904, died at his residence, 69, St. George's Road, S.W., in his 88th year, Sir Albert William Woods, G.C.V.O., K.C.B., K.C.M.G., and (for more than thirty-four years) Garter Principal King of Arms, who for above sixty five years had been a member of the College of Arms.

As there has been a full and appreciative notice of him in The Times and elsewhere, and as, moreover, there is one (accompanied by a portrait) in this work [vol. ix, N.S., p. 241], written in 1893, it is unnecessary to do more than to continue the latter notice to the present date.

In April, 1896, he completed his 80th year, being then and for a few months afterwards in his usual excellent health, but a severe illness, late in that year, disabled him from leaving his house, though he was able, during the last seven years of his life, to transact business there, and to see anyone who had occasion to consult him, his marvellous memory of Precedent in all matters that concerned his office being as clear as ever.

Honours came upon him late in life: he was above 70, and had for above forty-five years been an active member of the Order of the Bath, when, in 1887, he was made C.B., becoming, in 1890, K.C.M.G.; in 1897, K.C.B., and in 1903, G.C.V.O., these last two honours having been conferred upon him at a date when, from age and infirmity, he was unable to display them.

The death of his only daughter, Mrs. Wollaston, on 18 March 1902, aged 58, saddened his later years, and he had long previously, 21 July 1870, lost his only son (aged 30), as also his grandson, Albert William Woods, Rouge Dragon Pursuivant of Arms (whom he and Lady Woods had practically adopted), who died 24 Jan. 1893, aged 28. His widow survives him, as also do two grandchildren, viz. :—(1), Harriet Helen Woods, the only surviving child of his son; and (2), Gerald Woods Wollaston, Barrister-at-Law, the only child of his daughter. He had the pleasure to see this grandson, who had been appointed, in 1902, Fitzalan Pursuivant Extraordinary (as he himself had been in 1838), occupy, as Junior Pursuivant, the same position in the Coronation of our present King, as he himself did in that of the late Queen Victoria.

He was buried 11 Jan. 1904, in Norwood Cemetery, the King being represented by General Sir Godfrey Clerk, K.C.V.O.

SCOTTISH ARMORIAL SEALS, by William Rae Macdonald, Carrick Pursuivant. Edinburgh (William Green and Sons).

At the end of the eighteenth century, Thomas Astle, Keeper of the Records in the Tower of London, wrote an account of seals used by the sovereigns, royal boroughs, and magnates of Scotland, and in the middle of the last century Henry Laing published the first of two volumes of Ancient Scottish Seals. Volume IV of the British Museum Catalogue of Seals is devoted to Scotland, and until this catalogue was compiled these were the only works especially dealing with the subject taken in hand by Mr. Macdonald. He has now collected together all the armorial seals contained in the abovementioned works, to which are added those to be found in Mr. Bain's Calendar of Documents Relating to Scotland, miscellaneous genealogical works, publications issued by various Clubs and Societies, and Sir William Fraser's family histories, most of which, being privately printed, are not easy of access, particularly the last-named. The chief value of Mr. Macdonald's compilation, it is needless to say, lies in the number of seals from public and private collections hitherto unnoticed in print, and from these sources we must expect, in course of time, a large addition, which will necessitate a supplementary volume. So far the catalogue comprises some 3,000 specimens, and if a careful study is made of the result, it will be noticed that a difference between English and Scottish regularity in following the hereditary coat is manifest. Prior to the sixteenth century, our brethren over the Border appear to have been under no authority, and to have differenced their arms without hindrance. Mr. Macdonald lays some stress on the exact size of the seals being noted, and this should be borne in mind by those who have an opportunity of adding information to this particular branch of heraldry, although, so long as the arms, legend and general character of the seal are preserved, its dimensions should be regarded as of secondary importance.

Who's Who. 1904. London (A. and C. Black).

This publication in its revived form has become quite an indispensable work of reference, but the biographical details occasionally show signs of having been communicated by the person whose career is described, with the result that they savour too much of the journalistic interviewer. We regret the inclusion of more than one soi-disant baronet, whose claims are more than doubtful. The tables which used to form the first portion of this work have this year for the first time been omitted and issued as a separate book entitled Who's Who Year Book.

We have also received:—NEOLITHIC MAN IN NORTH-EAST SURREY.
By Walter Johnson and William Wright. London (Elliot Stock).

Notes and Queries.

ROYAL DESCENT OF THE TREFFRY FAMILY (ante pp. 215, 216).—The whole of Sir John Maclean's pedigrees—valuable as they are in some respects—require revision. Mr. George A. Taylor calls attention to the supposed marriage of Sir Oliver Carminow with Elizabeth Holland and to the descendants of their supposed daughter Johanna. If I had to give advice, I should say, "Don't believe a word of it until you have better evidence than that which is furnished in the History of Trigg Minor." Sir John Maclean is not even consistent with himself. In vol. iii, pp. 158, 159, he gives Elizabeth Pomeroy as the first, and Isolda Ferrers as the second wife of Sir Oliver Carminow; Elizabeth, Matilda, Sir Roger, Mr. Thomas, John, and Richard as the issue of the first marriage, and Margery and Johanna, who married Sir John Petit, as the issue of the second marriage; whereas, in vol. ii, p. 252, he makes Sir John Petit marry Johanna, daughter of Sir Oliver Carminow by Elizabeth Holland. If, as seems probable, for reasons given in the notes, the Visitation pedigree [Harl. Soc., pp. 296, 297] is correct, Johanna, who married Sir John Petit, was the daughter of Sir Oliver Carminow by Isolda, daughter of Reynold Ferrers. With this before him, one would think there ought not to have been much difficulty in deducing a royal descent, without Wm's Wm's 1904. London (A. and C. Black).

This publication in its revised form has become quite an indispensable work of reference, but the biographical details occasionally show signs of having been communicated by the person whose career is described, with the result that they savour too much of the journalistic interview. We regret the inclusion of more than one somewhat barren, whose claims are more than doubtful. The tables which used to form the last portion of this work have this year for the first time been omitted and issued as a separate book entitled Wm's Wm's Year Book.

Notes and Queries.

ROYAL DESCENT OF THE TERTIARY FAMILY (ante pp. 216, 216).—The whole of Sir John Macdonald's pedigree—valuable as they are in some respects—requires revision. Mr. George A. Taylor calls attention to the supposed marriage of Sir Oliver Carnarvon with Elizabeth Holland and to the descendants of their supposed daughter Johanna. If I had to give advice I should say, "Don't believe a word of it until you have better evidence than that which is furnished in the Visitation Pedigree, Sir John Macdonald is not even consistent with himself. In vol. iii. pp. 152, 153 he gives Elizabeth Fomery as the first, and Isabella Fomery as the second wife of Sir Oliver Carnarvon; Elizabeth, Elizabeth, Sir Roger, Sir Thomas John, and Richard as the issue of the first marriage, and Margery and Johanna, who married Sir John Felt, as the issue of the second marriage; whereas in vol. ii. p. 252 he makes Sir John Felt marry Johanna, daughter of Sir Oliver Carnarvon by Elizabeth Holland. It is as absurd as possible for reasons given in the notes, the Visitation Pedigree (last book pp. 206, 207) is correct Johanna, who married Sir John Felt, was the daughter of Sir Oliver Carnarvon by Isabella daughter of Reynold Felt. With this before him one would think there ought not to have been much difficulty in detecting a royal descent without having recourse to an unknown marriage of an unknown daughter of the Fair Maid of Kent.

The Carminow pedigree requires re-setting in the light of the recent publications of the Public Record Office. As it stands, omitting unnecessary details, we have Yet we find in the Patent Roll Calendar, 14 Edward II (1321), p. 561, an inspeximus and confirmation of a writing by Oliver de Carminow, brother and heir of Roger de Carminow, dated 13 Edward II, granting to John de Carminow, his brother, his reversion of the manor of Tamerton. And again (Pat. Rolls, 2 Edward II) in 1309 we have the presentation of Roger son of Roger de Carminow to St. Stadian (Stythians) in the diocese of Exeter.

From these references it would certainly appear that Oliver had an elder brother Roger in Holy Orders. The description of the presentee, as "son of," is, I admit, unusual. Two explanations are offered:—(a), Roger son of Roger de Carminow may be merely equivalent to Roger Rogers of Carminow, in which case he would not be a Carminow at all; or (b), it may be intended to emphasize the fact that Roger Carminow's son Roger, who was known to be the eldest son, was presented. If we accept the latter explanation, and also suppose the presentee to have been a religious, in law he would be regarded as civilly dead, and Oliver would succeed as a matter of course; in which case, however, it would be rather as heir-at-law of his father Roger than as heir of his brother. The difficulty is not surmounted if we prefer the former explanation, for we have still to account for the Roger of the inspeximus.

Of the other brothers the rolls do not supply us with any traits of character which would lead us to infer that, at this time, the Carminow family was particularly zealous in the pursuit of piety. Mivan's name appears amongst the number of those who illegally seized a ship at Hayleford (Helford) in 1318, while his brother John was, the same year, indicted on a charge of wrecking at Padstow.

ARMS OF NEVILL OF COUNTIES NOTTS AND SUFFOLK.—Will any reader of The Genealogist kindly inform me what was the origin or history of the following Nevill coat:—"Azure, three bustards volentes volare Or." It is mentioned in Kent's Heraldry, 1717, and ascribed to the Nevills of Nottinghamshire. It also belongs to the Nevills of Long Melford, Suffolk. See the monument of Isaac Nevill in Freckenham Church, Suffolk. The arms are said to have been granted to Robert de Nevill temp. John.

And again (Vol. 10, p. 100) in 1309 we have the presentation of Roger son of Roger de Carninow to St. Sebastian (St. Sebastian) in the church of Exeter. From these references it would certainly appear that Oliver had an elder brother Roger in Holy Orders. The description of the presentee as "son of," is a bit unusual.
